Boucher And Dupont Suspended For Life

MONTREAL (CP)—Directors of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Assoc ation suspended a coach and player from hockey for life Saturday and issued limited suspensions to two other team officials and six other players.

Suspended for life were coach Guy Boucher of the Donnelley, Que., Junior B Memorial League team and Julien Dupont of the Trois - Rivieres, Que., Reds. Both suspensions were for attacks on officials during the past season.

Suspended players and team pensions, which are based on referees' reports to the QAHA board. All those suspended have been under indefinite suspension since the incidents involved.

Boucher's offence followed a game Feb. 25 in Montreal's St. Vincent de Paul Arena, when he is said to have attacked referee Andre Langevin of Montreal.

Chomedey trainer Robert Nadon was suspended for a year from the date of the incident for threatening the same referee.

An association spokesman said QAHA suspensions are recognized by all organized hockey leagues, amateur and professional, in North America.

Dupont was charged with having set upon linesman Derek Jensen of Trois-Rivieres during a game there in which the Reds faced Victoriaville.

Other suspensions announced following the meeting of the association's 18 directors under the chairmanship of QAHA president Clyde McCarthy of Trois-Rivieres:

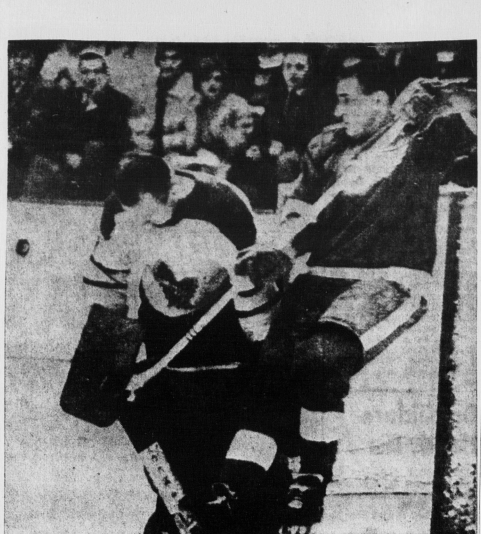
Manager Joe Ferron of Trois-Rivieres Reds, for one year from March 10 for announcing during the third period that his team would not go on playing after two of his players, Fraiois Mongrain and Roger Sauvageau, were sent off for pushing the referee.

Clermont Beaulieu of Dolbeau, Que., Castors in the Saguenay - Lake St. John Junior League for five years from March 1, when he is said to have attacked referee Yvon Caron and a linesman in a game at Dolbeau.

Louis Tremblay of Port Alfred, Que., Nationaux, for five years from April 6, when he is said to have attacked linesman Remi Guay in a brawl during a Provincial Junior final game.

Jean-Guy and Claude Gravelau, brother intermediates with St. Thecle Trappeurs, for three years each from March 8 for an attack on referee Leo Pepin and two linesmen in Grand'mere, Que.

Andre Juteau and Guy Beliveau of Sherbrooke's junior St. Francois club for five years each for a March 11 attack on officials Richard Champagne and Bert Cotterel in Sherbrooke, Que.



WING IN HIS NET

Being a goalie on a hockey team you have to keep the puck out of the net, and at times it may be you have to try and keep both puck and players out. Maple Leafs goalie Johnny Bower was able to keep the puck from going into the net in this action of the fourth game of the Stanley Cup series, but he let Floyd Smith of the Red Wings slip through. Toronto Topples Wings; Keon Leads Leafs Attack

By DAVE BETTS

DETROIT (CP)—It was the kind of goal young boys dream about, old men lie about and big league hockey players sometimes get.

Andy Bathgate took a couple of big strides across the blueline, squinted at Terry Sawchuk 45 feet away, cocked his wrists and won the fourth game of the Stanley Cup finals for Toronto Maple Leafs.

"I saw the puck on his stick and then I heard a slight clink beside me," said Sawchuk, Detroit Red Wing netminder. "It was just moving too fast for me to follow."

Bathgate's classic shot half way through the third period Saturday night tipped the top of the far goalpost and snapped into the net. It was the third goal in Toronto's 4-2 win over the Wings.

SERIES TIED

The victory made a new series of the best-of-seven final the Leafs having won the first game and the Wings the next two.

