Shortage Of Nickel Forecast

TORONTO (CP)—The chairman of the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd., has predicted a short supply of nickel in 1967 if demand remains at the current level as indicated.

Henry S. Wingate said in a year-end review that despite an increased production rate, Inco will be able to supply less metal in 1967 than it did in 1965 and 1966.

Deliveries in 1965 and 1966 included nickel drawn from the company's inventories and from other sources. Inco is the world's largest nickel producer.

Mr. Wingate said the nickel industry was unable to fill all its orders during 1966 for the first time since the mid 1950s.

A shortage of labor in Canada may limit production in the early months of 1967, but "if this situation improves, Inco deliveries could approach 1965 and 1966 levels."

Consumption of nickel in the non-Communist world has increased 10½ per cent to about 840,000,000 pounds. United States demand moved up to 422,000,000 from 370,000,00 pounds and Canadian demand to 21,00,000 from 18,000,000.

Inco production this year will be 75,000,000 pounds less than previouslye stimated, Mr. Wingate said. He would not give total production figures.

He said Inco is expanding its production facilities with additional mines under development study in Ontario, Manitoba, Minnesota and Guatemala.
