The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	2 ♠	2 NT	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	5 ♥	Dble

Opening lead—king of clubs.

A great many players like to indulge in deceptive bidding. There is nothing particularly wrong with this style of play, provided the practitioner can point to a record of more successes than failures in the practice of the art.

The trouble with fancy bids is that too often partner becomes the victim of the intended deception, instead of the opponents at whom it is aimed. But occasions undoubtedly do arise when a well-conceived bluff can be so timed that there is little chance of partner being caught, but a good chance that one or both opponents will fall victim to the plot.

For a good example of such a situation we cite today's hand played a year or so ago in a national mixed pair championship. Star of the hand was one of the top players in any league, Edith Kemp of Miami Beach. She held the South hand.

North-South were playing weak notrumps, of the 12 to 14 point variety, which accounts for North's anemic opening bid. East bid two spades.

It was clear to Mrs. Kemp that the opponents had the better hands. There was very little point to making prosaic bid of three hearts since it was obvious that the opponents would go on in spades and be able to outbid her side.

So Mrs. Kemp made a pretense of having spade strength by bidding two notrump, hoping thereby to inhibit her adversaries from bidding skyward in spades.

It turned out that West had too much strength to bid less than four spades, and this bid came around to Mrs. Kemp who now mentioned hearts for the first time. West doubled, and that was that.

West led the A-K-Q of clubs. Mrs. Kemp ruffed, drew trumps, conceded the ace of diamonds, and went down one—100 points.

Even if West had led a diamond and obtained a ruff, Mrs. Kemp would have been down only 300 points—a cheap sacrifice, considering that East - West could have scored 460 points by making a game, or 980 points by bidding a slam.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X B
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints, each day the code letters are different.
