Declares Irish Wanted Accept Home Rule 1911

Hon. C. G. Duffy Says Irish Situation Due To Same Stupidity Lost American Colonies

(Ottawa Journal.)

That the present situation in Ireland was directly due to the same brand of stupidity on the part of English statesmen that resulted in the loss to England of the North American colonies which later became the United States and almost lost Canada to the Empire was the statement of Hon. C. Gavin Duffy, speaker of the Prince Edward Island Legislative Assembly, at a meeting in the Russell Theatre last night. A collection was taken for the benefit of starving children in Ireland and a substantial sum was realized.

Mr. John S. Ewart, K. C., occupied the chair and stated that the cause of the starving children of Ireland would be aided by the good Irish contributions of the audience. Mr. Ewart outlined the story of the original Hon. Charles Gavin Duffy of Ireland, who, from a turbulent young Irishman fighting for constitutional government for his beloved land, went to Australia and later became prime minister of Victoria. The speaker of the evening was a member of the same family though not a direct descendant of the original Gavin family.

Hon. Mr. Duffy said the starvation existing in Ireland today was the direct result of the situation there, it had attracted the attention of the world and in the United States the Knights of Columbus had succeeded in getting from the Hoover Relief Council the assurance that some of the money remaining from war charities would be devoted to the alleviation of distress in Ireland. The condition in Ireland today led to the opinion that the great war supposedly fought for democracy had been in vain. He deplored the intolerance with which he alleged the Irish people were treated and said that the Pilgrim Fathers, who left England for America because of conditions of religious intolerance, themselves became intolerant in the new world.

Loyal Hypocrites

It would be decidedly in the best interest of Ireland, of England and of the whole Empire if the Irish difficulties could be speedily adjusted. The nationhood of Canada had been admitted when she was allotted a seat at the League of Nations, but when one discussed the advisability of the development of a Canadian nation in truth and verily one was at once called traitor by a lot of "loyal hypocrites." The existence of the same spirit in regard to Ireland kept the Irish question in a state of ferment.

Irishmen had always struggled towards the goal of national freedom. It had been said that Irishmen lacked the quality to govern Ireland. Yet they took a prominent part in the government of practically every other country on earth. A noted American authority had said that Ireland was the only English speaking country not governed by the Irish.

Referring to Gavin Duffy and Thomas D'Arcy Magee, the speaker said that in Ireland Duffy had been charged with treason for espousing the very legislation which, when he succeeded in having it adopted in Victoria, won for him a knighthood. If Thomas D'Arcy Magee had not fled from Ireland he would have been hanged as a traitor, yet in Canada he was regarded as one of the fathers of the country. The real traitors to the Empire were those who kept the Irish question alive, and the real patriots those who would settle it in justice and amity.

There was no reason why Ireland should be hostile to England, and any hostility that existed as due to the stupidity displayed by English statesmen in dealing with Irish question. It had not been for similar stupidity in handling the affairs of the North American colonies the Union Jack would still be flying from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic Circle. This opinion was expressed by an English lord in an address delivered in Washington on the occasion of an anniversary of the declaration of American independence.

Accepted Home Rule

If the Irish people had been given the Imperfect Home Rule bill, which had been placed on the statute book in 1914, they would have accepted it gladly and today peace would prevail for Ireland did not become hostile to England until she was goaded to it by the stupidity of English statesmen.

In conclusion, he urged that Canadian, Australian and South African statesmen would do well for the Empire if they intervened with England in behalf of justice to Ireland. That would be the work of real patriots.

During the evening songs were well rendered by Miss Kitty Murphy, Mr. R. Arbiq and Mr. Larkin. Miss Teaffe played two piano solos and little Beulah Duffy delighted all by an artistic Irish dance. Young ladies in attractive Irish costume of white and green collected the offerings.

CANADA'S MAPLE PRODUCTS

The manufacture of sugar and syrup from the sap of the sugar maple is an important farm industry in the Eastern provinces of Canada, and particularly in Quebec. Long before the white man settled the country, maple syrup was known to the aborigines and apart from wild honey was the only intensely sweet product at their command. The methods of procuring it were naturally of a very crude description. Modern methods have greatly improved the product and have led to an ever increasing demand. Quebec province is the centre of the industry. Of the 20,000,000 pounds, or thereabouts, produced annually in Canada, more than two-thirds have to be credited to Quebec, Ontario is officially reported to be responsible for five million pounds and the Maritime Province for half a million pounds only. The other provinces of Canada do figure in the calculations. These facts are gathered from a timely pamphlet just issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, of which J. B. Spencer, Director of Publicity is the author. From this well illustrated and technically detailed publication it is also learned that the production of maple sugar, and its equivalent in syrups, of late years has shown a tendency of decrease. From 1851 to 1861 we are told that the average yearly production was about 13,500,000 pounds from 1861 to 1871 about 17,500,000 pounds, and from 1871 to 1881 19,000,000 pounds, and from 1881 to 1891, 22,000,000 pounds. The latter was the pinnacle of annual production, for in the next decade the average per year was 21,200,000 pounds, and in later years the average has been little less than 20,000,000 pounds. It is thought that perhaps with the increase in price that has taken place recently industry a, the height of the season, which is of very short duration, extending over only five or six weeks at the most. Stringent laws against the adulteration of the product have been passed, especially in Quebec, where schools of instruction have been established and the Pure Maple Sugar and Syrup Co-operative Agricultural Association has been organized.