For the first time in the series the Leafs looked like defending champions and kept up a sustained barrage throughout the game after a strong first period.

Little Dave Keon scored twice for the Leafs, once while they had a two-man advantage, and Frank Mahovlich relieved the tension with less than two minutes to go when he knocked in a breakaway rebound.

Right - wingers Bruce MacGregor and Gordie Howe scored for the Wings, giving them a 2-1 lead in the second period and boosting Detroit hopes for its first Stanley Cup in nine years.

Successive penalties to defencemen Bill Gadsby and Doug Barkley spoiled the Wing rally.

While both were in the box, the Toronto line of Keon, Don McKenney and George Armstrong—the best unit on the ice for either club—buzzed around Sawchuk like starving men around a free lunch. Keon tied it 10 seconds after Barkley seated himself in the box.

Mahovlich loaded the gun for Bathgate to pull the trigger on the winner.

Picking a pass from Red Kelly in his own zone, Mahovlich swept the puck around a Red Wing and laid a pass along the right boards. Bathgate snared it at the Detroit line and made his move. Defenceman Marcel Pronovost, the only defender in front of Sawchuk, backed up a step, expecting Bathgate either to move in closer or wait for Kelly on the left.

It was over before Sawchuk could flinch.

RENEW PRESSURE

The Leafs continued to press although the Wings sent out their big five—Howe, Gadsby, Pronovost, Norm Ullman and Alex Delvecchio—late in the game to push for the tie.

Ron Stewart and Bob Pulford broke away with the puck and had Sawchuk in the fish-in-the-barrel position. Both Leafs shot, and twice Sawchuk got in the way. Mahovlich swept in behind as a one-man cleanup crew and flipped the clincher into the corner.

Coach Sid Abel said he was satisfied with the Wings despite the loss.

"We are ahead than we are," he said.

George (Punch) Imlach of Toronto said his team won because for the first time in the series the players did not wait until after the first period to start pressing.

"They're a funny bunch," said Imlach after the game. "They only seem to want to win the big ones."

The Leafs returned to Toronto by train immediately after the game and skated at Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday morning to prepare for Tuesday's fifth game there.

Abel shunted his players back to their Toledo, Ohio, hotel where they will rest and stay away from hockey until they fly to Toronto Monday afternoon.

In what some hockey observers called a psychological move, Abel called up speedy right-winger Johnny MacMillan, who was bought from Toronto during the season. Detroit lost the merve warfare in three distinct tests. Twice goalie Johnny Bower beat him on close-in shots and once Armstrong, who is six years older, overtook him in a two-man race for the puck.

Referee Art Skov called only 13 minor penalties, none in the third period, and sentenced Toronto defenceman Allan Stanley to a 10-minute misconduct for arguing an Eddie Shack penalty. Howe scored his power-play goal while Shack was off.

The Wings had their best chance early in the third period when three Toronto defencemen were in the box. However, defencemen Tim Horton and Larry Hillman and penalty-killer Pulford neutralized the attack for almost two minutes.

Norm Ullman assisted on Howe's goal, giving him 17 playoff points and Howe 16. The all-time record, 1 ifo0, Stan Mikita of Chicago in 1962, is 21.

McKenney, obtained with Bathgate in a late-season trade with New York Rangers, played his best game of the playoff and had a half dozen chances. Three times Sawchuk beat him with his foe.

Imlach Taught Toronto The Length Of A Game

By DAVE BETTS

DETROIT (CP)—Punch Imlach finally taught his Toronto Maple Leafs a simple lesson, that a Stanley Cup hockey game lasts 60 minutes.

This realization, said Imlach, is what won Saturday's fourth game and sank Detroit Red Wings 4-2.

"We finally had three good periods," the manager - coach said after the game. "Usually we show our best in the third period after we coast from the opening whistle."

The Leafs scored first Saturday night, fought back from a 2-1 deficit, shot the winning goal at 10:55 of the third period and then put icing on the playoff cake with a fourth goal late in the game.

"We had it tonight," said Imlach, who was more relieved than elated. "We were ready for this one and we started skating with those Wings right off the bat."

Coach Sid Abel of the Wings agreed.

"We were outplayed in the first period and just couldn't come all the way back. We played well but that first goal by (Dave) Keon beat us."

