Mysterious Object Reported In Sky WASHINGTON, July 3—(AP)—The United States Air Force has received reports that a number of persons sighted a mysterious object today near Anchorage, Alaska.

A spokesman said tonight that such reports have been received but that the Air Force does not know what the object was. "Several people have reported seeing a mysterious object in the sky," this Air Force spokesman said. "So far we have had only sketchy reports, with no details. We have no idea what it was."

He said the reports quoted both Air Force personnel and civilians as saying they had seen the object. He could not attempt to describe it on the basis of present information here, because it was "variously described by various persons."

Balanced Farming Theme Of V. L. A. Field Day

Balanced farming was introduced in a practical way yesterday to the Veterans' Land Act officers of the Province in a session that began at nine and lasted until nearly midnight. It began with the productive capacity of the soil on the farm of Pope Thorne, West Royalty, and ended with the estimated net income likely to be derived from the 1951 farm program.

Chairman of the programme throughout was F. F. Kennedy, V. L. A. regional councillor. Guests included, besides Mr. and Mrs. Minister of Agriculture, his Field Promoter, S. C. Wright; G. B. Whiteside, Dominion Dept. of Agriculture soil specialist, and W. N. Black, supervisor of Illustration Stations.

Senior V. L. A. official present was H. R. Hare, Ottawa, superintendent of farm development for Canada and widely-known farm economist. Mr. Hare planned the day's programme and led the evening discussion on the economic aspects of the plans suggested.

Morning Session The morning session, spent observing and assessing the physical resources of the farm, was dampened somewhat by showers, but the 15 agriculturists inspected every field, looked at soil horizons and viewed the buildings, equipment and livestock.

After lunch they returned to the V. L. A. regional office and, after listening to a resume of the farm resources, divided into two groups, each group being instructed to bring in a programme for 1951.

Only speaker at the luncheon was Mr. Baker, who said that any effort to aid farmers is all to the good, and promised the V.L.A. Administration the full cooperation of his department. He also invited the farmer-veterans to participate in the agricultural short courses run by the Department of Education in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture.

Neither of the two groups had completed their plan when the time came to reassemble for the final resume and analysis. Mr. Hare pointed out that, considering the time available, this was to be expected. He noted that both plans, as far as completed, appeared sound, although different.

"Even if we had five groups," he said, "we would have five different proposed plans, each quite satisfactory."

Analyzes Results Analyzing the results of the day's work, Mr. Hare pointed out that the whole objective of the V. L. A. balanced farming program is to make the farmer and his family comfortable. It can be done, he said, by efficient farm practices and management and a sufficiently large volume of business. Before the meeting ended, such a hypothetical plan had been prepared for the Thorne farm.

Other speakers during the evening included E. W. Campbell, regional supervisor, who expressed the appreciation of all concerned to Mr. and Mrs. Thorne for their excellent cooperation in permitting their farm to be used as a guinea pig.

Mr. Wright remarked that he was pleased to see that the V.L.A. programme was aimed at building soil fertility and controlling erosion. He approved, too, the idea of a completely planned farm programme, from the back fence to the farmer's kitchen, as Mr. Hare put it, and said that too many farmers have followed a hit-and-miss formula too long.

Answering a remark that it is easy to make money on paper, Mr. Hare replied: "Economic studies of farm income have invariably shown that the net returns from farming seldom exceed the vision contained in the plan prepared months earlier."

The Government in relation to the Korean threat. The cabinet last week made a Royal Air Force squadron of the Royal Australian Air Force available for service in the Korean fighting. It already has been in action. Informed quarters said they understand that, although the Cabinet acted fully within its powers, there are some legal problems involved. These problems, which include compensation for casualties, could more easily be solved if Parliament endorsed the action taken.

URGES MINISTER (Continued from page 1) session I brought this matter up on the floor of the House. At these times, both yourself and Hon. Mr. Mayhew, Minister of Fisheries, explained that site of the proposed bombing and gunnery range had not yet been decided—a reply which I appreciated perfectly at the time.

"However, on June 29, during the passage of the estimates of the Department of Fisheries, Mr. J. Watson MacNaught, parliamentary assistant to Mr. Mayhew, said at page 4365 of House of Commons debates: 'Many negotiations have taken place and many meetings have been held with the fishermen of the area affected. I am sure a site can be agreed upon which the majority of the fishermen will say is satisfactory.'

