

DR. WOODS' NORWAY PINE SYRUP

This season of the year when coughs and colds are so prevalent, it would be advisable to keep a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in the house.

It allays all inflammation and irritation of the breathing organs, and cures coughs and colds of young and old more quickly and effectually than any other remedy.

Mrs. Arthur Moleskey, White's Point, Queen's Co., N.B., writes: "In the fall of 1899, I was taken down with a severe attack of La Grippe which left me with a bad cough. I tried several remedies and could obtain no relief and was almost in despair of a cure when a friend advised me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I took three bottles in all and it made a complete cure."

HOLLAND COVE FARM

Offers Special Advantage for a Sanatorium

DR. R. McNEILL TALKS

Of the Erection of a Place for the Treatment of Tuberculosis.

ETHEL

The E. T. Corsets are the best that brains can conceive or hands fashion. They are built to assist Nature—they support and strengthen natural charms of figure and are as comfortable as they are elegant in appearance.

Yesterday in conversation with a GUARDIAN representative Dr. McNeill expressed the following views in connection with the proposed erection of a sanatorium.

The fundamental principle of a successful treatment of a case of tubercular consumption is early diagnosis and corresponding promptness in the application of remedial measures, supported by the belief that consumption is not a hopelessly incurable disease.

When this is recognized the patient should be given the best climate, or the climate we live in should be used to the best advantage. Those who have given special attention to this subject have laid down as truths, the following:

- 1st. That tuberculosis is relatively rare in certain localities, on certain sea coasts, on certain islands enjoying a nearly pure ocean climate in desert places of wide extent such as are found in the interior of continents, in polar regions and finally rarest at high altitudes, increasing in rarity with increasing altitude.
- 2nd. Animals successfully inoculated with the bacilli of tuberculosis develop the disease rapidly when confined, while those kept in the open air may escape entirely.
- 3rd. Damp, especially cold and damp, soils favor the development of tuberculosis, as do also variations in dampness.

S. E. WHISTON
 Halifax, Dec. 31, 1900.

To the Electors of Ch'town:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: I return you my sincere thanks for your confidence as expressed by your votes at the polls yesterday in the election for Sewer Commissioners.

I appreciate the honor more highly as I did not make a personal canvass, believing that the electors should be left free to exercise their franchise for the Candidates they think will best serve the interests of the city.

I remain yours truly,

4th. Moist heat has no influence in promoting the disease, but cases originating in tropical countries where this prevails progress most rapidly.

5th. Dryness of air is a positive advantage to the consumptive, while variability in a comparatively dry air has no prejudicial influence while humidity of the air does not in itself apart from other factors apparently produce phthisis. Solly believes that where benefit has been received in a humid or sea climate it would appear probable that it is mainly due to greater purity of the air or the elimination of unsanitary conditions and hurtful occupations. On the other hand whatever the cause, the beneficial influence of a sea voyage to the consumptive is undoubted.

While this Island has no high mountains and therefore we need not look for high altitudes, we have pure air and that near the seacoast. He thinks that sheltered valleys with pine groves and shady trees at the foot of rising ground, where advantage can be taken of fine weather and suitable shelter provided from inclement weather, would give our consumptives the best advantage, with hygienic and curative treatment to be productive of good results and would not advise only to those who are in affluent circumstances to go abroad.

He is further of the opinion that Holland Cove farm offers special advantages for a cottage where tentative measures with very little cost and expense could be maintained. It has the pure seacoast southern slope, high ground and a low valley with spruce and other trees in abundance, where shelter and exercise could be combined. We must make the best of what we have and it is not desirable at all to go where vegetation does not exist. As we are compelled by force of circumstances to live here, we must utilize what we have to the best advantage before we fly either to the Northwest or Colorado, and to this end advises that the habitation should be wholesomely located, free from dampness. The apartments should be accessible to sunlight for as many hours of the day as possible. In this Island a south and west exposure obtains this condition. Provide the best possible ventilation for day and night—especially at night; sleeping chambers should be thoroughly ventilated. The patient should spend as much time as possible out of doors, except during active fever. Moderate exercise, no forced efforts should be made. Sunlight should surround him in his out door life and very moderate exercise should test the matter in this province, our Island home which offers advantages in many ways to tourists, and pleasure and health-seekers which should be brought more and more into prominence by our own people.

YALE FOLLOWS HARVARD.

Yale follows Harvard's example in enlarging her elective course, and making it possible for a bright student to get his bachelor's degree in three years instead of four. President Hildre spoke somewhat depreciatingly of the movement in his inaugural address, but he has evidently come around to a more favorable view of it. There isn't much doubt that it follows the popular collegiate trend.
