W.C.T.U. Urges Gov't Action To Curb Drink

The Woman's Temperance Union which held its anual meeting here Thursday afternoon and night passed a resolution to ask the Government to use its powers in cutting off the alcoholic drink and thus bring the war to an early and successful conclusion. The Union "realizes that it is fully within the power of the members and Prime Minister of the Dominion Government to abolish entirely the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors throughout the Dominion and especially in the Army Camps where it is ruining the lives and characters of the soldiers and greatly hindering the war effort," the resolution said.

A further resolution was passed thanking the Charlottetown Woman's Temperance Union for so graciously entertaining the members of the local unions; Miss Emma White for her faithful and inspiring column in the Charlottetown Guardian and this paper for publishing her contributions as well as the Temperance course each fall; also Trinity church and Baptist church for the use of their halls for the meetings, the pianist Mrs. Boothroyd, and the guest speaker, Miss Grant, Field Organizer for the Dominion and all others who assisted in the programme.

A final resolution was passed to effect that the members of the W. C. T. U. pledge themselves to greater effort in the Temperance work than in former years.

In addition to the officers which appeared in yesterday's paper others elected were:

Tidings Editor, Mrs. Harrison McFarlane; Scientific Temperance, Mrs. William Clark; Temperance and Sunday School, Mrs. Frank Deacon, Fishermen and Light Houses, Mrs. Fred Shaw and Mrs. W. Johnson.

In Memoriam

MRS. HEDLEY BRYENTON

After a lingering illness Mrs. Hedley Bryenton, nee Gertrude Mary of Mercer Island, Wash., died in Hospital in Seattle on July 30th, 1942, at the age of 69 years. Her remains were taken to Erskine, Alberta, and on July 21st were laid to rest in the Erskine Cemetery, Alta.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryenton formerly lived at Ardgowan on the Mount Stewart Road, Charlottetown Royalty, P. E. I., but in April 1909 they moved to Alberta, and took up farming at North Cooking Lake until 1923, when they moved to Mercer Island, Seattle, Wash., U. S. A., where they retired from active life.

Besides her sorrowing husband and sons and two daughters mourn the loss of a loving and beloved mother—Wendell and Ralph at Herb River, Manitoba; Mrs. J. C. Glasier of Erskine, Alberta and Joy G. of the Women's Div. R. C. A. F.

Friends and kindred here in P.E.I. feel deep sympathy for Mr. Bryenton and his family on hearing of their sad bereavement.

WM. J. NICOLLE

The residents of White Sands and surrounding districts were shocked when it became known on July 17th, 1942, Wm. J. Nicolle, esteemed by his many acquaintances had passed away at the age of 78 years.

His success in his chosen career as a farmer, is a brilliant example to the present generation of agriculturists.

Being of an industrious nature, Mr. Nicolle was ever about his duties until the day of his death. When his son Earl returned from the hay field about 3.30 he discovered the body in a chair of his home. Dr. Brehaut was summoned and pronounced death due to a heart attack. His death, therefore, came as a great shock to dear ones, and today mourn the passing of a loving father, a devoted brother, a faithful and steadfast friend, and a respected neighbour.

In the home he will be sorely missed by all the members of the family, between whom a strong bond of friendship existed. In the wider circle of his acquaintance, his social activity will long be remembered.

He leaves to mourn the following: Four sons, Jerry of Cape Traverse, Earl and Roy, of White Sands, Arnold, serving with the Canadian Army overseas; four daughters, Florence, of Hopedale, Labrador; Mrs. J. A. Denton, Ohio; Mrs. Spencer Sharam, Murray Harbor, and Mrs. Sam Beck, Murray Harbor; three brothers, Oliver, Edward and Herb, of the United States, and two sisters, Mrs. John Valentine, Murray Harbor and Mrs. Peter of Guernsey Cove. His wife, Elizabeth Buell, predeceased him in 1899. His second wife, Margaret Jane Phillips, in 1911.

Welcome Bride To New Home

The home of Mr. Frank McLean, Meadow Bank was the scene of a very happy event on Friday evening, August 7th, when over one hundred neighbors and friends gathered to congratulate him, and to welcome his bride, formerly Miss Mabel Parkman to the community. Mrs. Gordon Boyle explained the motive for the large number present and while Miss Leah McKinley played the Wedding March. Mrs. Victor McPhail and Mr. Charles Hyde escorted the couple to chairs in the centre of the living room. Mrs. Colin McPhail read an address and Mr. Stanley Hyde presented them with a well filled purse, Mr. McLean thanked his many friends on behalf of himself and his bride. Then all joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows," and bouncing the groom. A social evening was spent. The ladies present served a dainty lunch and all departed for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. McLean many years of happy wedded life.

Following is the address:
Meadow Bank
August 7, 1942

To Frank and Mrs. MacLean

It is with pleasure that we, your friends and neighbors have assembled here in your home tonight to congratulate you and welcome Mrs. MacLean your bride of a few weeks.

To you, Frank, mere words fail to express our appreciation of you as a member of our community. You are always ready to lend a helping hand where needed and on different occasions many of us have enjoyed the kind hospitality of your home. We rejoice that you have chosen a worthy partner to share that home with you.

You, Mrs. MacLean, have come to this community as a stranger to the most of us but we trust you will soon feel at home and see fit to join with us in all our activities.

