Hitler's Home Fronters

The photo above gives a good idea of the quality of the recruits Hitler gets for the "Volkssturm," the new German home army which he has promised would make a last-ditch fight when the Allies overrun the Reich itself. German caption on the photo, read from Stockholm, says the recruits, many of whom never had handled a gun, are lined up before target practice.

EASY MONEY

MEVAGHISSEY, CORNWALL, England. — (CP) — Three hundred fisherfolk made the easiest catch of their lives when they stood on a quayside in this Cornish town doing nothing much — and got a guinea for doing it. They were used as extras (children half-price) by a film company making "Johnny Fisherman."

Considerable loss is sometimes caused the sale fish producers by what is known in the fishing industry as "dun"—great numbers of small chocolate-brown spots on the surface of the green or dried salted fish. Dun is caused by the growth of certain salt-loving moulds on the surface of the fish. The moulds are very small plants of the most primitive kind. Actually the dun mould does not spoil the fish but the discoloration makes the product less attractive in appearance and adversely affects marketing.

TRADITION MAINTAINED

CARDIFF, WALES. — (CP) — The Welsh regiment has a new billy goat mascot — Taffy VII. Taffy VI died last July. He was a mammoth goat who figured in the Aldershot tattoo. The history of the goat mascots goes back to the Crimea when one was on the strength of the 41st. Regiment of Foot.

The largest force of Canadian heavy bombers ever to take the air attacked France in invasion support.