"I would call your attention particularly to the expression 'area affected.' It is true that Mr. MacNaught qualified his remarks by saying that a site had been tentatively chosen, but clear interpretation of his words is that the choice has already been made.

"May I remind you that the life of one engaged in commercial fish-

U. S. Marines Are Ordered To Japan

WASHINGTON, July 3—(AP)—United States Marines and marine units today were ordered to Japan, the Defence Department announced.

The department said troops and air units from the fleet marine force would be rushed across the Pacific with orders to report to Gen. MacArthur. A spokesman said that the Marines were being sent in response to MacArthur's request for additional combat manpower to back up the forces he has thrown into Korea.

Australia To Consider Action In South Korea

CANBERRA, Australia, July 3—(Reuters)—Australia today summoned a special meeting of its defence council for Wednesday to consider compulsory military training.

The meeting was called also to consider recommendations made during a visit here by Field Marshal Sir William Slim, chief of the Imperial General Staff. The Field Marshal now is en route back to London after talks with defence authorities in Australia and New Zealand.

Summoning of the council followed quickly an announcement by Prime Minister Robert Menzies that an emergency sitting of Parliament will be held Thursday to consider the action taken by

New Type Cattle Barn At Experimental Farm

Construction is underway of a new type cattle barn at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Upton that will provide accommodation for twenty-five or thirty cows and literally allows the animals to eat their way into the building.

Termed a "Loading Barn," the building is the first of its kind to be built in the Province and should be completed in about two weeks. One of the features is that all animals are kept loose and such things as stalls and stanchions are unnecessary.

Two-thirds of the building will be filled with hay and straw extending the length of the barn and from the top of the roof to the floor. The cattle will be placed in the remaining space and through a self feeder will eat their way towards the back of the building.

The first work in the construction of the 65x39 foot structure was the sinking of 24 long creosoted poles at a distance of 13 feet apart. Pavement has been laid as the barn flooring and extended to a small space in front of the building.

The poles are being joined by bracing timbers which are spiked on and in many places overlap. Creosoted plank to a height of about three and one half feet has been spiked to the bottom of the building. The walls from the plank to the eaves will be boarded and sheathed. An aluminum roof will top off the barn.

The eaves of the roof are 13 feet from the ground and the peak of the roof is about 25 feet high. There will be large doors in each end and through which wagon loads of hay may be driven in and unloaded.

There are also two doors in the front of the barn through which the cattle will enter. The doors are left open most of the time except when the wind or snow blows directly upon the animals.

A yard surrounded by a high board fence will be prepared for the cattle. At one corner of the yard a silo is being built which will keep the animals in ensilage. An electrically heated water trough will enable the animals to have drinking water outside the yard round.

Chopped hay will be placed in one end of the barn and the ordinary long hay in the other. A quantity of straw will be sandwiched between the two varieties of hay. The chopped hay is being used as an experiment to see how much of it the animals will eat.

No manure will be removed from the barn during the winter but will be allowed to build up under the cattle. Planking will be placed along the bottom of the walls in order to prevent rot.

A five-foot concrete base for the silo has been laid and building work has started. This silo will be 21 feet high and 14 feet in diameter. It will provide storage facilities for nearly 70 tons of chopped clover and grass. The silo will be ready for ensilage in several days.

Works Daily In Blacksmith Shop At Eighty-Nine

At 89 years of age, Mr. John T. Gill of Elliotvale, King's County, P.E.I., still does his eight hours work a day in his blacksmith shop. With an enviable reputation as blacksmith, wheelwright and carriage-maker, Mr. Gill claims that he is in fine health, but adds, with a glint in his eye, that he "can't work as fast, or jump as high" as he once did. He made a record years ago for shoeing horses when he did 19 horses in one day, and still had a little daylight left for a couple more.

Mr. Gill has been married twice and is the father of twenty children. His first wife was Margaret Bennett of Brackley Point, and his present wife is the former Mary Murray of Tracadie. Of the fourteen of the family of twenty who are living, five are in this Province. They are Edmund and John at home, both of whom work with their father, and William, Francis and Raymond who are on farms near Peake's Station. Those residing outside the Province are Mrs. John L. Sullivan, Mrs. Joseph Lawlor, Mrs. William Paquet, Mrs. Harry Mitchell, Mrs. Stanley Jones, Mrs. Conrad Benoit, Mrs. Pius Redmond and Mrs. Ivan MacEachern, all of Boston. Another daughter, Miss Teresa Gill, lives in Moncton.