In Thursday's 4-3 third-game win by the Wings, the Leafs were practically beaten before the first period ended. Detroit wrapped in three goals while the Torontonians were getting ready.

HUSTLE IMPORTANT

"That's the kind of thing I've been telling them to avoid," said Imlach. "Desire or hustle —whatever you call it—is important for any team, and we had it tonight. We got that fast break in the first period and made it. It was just the opposite Thursday."

Andy Bathgate, a traded New York Ranger who scored the winning goal in the third period, said it made up in part for goals he didn't score since joining the Leafs late in the season.

"That has to be my biggest goal for the Leafs. I was worried, coming from New York and then not hitting."

Bathgate, who has been criticized by Toronto fans for passing too often instead of shooting, silenced his tormentors when his 45-foot shot whistled behind Terry Sawchuk Saturday night. It was the hardest shot of the series.

Frank Mahovlich, who later scored Toronto's fourth goal, said the winner by Bathgate was set up by Detroit indecision.

"It was a case of a Detroit defenceman (Marcel Pronovost) taking a second to decide whether to come in or stay near the blueline," said Mahovlich, "so I hooked the puck up the ice and Andy was on his way."

STAYS CAUTIOUS

Imlach, who is often more optimistic after a loss than after a win, made a cautious estimate of his team's chances for Tuesday night's fifth game and the series.

"I guess we should have an edge, with two of three remaining games on home ice, but you can never tell in playoff hockey."

Detroit defenceman Bill Gadsby, playing his 18th National Hockey League season without ever being on a Stanley Cup winner, said he still hopes this will be his year.

"The series is a long way from over," said Gadsby, "and we're a battling club. We tried out there but the Leafs were moving pretty fast."

Boston Marathon Has Record List

BOSTON (CP - AP) — Aurele Van den Driessche, the Belgian clerk with the jawbreaker name and the heart-breaker running style, arrived in the U.S. Sunday to defend his title in today's 68th running of the Boston marathon.

The 31 - year - old father of three must be considered the favorite to win the 26-mile, 385-yard run from suburban Hopkinton to Downtown Boston.

The entry list of 381, including 12 Canadians, is by far the largest in the competition, topping last year's record total by more than 100. But the foreign field is smaller than usual because many are concentrating on getting to the summer Olympic games in Tokyo in October and staying close to home.

A year ago, Van den Driessche arrived unheralded, followed Ethiopians Abebe Bikila and Mamo Wolde most of the tortuous route, then sped ahead of everyone in the final few miles to win in the course-record time of two hours, 18 minutes and 58 seconds.

A victory today would make him the third person in the last 20 years to win twice in a row here. The others were Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., in 1943 and 1944 and Finland's Eino Oksanen in 1961 and 1962.

Cote was the last Canadian to win, taking the run for his fourth time in 1948.

Neither Cote nor Oksanen is entered this year.

The Canadians on the entry list are:

John R. MacDonald, 22, of Antigonish, N.S.; Paul Beliveau, 36, Paul Ojanen, 49, Kalervo Paakkola, 52, Herb Riechert, 27, Dave Ellis, 36, Paul Hoffman, 23, Charles Pell, 20 and Bill Allen, 22, all of Toronto; Ron Wallingford, 27, of Hamilton, Ont.; and Regi Forel and Gordie Gilmour of Montreal.

Marlboros Crush North Bay

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros barely worked up a sweat Sunday as they trampled North Bay Trappers 13-3 in the opening game of the all-Ontario Junior A finals.

Second game of the best-of-seven series is scheduleduled for Maple Leaf Gardens tonight with the third and fourth games in North Bay Wednesday and Saturday.

The winner of the all-Ontario title will meet Montreal NDG Monarch series in a best-of-five series for the eastern Canada Memorial Cup championship.

Montreal Squad Blasts Montes

MONTREAL (CP) — The quest by Montreal's Notre Dame-de-Grace Monarchs for a Memorial Cup semi-final berth came to a successful end Saturday as they trounced Ottawa Montagnards 11-3 in the second game of a best-of-three series.

In the first game of the lop-sided eastern semi-final set Sunday, April 12, Monarchs blanked Ottawa 4-0.

NDG now advances into a best-of-five series against the Ontario champions for the right to challenge a western team for Canada's national junior hockey championship.

