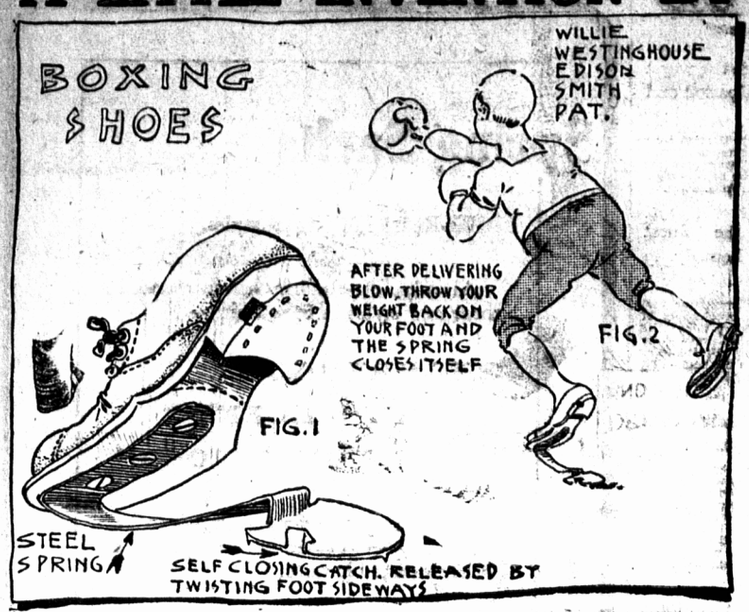
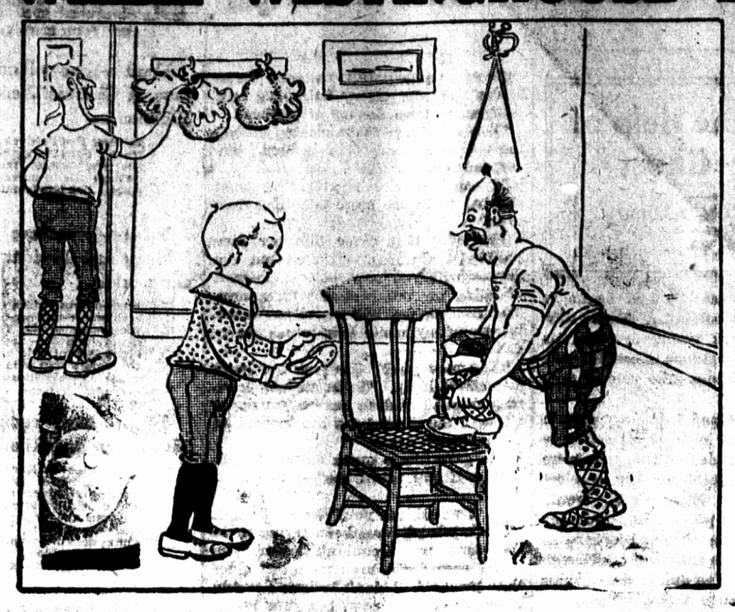
A LITTLE INVENTION BY WILLIE WESTINGHOUSE THAT WORKED TOO WELL

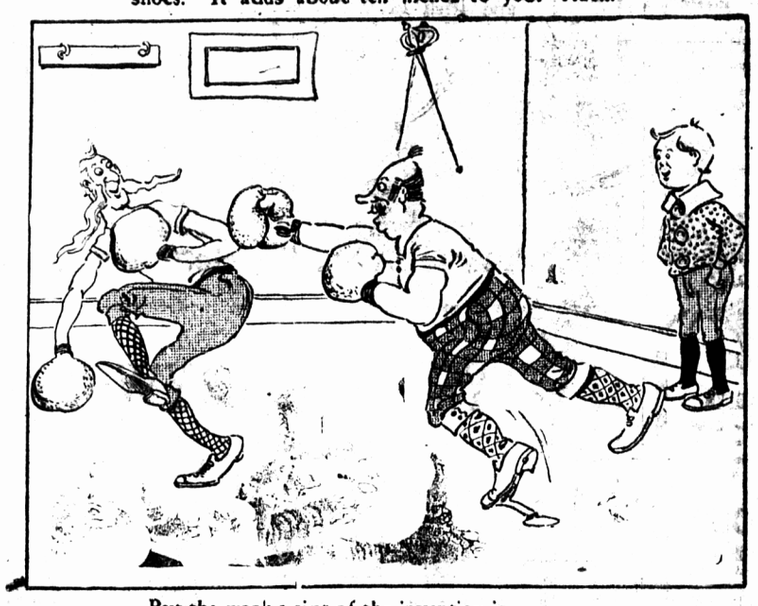


Dear Tommy: This is a diagram of an attachment I made for Papa's boxing shoes. It adds about ten inches to your reach.



Our Minister and Papa are fond of sparring, but the Minister always gets the better of it because he has longer arms.

The next time they boxed Papa put on the shoes and astonished the Minister by the way he landed the blows.



But the weak point of the invention is—

If you don't hit your opponent you keep right on going.

This is what Papa did, and, gracious! didn't he get angry!

Yours, Willie.
