
MR. AND MRS. D. CAMPBELL & ATTENDANTS

Newlyweds Will Reside In Calgary, Alberta

With baskets of mixed flowers providing a colorful setting, a very pretty double-ring ceremony was solemnized by Rev. J. M. Sheen in St. John's United Church at Mt. Stewart, P. E.I., when Mildred Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coffin of Cherry Hill, became the bride of Donald, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Campbell of Scapa, Alberta.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus played by Mrs. R. L. Day, who also accompanied Mr. Norman Hamm of Calgary, Alberta, as he rendered two beautiful solos, the "Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride was radiant in a floor-length model gown of white nylon tulle and net over satin fashioned on princess lines with long sleeves tapering in points over the hands. Her chapel length veil was held in place by a crown of iridescent sequins. She carried a cascade of red roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Dorothy, who wore a waltz-length gown of pink lace and taffeta also fashioned on Princess lines, with matching mitts and a headdress of iridescent pearls. She carried a nosegey of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Garth Coffin, brother of the bride was groomsman.

The ushers were Mr. Douglas Coffin and Mr. Lawrence Coffin.

The bride's mother chose a teal blue rayon crepe dress with navy and white accessories and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Mt. Stewart Memorial Hall where the wedding guests partook of a delicious turkey supper served by the Ladies Aid of St. John's United Church. The head table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Rev. J. M. Sheen proposed the toast to the bride which was responded to by the groom, after which a number of telegrams of congratulations and best wishes were read by the groomsman, some of which were from the groom's parents, brothers and sisters who were unable to be present at the wedding. During the evening dancing to the music of Burke's orchestra was enjoyed by all. The guest book was in charge of Misses Eleanor and Alice Coffin, sister and cousin of the bride.

The bride, a former employee of the Royal Bank of Canada, Charlottetown and Montreal and now employed by Orlwell Supply Division of Calgary was tendered several showers at Calgary and Mt. Stewart where she was the recipient of many lovely useful gifts.

The wedding gifts were also beautiful, valuable and varied attesting to the popularity of the young couple.

For travelling, the bride wore a navy blue fitted suit with navy and white accessoris and a corsage of pink roses. The happy couple attended by best wishes of relatives and friends left by car for Calgary, Alberta, where the groom is employed as a physical education instructor and a high school teacher.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Coffin, and daughter Alice, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Anderson, Boston, Mass. Mr. Lawrence Coffin, of Portsmouth, N.H. Mrs. Lloyd Robertson of Amherst, N.S Miss Isabel Mutch, Misses Anne and Kay Bell and Mr. Norman Hamm all of Calgary. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Proud of St. John, N.B., and Miss Florence Dunbar of Kentville, N. S.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Leaves Of The Trees In The Fall Are Bautiful

And here at dawn, coming through the gold of the baring branches of the white birch lawn, was a new day, clean and sweet as an opening rosebud, and before us shaped ahead in the mists of the hours, another workaday week.

"Did you happen to see my gloves anywhere about?" Mack bringing a breath of Fall with him, breezed in presently to inquire.

"Gloves today!" we questioned.

"Oh, yes and sweaters too. She's a cool one. You'd think" he offered with a smile "that there never was a summer at all."

"Will there be any field-work, do you think?"

"Oh, likely there will — after a bit when the damp of yesterday's showers dry off. But do you know what I'm going to do first?" he queried dipping his hands into a young and ever interesting overall pocket. "Plant chestnuts! And when they grow . . . " he nodded happily.

"How pretty they'll be, with their cleft leaves and their creamy spikes of blossoms!" we said.

"And pretty too this time of year when the green burrs ripen and spill out the nuts.

"They'll have to grow fast if your grandmother and I are to enjoy them" James coming in then twinkled.

"They will!" Mack promised.

"And if not, someone will be here to love them some day, that's certain" we encouraged him "It's a fine thing to do — to plant a pretty tree. See how beautiful those in the yard and on the lawn are! The birches and maples your great-grandmother planted, the poplars your Dad put in, the golden willow Jamie planted when he was a little lad. And how quickly they do grow!"

"Don't plant them too near each other, or too near the houses" James cautioned him. "Remember that a tree needs plenty of space."

"'Greak oaks' from little acorns grow!" we chuckled.

"I know," he said drawing on the found gloves and going out to his self-appointed and fine mission about.

"We'll never see them blossom, Ellen", James offered a little gloomily.

"You never know we may see!" we laughed. "In any event we're seeing them planted, aren't we?"

James saw field-work this afternoon, betaking himself with Mack and his dad to resume the rested mangel-harvesting at Rob's. The sun looking down on us with a benevolent smile as we carried dry sticks from the woodshed to the box on the back verandah, scuffing the crips leaves on our path, smiled too we are sure on the workers there, then bringing in a last load from the field.

"Just the turnips to take in now, Ellen" James says coming in this minute to slippers and the old armchair. "And" he nods glancing at the calendar, "it's quite time to be at them. For . . . yes, it's later than we think!"

Until tomorrow — — — Diary — Goodnight. . . .

Women's Institute Meet In Ottawa This Week

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian farm women's organization which sparked formation of an international country women's group holds its first national convention here next week.

The Federated Women's Institute of Canada expects more than 450 delegates from 10 provinces as it marks its 60th anniversary year during meetings which start Monday and conclude Thursday.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected to be among officials greeting delegates at opening sessions Monday.

Women's institutes—called jubilee guilds in Newfoundland—had their beginning in 1897 at Stoney Creek, near Hamilton, Ont.

The organization outlined 60 years ago by a Hamilton woman, Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, spread quickly across Canada, and was the "mother" of an international organization —, the Associated Country Women of the World.

With Mrs. J. W. Adams of Edelton, Sask., as FWIC president, more than 90,000 women now work for the WI motto For Home and Country.

CEYLON MEETING

This summer, about 50 Canadian WI members attended an ACWW meeting in Colombo, Ceylon. Reports of the meeting are to be heard at convention sessions.

Home improvement and community betterment is the convention theme. Discussion topics range from citizenship and conservation to modern fabrics and a fashion show of period costumes.

Hon. Lester B. Pearson, former external affairs minister and winner of the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize, is to speak at a Monday night banquet.

Other conference speakers include State Secretary Ellen Fairclough, Justice Minister Fulton and Canadian author Will R. Bird of Halifax.

Thursday Mrs. Adams receives a diamond encrusted jubilee pin. A jewelry firm's gift to the FWIC, the pin is to be passed on to succeeding federation presidents.

New officers are to be elected at Thursday's session when the rsolutions committee also will make its report.

ORNATE CEILINGS
