DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

G M V P E H P I Y X S X N K X C S X G P D X
Q X Y P K X O N X C G P, Z D X N X K M S X D C G
D X X Y N X T X H S X F C Z X K T M J X Q L X G P — G D X N H F C Y.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. EMILY SMITH

It was with sorrow that Kelly's Cross Parish recorded in the early hours of June 4th, 1952, the sudden death of one of its oldest and highly respected parishioners as it chronicled the passing of Mrs. Emily Smith, widow of the late M. A. Smith, Maplewood.

Although not enjoying robust health for several years, she was able to attend to her household duties until two days previous to her death when she was suddenly stricken by a paralytic stroke to be followed the next evening by a more severe and fatal one. Medical attention and tender nursing were to no avail, so fortified by the last rites of Holy Mother the Church, administered by her pastor, Rev. K. C. MacMillan and surrounded by many good neighbours and all the members of her family, who were hastily summoned to her bedside, her soul went forth to meet its Maker to reap the reward of a true Christian life.

The late Mrs. Smith who was in her seventy-ninth year, was the daughter of the late Peter Trainor and Anne Haughey, Maplewood. Upon leaving school she worked for a time in Fall River, Mass. and was later employed in the store of the late Peter Trainor, Pownal Street, Charlottetown.

In 1906, she married Mark A. Smith, well-known teacher and farmer who predeceased her by ten years after a lingering illness of six years. During her husband's incapability she cared for him with the utmost tenderness and devotion. After his death, as a result of this long period of worry and anxiety, her health failed, never to return to its usual vigour.

Mrs. Smith was a devout member of the Catholic Church which inspired her during her many hours of trials and troubles. She will long be remembered by both the young and old as a keen conversationalist and a woman blessed with the sterling qualities of charity, patience, honesty and above all, devotion to her religious duties.

She will be sorely missed in her parish activities as she willingly contributed to every worthy cause, but she will be greatly missed in the home which she fostered and where she devoted her lifetime to being a dutiful wife and a loving mother to her family, who now mourn their loss. To their prayers we join our fervent aspirations that perpetual light may shine upon her and eternal peace be hers.

Besides a host of friends who regret her passing she is survived by one daughter, Mary, Mrs. Walter Coady, Emyvale and four sons: Pius, attached to the Postal Staff, Charlottetown; John, Halifax, Stephen, Kelly's Cross and Russel, on the old homestead in Maplewood. Two children died in infancy. Ten grandchildren will long cherish memories of a devoted grandmother.

There are also left to mourn a sister, Mrs. F. J. Flood, Charlottetown and the following brothers: John E., Maplewood; Charles, Bremen, Sask.; Anthony, Chamberlain, Sask.; and Horace, Halifax. Several brothers and sisters predeceased her.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from her late residence on Friday morning, June 6th, to St. Joseph's Church where Requiem High Mass was sung by Rev. K. C MacMillan who also conducted the service at the grave.

The pallbearers were friends and neighbours of the deceased who often visited her during her declining years. John W. Trainor, Charles Flood, Kevin McKenna, Francis Carragher, Stephen Hughes and Peter Bradley.

The wreath-bearers were her grandsons: Kevin, Clarence and Francis Coady and her nephew, Marcellus Trainor.

The large number of Mass Cards, Floral Tributes and Messages of Sympathy testify to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Following is the list of Mass Cards, etc.

Army Replies To Jap Wave Of Terror Charges

OTTAWA, July 5— (CP) — The army has replied to a charge in Japanese newspapers that Commonwealth troops based at Kure, Japan, are causing a "wave of terror" among residents.

A statement based on a release from the Commonwealth division's public relations office said Japanese and Commonwealth figures do not bear out the charges.

The Mayor of Kure, Jutsu Suzuki, was quoted as saying that Commonwealth division offences against residents totalled 210 between Jan. 1 and May 10.

The statement said it was obvious that the figures quoted referred to cases "allegedly committed" rather than offences actually committed.

Of 162 cases referred to Commonwealth division authorities in the year ended June 20, Canadians were involved in 32.

These included six cases of serious assault, five of assault, one of rape, five of robbery, three of serious theft, six of petty theft, three of creating a disturbance, two of wilful damage and one of non-payment of debts.

There are approximately 7,500 Canadians in the 25th Canadian Brigade. Kure is a reinforcement centre for Korean troops.

Canadians make up about a third of the Commonwealth division.

The statement said stiff penalties are imposed when an offence is proved. As a deterrent to crimes in Kure, it added, "military police patrols are maintained throughout each day and night and the co-operation between these patrols and the Japanese police is most satisfactory." Also, Japanese police have full powers to arrest offending servicemen.
