SKATTOON (CP) — New education research were described Tuesday by Dr. F. E. Diarmid in his presidential address to the Canadian Education Association.

MacDiarmid, New Brunswick's deputy education minister, the research division — established in 1958 — plans to publish a magazine, the Canadian Education Digest.

The quarterly digest would be distributed to teachers, principals, administrators and trustees would contain the latest research on education.

MacDiarmid said the association's interest in research is stimulated by the invitation to hold an educational research convention.

The president said colleges are faced with "a challenge beyond anything they have yet experienced."

It is the sacred obligation of schools and colleges to instill in students the attitudes towards life and society which will shape our society.

"We do this we shall have succeeded precisely those things which Communist proponents can easily imitate."
