SC Strength In Quebec Suggested As Warning

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cultural Affairs Minister Georges Lapalme of Quebec said here that Social Credit's 26-seat gain in Quebec at the federal election ought to warn the country "to avoid putting French Canada into a situation where it really has nothing to lose."

Mr. Lapalme, speaking at a symposium on French Canada at the University of British Columbia, did not mention the Social Credit party by name, but referred to its campaign slogan in Quebec.

"In the course of the election campaign," he said, "a political group kept on tirelessly repeating this slogan: 'You have nothing to lose.'

"The result was a violent shock for Quebec as well as the rest of Canada. If Canada seriously desires to avoid disagreeable incidents, it would be better to avoid putting French Canada into a situation where it would really have nothing to lose."

The text of his speech describing French Canada Today was issued to the press in advance of delivery.

Mr. Lapalme said there is a wide difference between the hopes of French - Canadians and the reality that "a tragic and complicated history has given them."

NOT LIMITED

Dissatisfaction in Quebec was almost general and it would be a "rather serious error" to believe it was limited to embittered nationalists or professional protesters.

Mr. Lapalme read from an interview Quebec novelist Jacques Godbout gave in Paris:

"We are dominated by millions of English - speaking people, and the French-speaking minority can be compared to the Negro minority in the U.S.A. Note that the Negro is black and he is stuck, whereas we can become mulattoes by learning English. But as our mother - tongue is French, we will never become completely white. We are the white Negroes of Canada. . . ."

And from an article by Quebec writer Yves Prefontaine in Liberte, an intellectual French-language monthly:

"It is not a question of being or not being 'separatist,' but of doing something so that we will not become an even more embittered generation than the one which preceded ours. . . ."

Mr. Lapalme said these are not isolated statements.

"It is the rising generation that is expressing itself in this way. . . . this generation is most likely to be the one in which some of the most decisive tendencies of the future are taking form."

SOON ASSIMILATED

"Outside of Quebec, one Canadian of French descent out of every four becomes Anglicanized," Mr. Lapalme said.

Quebec looked upon itself as the instrument to combat this assimilation of groups outside the province.

"Animated by the ardent desire to preserve and enrich their cultural personality," Quebecers were convinced they could never achieve this goal without "a certain amount of political and economic power."

Politically, they wanted a union between two equal peoples rather than "10 subordinate provinces" of Canada.

Economically, they wanted improvement and the province had established an economic advisory council, a department of natural resources and recently a general investment corporation to help achieve this.

Independence Of Algeria Is Welcomed

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians view Algerian independence with a deep sense of satisfaction, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said here.

"We look forward to developing close and friendly relations with all the people of Algeria," he declared in a statement issued a few hours after the North African nation formally became an independent state.

An aide said the prime minister's statement was not a formal recognition of the new Algerian government but merely recognized the fact of Algeria's independence. Formal recognition probably would not take place until France granted such recognition to her former colony.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E
L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

QUIZ

You are the dealer, neither side vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠KQ7 ♥AKJ10 ♦AQJ ♣AQ3
2. ♠AKJ973 ♥6 ♦75 ♣AJ943
3. ♠AKJ9784 ♥6 ♦3 ♣KJ962
4. ♠KJ3 ♥AJ5 ♦AJ94 ♣AQ9
5. ♠AQ83 ♥AQ83 ♦3 ♣AQ83

1. Three notrump. That is the most illuminating bid possible. The opening three notrump bid shows 25 to 27 points, notrump distribution and strength in all suits. Advertising as it does such enormous high-card power, the bid invites partner to try for a slam with only moderate strength.

The alternative opening bid of two hearts does not deliver nearly so precise a message, regardless of how it is followed up. Furthermore, it courts the danger that partner, with a weak hand, will become declarer at notrump. Generally, it is better for the strong hand to remain concealed.

2. One club. The usual policy is to bid the higher-ranking of two five-card suits first, but an exception is made when the suits are spades and clubs. The purpose is to save bidding space by starting low.

If, over a club, partner responds a diamond or a heart, it becomes possible to show the second suit in the one level. This could not be done if the first bid were a spade. In fact, it would be necessary to go to the three level to show the second suit if partner responded in diamonds or hearts over one spade.

3. Four spades. There is no point to fooling around with such hands. If partner has a good hand, he will know what to do, since the preempt announces a string of good spades and limited high-card values. Both these features are present here.

If partner has a bad hand, it means the opponents are loaded and can probably make eleven or more tricks with their best suit as trump. If this turns out to be the case, they may have trouble finding their best spot in the limited amount of bidding space left for them.

4. One diamond. The hand is too good for a notrump (16 to 13 points) and not good enough for two notrump (22 to 24 points). The in - between hands (19, 20 or 21 points) are opened with one of a suit. The big bid comes later by jumping in notrump. If showing zero to 8 points, you are high enough.

5. One club. Hands with 4-4-4-1 distribution are generally opened in the suit beneath the singleton. Again, economy of bidding space is the reason. If the bidding were opened with a spade or a heart, it would become difficult to show all three suits without climbing to a high level. The club opening permits the suits to be shown cheaply.
