Liberals Seen Facing Air Defence Problems

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — There are indications the Liberal government may be confronted with some of the same air defence problems which beset the Progressive Conservatives — and some new ones as well.

Air Vice - Marshall M. M. Hendrick, chief of RCAF Air Defence Command, says: "Enemy manned bombers can fire air - to - surface missiles from outside our surveillance and interception range and this is a problem which requires immedate action."

He made the statement recently at San Francisco at a North American Air Defence Command briefing for 1,200 northern California civic leaders.

The statement underlies the reason NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command, is pressing for a new manned interceptor.

There is no suggestion here that Canada try to build a new interceptor. But if the U.S. goes ahead with such a program, Canada as a partner in NORAD would be caught up in the problem of cost - sharing and deployment of planes.

RECALLS ARROW PLAN

The former Liberal government began the supersonic Arrow jet interceptor program which the Conservatives cancelled in 1959 after expenditures of some $450,000,000. It's highly unlikely any Canadian government would want to get involved again in such an expensive weapons project.

In 1961, the Conservative administration acquired the American Voodoo jet interceptor and paid for 66 of them by taking over financial responsibility for 16 radar stations in Canada from the U.S. Two of these planes have cracked up. No provision was made for spares.

Defence officials say they feel that though the nuclear question is apparently settled, Canada still will have to spend vast sums on air defence to remain a partner in NORAD. The present NORAD agreement runs to 1968.

Despite its reluctance to accept nuclear warheads for the Bomarc anti - aircraft missile and the Voodoo, the Conservative government poured some $660,000,000 into Canadian air defence in the last four fiscal years.

NORAD is not only pressing for a new interceptor to counter the manned bomber threat but also wants "as a matter of the highest priority" an active defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile and submarine-launched missile.

Western Integration Hit By Britain's ECM Ouster

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Britain's exclusion from the European Market, and the thinking that promoted it, are a severe setback for the cause of Western integration, Dr. Pieter Lieftinck, executive director of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, said Friday.

Addressing the Canada Netherlands Council, Dr. Lieftinck outlined adverse economic and political results that may come from what he termed "the dominating influence of a continental concept" in Europe.

He said the new trend set by the United States Trade Expansion Act clearly opens up broad perspectives for further integration in the world economy provided the U.S. initiative is implemented with imagination and realism and meets with sufficient goodwill on the part of her trading partners.

The U.S. and Canada and the extended European Common Market together account for 90 per cent of the free world's industrial production, Dr. Lieftinck stated. A trans-Atlantic fusion of the two great industrial nuclei would generate a mighty quantity of economic energy and trade.

DEALS BLOW

"It is clear, however," he added, "that the refusal to admit England and other members of the European Free Trade Association to the Common Market has dealt a blow to these conjectures. At the moment, it would seem that the U.S. vision of a broad Atlantic economic integration has largely lost its foundation."

"The prevailing trend in western Europe, following the example of the United States and the Soviet bloc, of giving preference to bilateral over multilateral forms of aid to under developed countries, which is disruptive of competitive world trade, will probably receive increasing emphasis."

He said there is danger that the inward-looking elements of the European Common Market will gain the upper hand and that the countries of the European Free Trade Association will concentrate to an increasing degree on trade with other parts of the world and turn away from the continent.

This might not be unwelcome to Commonwealth countries in the short term but it was questionable, over the long-term, with their industrialization developing, that they would find much advantage in it.

OVERCOME BY GAS

SWAN RIVER, Man. (CP)—A well-digging operation in the Minitonas area, eight miles south of here, took the lives of two men Thursday, RCMP said Friday. George Alexander Hogan, 24, of Swan River and Lloyd Douglas Cryderman, 23, of Brandon were apparently overcome by gas in a well being dug on the farm of Edmond Lausman. Swan River is 330 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1NT	3♠	4♠
Pass	4NT

Opening lead — four of hearts.

Incredible things sometimes happen at the bridge table, even in championship events. Look at this hand played last year in the match between Italy and the United States.

At the first table with an American pair holding the North-South cards, the bidding went as shown.

South's notrump opening was unusual, but many players undoubtedly would have chosen the same bid. When the Italian West (Avarelli) overcalled with three spades, North bid four spades to show his void and a great interest in getting to a slam.

Obviously, North was asking his partner to select a trump suit, but South, for reasons unknown, bid four notrump, concealing his exceptionally fine diamonds. Probably North should not have passed at this point, but he did.

So South wound up in four notrump as a result of the odd auction. Avarelli found the killing opening lead, a heart, and East (Belladonna) took the ace and returned a spade.

This came the deluge. Avarelli cashed eight spade tricks and declarer went down six! Six diamonds could not be defeated!

At the second table, the bidding followed more normal lines. Forquet and Garozzo now held the North-South hands for Italy. The bidding went:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♠	4♠	5♠
6♥	Pass	6♠	Dble

Forquet made a cuebid in spades at this table also, but it did him no good, since the American pair sacrificed profitably against the imminent diamond spades.

Forquet doubled, but all he could collect was 300 points. He cashed the A-K of clubs and continued with a club which dummy ruffed and Garozzo overruffed. Declarer then took the rest of the tricks.

So the outcome was that the Italians showed a plus of 300 points at each table once the pyrotechnics were over. It just goes to show that almost anything can happen when good friends get together.