Milton Junior Farmers Have Successful Tour

Undaunted by heavy rain the Milton Junior Farmers group armed with banners and sign covered cars participated in a very successful tour of several farms yesterday.

The group saw six different breeds of cattle on their visits to the following farms: Lewis Bros., York, Holsteins; Guy Rodd, Brackley, Guernseys; Sanderson Bros., North River, Herefords; Fred Coles, Loyalist, Jerseys; R. R. Bell, New Glasgow, Shorthorns; and Earl MacRae, Brookfield, Ayrshires.

The group had their lunch at Cavendish after which they enjoyed a short recreational period. Mr. W. N. Black, supervisor of Illustration Stations, P. E. I., gave an interesting and instructive talk on the value and care of farm woodlots.

Afterwards the group visited the farm and wood lot of Mr. John L. Clark, M.B.E., Rustico where selective cutting has been practised for several years. Much fine standing timber was noted proving that the woodlot should be given as much care as any part of the farm.

Tours of other sections of the Island for other groups are planned for today, Wednesday and Friday.

Inquiry Opens Into Loan Act Operations

Appointed as Commissioner, by Order-in-Council under the Inquiries Act, to inquire into the operations of the Fishermen's Loan Act, Judge J. S. DesRoches will open the Commission hearings this morning at the Supreme Court room at 1 a. m.

Mr. J. O. C. Campbell, K.C., Deputy Attorney General, has been appointed counsel for the Commission and Mrs. J. J. Connolly will act as Commissioner's secretary.

It is expected that three witnesses will be called at the opening session, the first of these being Hon. B. W. LePage, first chairman of the Fishermen's Loan Board. Other witnesses are Mr. Marin Gallant, who was chairman for a period while he was member without portfolio in the Provincial Government, and Mrs. Kathleen Higson, clerk-stenographer for the Board.

On the agenda this morning will be the reading of the commissioner's findings and the taking of evidence regarding the setting up of the original Board. Commissioner DesRoches will also announce the initial part of his itinerary.

Scout News and Notices Yesterday Scouts from three counties descended on Camp Buchan for a 10-day Provincial Camp under Camp Chief Fred A. Driscoll. Frequent and heavy showers also descended on the camp but failed to dampen the spirits of the Scouts and their leaders. Thirty-seven boys had arrived by early afternoon and the number was expected to increase to 43 with the arrival of a contingent from the 7th Charlottetown Troop. Assisting the Camp Chief are Mr. A. P. Ceretti, Executive Commissioner Gordon Kerr, Mr. Harry Pineau, Mr. Frank Costello and Mr. Frank Zakem. Scouts registered included groups from the 1st Charlottetown, East Royalty, 3rd Summerside, Alberton, 3rd Charlottetown, Souris, Montague, 7th Charlottetown, Alexandra and Borden Troops.

Rev. Templeton At Montague

"One dares to believe that Montague made history Sunday afternoon, made history in gathering under one roof for a religious service such a congregation as assembled in Yeo's Theatre, to say nothing of those, who standing by open doors and windows sought to catch the spirit of the inside."

The Evangelist had the advantage of a fame that came head of him, and the asset of a congregation that came with expectancy. And they were not disappointed. The preacher has the advantage of a personal charm that predisposes one to be interested in him until he feels the deep and urgent sincerity that makes the man a good salesman for the Kingdom of God.

One felt, while listening to his words picture, that the Cartoonist who heard the call to become a preacher did not throw away the gifts that equipped him for his former profession. So often the Cartoonist is one of our most effective teachers of lives values. This is still a Cartoonist, only now he gives in words, and leaves to one's imagination to see the picture. The result is the same.

Who can forget those pictures that describe the descent of the Man, that tried to dismiss the law of God as a rule of life, until he turned the asset, in which he boasted, into a liability that destroyed him? Who can forget the story of King David's traitor son Absalom in the poignancy of the fathers grief as he said: would that I had died for thee!
