SINCLAIR & CARLISLE

of rare quality, change their performance this evening. They appear as Irish Minstrels; parts they are certainly capable of filling to a melody. They introduce Irish dances in plenty and in "He marched around again" a most popular song and a most amusing one produce merriment sufficient for many. Their parody on "Irish Molly O" is comedy itself, and the "Top O' the morning" is another Irish ballad brimming over with the warmth and mirth so characteristic of Irish melody and Irish fun.

Conseer's educated dogs will of course be on the program, in their marvellous performances and well trained specialties. This has been pronounced the finest exhibition of dumb intelligence ever seen here, and the previous performances of these clever entertainers have been pronounced decidedly superior to any and all expectations.

Austin Trainor's illustrated song is a selection from a popular light opera, and is entitled "Tropical Moon." The motion pictures are grand, and complete a program par excellence, one worthy of a house filled to its utmost capacity.

I consider MINARD'S LINIMENT the BEST liniment in use.

I got my foot badly jammed lately, I bathed it well with MINARD'S LINIMENT, and it was as well as ever next day.

Yours very truly,
T. G. McMULLEN.
