FINE JEWELRY

The ancient Greeks, expert goldsmiths, were fond of intricately carved gold ornaments without colored gems.

Taxation Level Depends On Government Spending

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

In taxation, as in the physical world, every action has a reaction, Ronald Robertson, director of the Canadian Tax Foundation, comments in an article in the current issue of the Canadian Tax Journal.

"The prime example of this," Mr. Robertson adds, "is the simple truth that the level of taxation depends on the level of government expenditures. We mortals never seem to be able to keep both sides of the equation in mind for any length of time."

The article is an abbreviated version of a paper presented by Mr. Robertson to the tax management course given by Queen's University School of Business in May, and it summarizes a number of objections to the present tax structure and suggests some approaches towards solutions.

Mr. Robertson says it now is being realized that none of the longstanding concepts of equity, law, accounting, business or economics, as they pertain to taxation, can be accepted uncritically.

"We could do better if we could reach some consensus about a handful of desirable objectives and remove some of the folklore inevitably attached to tax questions."

ISSUE SECOND BOOKLET

The Tax Foundation has also issued a volume on co-operatives. It contains a new article by Prof. R. Craig McIvor of McMaster University on Recent Growth in Canadian Co-operatives; a reprint of his 1959 study entitled The Post War Taxation of Canadian Co-operatives; and papers on co-operatives presented at the Foundation's 1961 tax conference.

Latest technological advances in world textile production will be discussed at the Canadian Textile Seminar at Queen's University Sept. 5-7, sponsored by the Textile Technical Federation of Canada.

As a result of the Common Market, relations between countries on either side of the Atlantic will be intensified, especially those between Canada and France, says a booklet issued by the recently-formed Canadian arm of one of the big French banks.

The Canadian subsidiary, with headquarters in Montreal, is Societe Financiere pour le Commerce et l'Industrie Ltee (Commercial and Industrial Finance Co. Ltd.) Its parent firm is Banque Nationale pour le Commerce et l'Industrie, commonly known as BNCI.

Aims of the Canadian subsidiary, as outlined by the booklet, include: financing and world - wide services of the BNCI group for Canadian exporters; support for Canadian companies forming overseas branches or subsidiaries; opening of credit lines overseas; aids to new French and other European companies establishing in Canada; and guidance in French and European investments.

The BNCI has 1,350 branches and agencies, of which 150 are outside France.

Expedition Renews Hunt For Vikings

LANCE - AUX - MEADOWS, Nfld. (CP) — An expedition headed by Norwegian Dr. Helge Ingstad which is exploring what it believes to be early Viking settlements in northern Newfoundland, is expected to continue work here until mid-September.

This is the second summer Dr. Ingstad has worked on the site on the northern tip of the island of Newfoundland. Reports he has made on his work so far say he is certain this part of North America was visited and inhabited by the seafaring Vikings several centries before Christopher Columbus discovered the continent.

Dr. Kristian Eldjarn, director of the Iceland National Museum, and Prof. T. H. Vilmundarson of the University of Iceland, recently left the diggings, their part of the work done.

They said in an interview at Gander, Nfld., they found evidence that the inhabitants of the settlement extracted iron from the soil and knew how to process it.

They also considered it important that traces of bronze have been found. Most of the samples were found among the charcoal of the cooking places. Samples will undergo further study in Reykjavik.

Traces of Eskimo culture were also found.

Also with the expedition is Dr. William Taylor of the National Museum of Canada, and Dr. I. R. Whitaker of Memorial University of Newfoundland.

QUIZ

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
1♦	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♦	Pass	2♥	Pass

What would you now bid with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠532 ♥J3 ♦AQJ92 ♣AJ6
2. ♠72 ♥94 ♦AKQJ53 ♣KQ3
3. ♠4 ♥Q765 ♦AK8632 ♣A2
4. ♠6 ♥A5 ♦KQ9864 ♣KJ73

1. Two spades. A minimum opening bid carries with it an obligation to bid thereafter in minimum terms. The opening diamond bid in this case is quite thin, and partner has done nothing to cause us to revalue the hand upwards.

The two diamond bid cautioned partner not to expect too much from us and this warning is repeated by giving a simple preference bid of two spades. If partner chooses to continue the bidding, he does so in the face of our slow -down tactics. A rebid of two notrump over two hearts would be more forward-going than the hand merits.

2. Three notrump. Having earlier bid only two diamonds, we now have to show that our hand was not as bad as partner might think. (For example, our diamonds could have been A-K-x-x-x, in which case we would also have bid one and two diamonds.)

The jump to three notrump cannot be construed as a big hand, since we previously limited our strength by a signoff rebid of two diamonds. With partner continuing to force the issue despite our earlier willingness to stop at a part score, we cannot afford to bid again in minimum terms. A jump to three notrump is clearly indicated.

3. Four hearts. Obviously, this hand rises greatly in value once partner mentions hearts. The spade response pulled our hand down in value, but the heart bid more than restores the original evaluation of the hand. It would be wrong to bid only three hearts, because that might cause partner to think we were responding only because we had to.

The jump to four shows newly-found values based on the discovery of a heart fit. It invites partner to go on towards a slam, bearing in mind, though, the limited strength shown by the earlier bid of two diamonds.

4. Three clubs. The danger of a misfit is clearly indicated by partner's responses in the suits where we are short. We know this, but North doesn't. The way to warn him of the misfit is to bid three clubs, showing length in the minor suits and distribution that does not lend itself to notrump play. A bid of two notrump at this stage would show a more balanced hand.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E
B L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
