A FAMOUS MAN!

What His Researches Have Done for the World. Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills and Chase's Catarrh Cure are the only medicines that have cured thousands of cases of kidney and bladder troubles.

GODFREY'S WHITE QUEEN.

BY EDWARD RAYMOND. Mrs. Neville started; he went on: "It is a difficult thing to say, and I would not hurt your feelings if I could help it, but I cannot allow such an engagement. I was a fool to trust her out of my own sight. I do not mean to distress you."

"But when the ages rolled on, and twilight of the world began, her spirit left me and she is now a cold and lifeless stone. Look!"

"I cannot tell you it was—whether it was a dream, a wild vision of the night, or a reality, but I have seen her, and a voice cried 'She is dead.' I heard them call her name once, twice, thrice! 'Audine! Audine! Audine!' and then when I looked they had borne her away and I was alone with the statue."

"The great deed of her life had forsaken her son. She took every day in that graveyard watch for some sign of improvement, some gleam of hope in his condition."

"The relief was very great. He hastened at once to Audine with the news, and it was wonderful to see what rapid progress she made towards recovery when the anxiety was over."

"The doctor now strongly urged that they should go abroad. To Audine the idea of journeying to Italy was perfectly delightful. She had never traveled and her anticipations of all the wonders she was to see made her brother fear she might be disappointed; but this new turn of her affection was a great boon, and made her almost forget her troubles."

"Audine fell back heavily and fainted away. To call for help, to be hastily pushed aside out of the way, was the work of a moment, and she found herself alone. Audine did not again leave her room for some days; she was incessantly asking about Godfrey, and they invented all sorts of answers. Her anxiety made her so unwell that she could not get out of bed. Her mother considered it a matter of grave importance that her mind should be set at rest, and still there was nothing to say."

"My Dear George—Perhaps you may have seen in the papers my loss—the death of my Godfrey. Perhaps Audine knows, or it may be that you have thought it best to conceal it from her; some day you may be able to show her this. If I write incoherently you must not blame me. He is lying in the coffin, and I have just been in there to say my last good-by, and in this very moment they are 'hiding him away from my sight. After to-morrow is over I shall be better. He looks so beautiful in death; calm and still as marble, and all the wild pain gone from his face. I do not know how to describe it. He looks like a man who has been at rest for a long time. He looks like a man who has been at rest for a long time. He looks like a man who has been at rest for a long time."

"The keen cold air blew on Mrs. Neville's face as she drove up the Thames embankment; it was so cold and chilly that she drew her shawl tightly round her. The river stirred and shivered under the air, and she yet felt the cold on her face, no hurrying to and fro in the shadowless twilight. Gaunt and grim she was the great figure-head in Girwood's Yard. A strange woman passed through Mrs. Neville's mind, whether when the whole city slept, and those great figures received the power of speech, and told each other tales of the days gone by."

"She rang the bell, dismissing her cab, and the door was opened at once by the owner of the house. He seemed to show no surprise at her coming, but said in a whisper, 'I have brought him home; will you come to him at once?'"

"Ah, thank God! and how—" she stopped, for Girwood shook his head sorrowfully and walked on before her. It was dark in the passages, and the candle he carried across the yard seemed a strange object in its red garish light to the cold blue air."

"On to the studio they went; then Girwood whispered, 'I have had the ring removed; do not contradict a word he says. I beseech you.' He slid the door and went in. The studio was brilliantly illuminated, as it used to be, and all the vases were full of tall and other flowers. In the midst of it, before the fatal statue, stood Godfrey. He was in deep mourning. When he saw his mother he smiled a strange pathetic smile, and began to speak in a voice as if he were speaking to himself."

"A FAMOUS MAN! What His Researches Have Done for the World. Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills and Chase's Catarrh Cure are the only medicines that have cured thousands of cases of kidney and bladder troubles."

"The return they brought proved how much they were appreciated. The same free distribution of samples will be continued during 1896. Those at a distance will receive a 5-cent stamp and also receive a sheet of the latest music in return."

When the world was young, Hera came down from heaven, divinely beautiful and good, and I wed her with a golden ring, two thousand years ago. And while she remained upon earth all was joy; we ceased in all the lands, and sorrow vanished away."

"But when the ages rolled on, and twilight of the world began, her spirit left me and she is now a cold and lifeless stone. Look!"

A Victim of Bright's Disease for Many Years—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. McKAWA, (Special May 4)—Mrs. T. H. McKAWA, formerly of Listowel, came here a last season. Her sufferings were with Bright's disease. Reported to be past help, and dying, her appearance on the street in apparent good health, was a pleasant surprise. The explanation given was that her little boy had insisted that she should use Dodd's Kidney Pills and prophesied that they would cure her. She says: "From the first I began to feel better, and after taking four and a half boxes I was perfectly cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only medicine in the world that has ever cured a case of Bright's disease at such a stage."

Over $2,000 has been recovered by divers from the steamer Malabar, wrecked off Gille 40s road.

A Good Deal in a Few Words. "I paid a Toronto specialist on catarrh a large sum of money, but I got no benefit. I tried them all, but finally, almost in despair, and nearly without any faith, I tried Chase's Catarrh Cure. It is all that is recommended, which is saying a good deal in a few words." J. O. Rogers, clerk, Division Court, Boston. Improvement blower in each 25c. box.

Money No Object. The amount of money suffers from catarrh will spend in attempting to cure that fatal and distressing disease is almost incredible. J. W. Jennings, of Gilford, Ont., says: "I spent between $200 and $300 consulting doctors; I tried all the 'treatments' without benefit. One box of Chase's Catarrh Cure did me more good than all the rest. It cured me." Mr. X.—With universal satisfaction and many expressions of regret.

Bad Blood Between Them. The ever-slaving laborer, his delicate sister in the city, suffer more than they care to tell. The dark rings round the eyes, headache, dizziness, palpitation, rheumatic twinges, broken a run-down system. The blood is poor, and is a large element in Scott's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, strengthens and vitalizes the system, and speedily restores the bloom of health to the cheeks. It cures when all others fail.

Never use a liniment for rheumatism, says a high medical authority. Don't rub it in—drive it out. Take something that removes the acid poison from the blood—take something that will improve your digestion and build up the body to the perfection of robust health. That "something" is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a remedy that has cured the best cases in the shortest time. $1 of all druggists.

Improbable. "Birdie," said Mrs. McGinnis to her daughter, "what were you sitting up reading last night? Was it a novel, or a mother?" "Yes, ma, it was a novel." "And who writes it?" "Dumas the elder." "Now, don't tell me that. Who ever heard of an older writer than a novel that you'd sit up half the night to read?" "Texas Sifter."

Dr. J. H. Garrett, a prominent politician of Liverpool, N. S., makes for the benefit of the public, the following statement: "I was greatly troubled with rheumatic pains for a number of years. On several occasions I could not walk, nor my suffering continued. At last I was prevailed upon to try South American Rheumatic Cure. I obtained perfect relief before I had taken half a bottle. Was it a novel? Tell your regard it is the only radical cure for rheumatism."