In closing we ask you to accept this small gift, not alone for its material value but as a token of the good wishes that go with it. That good health and happiness be yours, is the sincere wish of all your friends and neighbors assembled here to-night.

Signed on behalf of those present.

TO THE BOYS IN THE NAVY

This poem I donate to the Navy boys,
Who ride the surging foam,
Who leave their friends and loved ones,
While over this world they roam.

The pink faced boys from the office,
The brown faced boys from the farm,
The boys from the fishing villages
With their tanned and brawny arm.

The fisherman anchors his dory,
The office man lays down his pen,
The farm boy unhitches his horses,
And bids good-bye to the fen.

Each man comes when they need him,
Each man answers the call,
With a bright clear eye and a valiant heart
They are real men one and all.

With a few short months of training,
Each man must do his job,
Must take his place in the service,
To help beat Hitler's mob

Three cheers to the boys in the Navy,
God bless these noble men,
Who left their homes and offices,
The villages and the fen.

They are fighting for King and Country,
To win this war for you.
So back them up to the limit,
Don't fail them whatever you do.

EFFORTS PUNY

Hitler's U-boats for attacks on the Soviet Baltic fleet. The damaged 26,000-ton German battleship Gneisenau has been reported tied up in that supposedly safe port since shortly after her run through the Channel last spring. The uncompleted aircraft carrier Graf Zeppelin also was reported based there at one time, but the Russians recently said she was being used as a transport in the Baltic to ferry troops to the Russian front.

These heavy blows were only part of the western war on Germany, for fighter and bomber sweeps into occupied France and against enemy shipping off the coast were kept up all night. Two planes were lost in these operations.

When the dawn sections of the daylight sweeps were taking off the sound of gunfire from the mists in the Channel and cannonading heard at Varberg on Sweden's west coast suggested that a naval or air-sea action was taking place in the Kattegat or north sea.

The German air force struck at several places in England, including Bristol, in its sharpest activity in some days. Heavy casualties were suffered at Bristol, where a bomb set a crowded bus afire.

Local Navy Man In Dieppe Raid

LONDON, Aug. 28—The men of the Royal Canadian Navy played a dashing part in the fierce commando attack on Dieppe last week, with officers and ratings of the Dominion's expanding naval force manning the landing craft which carried the attacking force ashore.

There were at least 15 officers and 45 ratings on the raid. Some were members of Canadian landing craft flotillas in action for the first time after seven months of arduous training in England on combined operations.

Others were Canadian officers serving with the Royal Navy.

Lieut. Saunders

Taking the infantry into the main beach at Dieppe in other types of assault craft were Lieut. Douglas Saunders, Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Sub-Lt. Northgrace of Toronto. Sub-Lt. George Clarke of Victoria was engineering officer aboard one of the mother ships which carried the landing craft to the Normandy coast.

Lieut. Dave Lewis of Westmount, Que., and several other Canadians were in one of the roughest actions when a flotilla of 25-foot sled-nosed raid boats carrying commandos to attack protecting coastal guns near Dieppe ran into a German convoy east of that port.

A Wild Engagement

After a wild naval engagement in the darkness in which both fleets scattered, the boats in which Lewis was riding broke away and landed 19 soldiers of an English commando company, the only men to get ashore at this point.

These troops took up positions on high ground overlooking the Nazi batteries and sniped at the gunners for four hours, preventing them from firing on British ships off Dieppe.

Lewis, in describing the action off Berneval, where his unit was assigned, said the raid fleet met the enemy convoy about 10 miles from France and starshells lit up the sky to starboard immediately. In the convoy were two E-boats an armed trawler, a flak ship and a tanker. The Nazis, he said, opened up at once with the ack-ack guns.

Tracer shells and bullets seared the night with their colored streaks and weird dotted lines of death. The raiding flotilla fought back with everything it had.

One British flak ship knocked out the E-boats and trawler.

At the height of the fight the officers on Lewis's boat held a conference. All realized the importance of keeping the Nazi protecting guns near Dieppe at Berneval silenced.

"What are you going to do?" asked one commando major.

Land At All Costs

"My orders are to land you at all costs," replied a British naval officer.

So they ran into shore—one lonely, tiny craft with 19 commandos to undertake a seemingly impossible task which looked as though it would mean death for all aboard.

"We landed the Commandos quietly at 4.45 a. m. and they went up under a white cliff, said Lewis. "We then lay offshore and as dawn broke R. A. F. bombers came over the sea just 25 feet off the water and seemed to climb the face of the cliff.

"While we were waiting for the Commandos to return, a German tanker was grounded and the Nazis heavy coast guns down the line opened up on it. The crew swam ashore and one of our R-boats went alongside and someone grabbed the ensign."

Lewis said the Commandos were taken off shortly after 8 a.m. from the same beach where they had landed. There was a low tide at the time and the withdrawal was difficult, but it was accomplished even under a shower of bullets from the Germans who had followed the Commandos to the cliffs.

The R-boat re-embarked every one of the 19 men and not one was injured.

"It was heavy going for a while," Lewis recalled. "Machine guns and heavy stuff were pasting us and we got eight holes in our gas tank. The coxswain was wounded. One Commando had his webbing shot off. The Nazis were sniping from the cliffs and we fired back at them.

"When we sailed off we had four Commandos hanging onto lines trailing from the boat. Finally we put our men on a motor launch and headed back for England. On the way a Heinkel bombed us with eight bombs but didn't hit us. The crew spent the day after the raid picking shrapnel out of the boat's hull."