Legionaires Disappointed

SUMMERSIDE Legionaires are back home, not at all satisfied with the way they were handled in Montreal by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and with their showing against Ottawa Montagnards and NDG Monarchs.

The Maritime Junior champs didn't like the way they were sent home.—Not because they lost but because officials considered the team not good enough to play against the two other clubs and because it was costing the CAHA too much money. The team had a great time in Montreal but when it came down to deciding what was the most important thing the series or the trip, the boys said they were more concerned with winning or losing the series on the ice.—They felt very bad when they were told they were not good enough. to play against the other clubs.

Legionaires however, whom owe a great deal of thanks to their manager Joe Clark and coach Grant Grady, had a great season. They proved they were the best Junior club in the Maritimes, and on several occasions, both on and off the ice, they were credited as being the well behaved brand of hockey player that amateur hockey needs. To these town and the Royal Canadian Legion, a vote of thanks for teriffic financial and fan support.

Thrilling Cup Series

THE NHL Cup finals between Detroit and Toronto is proving to be one of the best sets in several years. Saturday night's game was the first that didn't end dramatically, and if Mahovlich had not rapped a breakaway rebound past Sawchuk with only two minutes remaining, it too might have ended a thriller.

By picking Montreal and Chicago to get into the finals our first NHL hockey prediction didn't pan out. That mistake however won't stop us from going out on another limb. The Red Wings seem to have the drive this season to come through with the big wins as we'll pick them to take it in seven games.

We think Wings coach Sid Abel knows what he is taking about when he says; "there are still a few kicks left in the old dogs." The "old dogs", Delvecchio, 32; Howe, 36; Pronovost, 33; Sawchuck, 34; and Gadsby, 36; played consistant hockey over the regular schedule, and in the semi-finals and finals have shown that experience can be superior to youth and speed.

Supplementing the Wings scoring attack have been Norm Ullman, Larry Jeffery and Bruce McGregor.—Ullman has been a threat for some time but Jeffery and McGregor seemed to come out of nowhere just like Alex Faulkner of last season. Gadsby and Pronovost have been great.

Bathgate Gets Winner

THE Ability to get the puck away in a hurry gave Andy Bathgate his fourth goal of the playoffs Saturday night, the third goal in Leafs' 4-2 win. Feared for his scoring ability since he entered the NHL, Bathgate showed the form that made him the idol of New York hockey fans as he whipped a wrist shot past Sawchuck from just inside the blueline.

Bathgate has been disappointing in most of his games with Toronto, possibly because he isn't rated the superstar he was while with the Rangers. In New York he had to score goals or the Rangers wouldn't win. In Toronto Bathgate is playing with Frank Mahovlich and "Red" Kelly. He seems to be satisfield being a so-so player on a so-so line. His defensive ability shows it.

Off The Cuff

MONTREAL MANAGER "Toe" Blake an NHL team shouldn't be satisfied to win only the Stanley Cup. "A true champion wins first place and the Cup", says Blake ..... WILLIE MAYS is off to his greatest start ever, pounding the ball all over National League parks. If Mays finishes in his usual strong manner this could be the season he makes some dents in the majors' record book ..... QUEEN ELIZABETH High School of Halifax won the Canadian Juvenile Backetball championship Saturday with an exciting 34-32 win over Saint John in the third game of a best-of-three series. Former Nova Scotia baseball star BOB DOUGLAS coaches the QEH team ..... Before OTTAWA MONTAGNARDS were shutout 4-0 by NDG Monarchs in the so called "double round-robin series" in Montreal, they had posted a record of 23-1 in their regular campaign. They lost 7-6 to Oshawa Generals of the OHA ..... FRANK UDVARI will referee tomorrow night's game in Toronto ..... RUDY PILOUS has received a flood of telegrams and letters since Chicago's elimination from the playoffs from fans who still sympathize with him over his dismissal as Chicago coach after last year's playoffs ..... While in Montreal, we heard rumours that Bernie Geoffrion is on his way to BOSTON BRUINS ..... Sportswriter GEORGE HANSEN of the Montreal Star says the city anticipates its best Junior baseball season this year. Several Montreal boys have made it to the pro ball ranks and scouts constantly keep an eye on the city's minor leagues ..... We're only guessing, but we think the SUMMERSIDE LEGION will have another Junior hockey club next year, affiliated with a town Juvenile-Midget League.
