FINDING JOBS FOR PARTY SUPPORTERS WORRIES DR. GRANT

Dividing "Seventeen Jobs Among Four Hundred Applicants" Proves Embarrassing Task For King's Co. Representative.

Predicting "plenty of friction" if his party supporters were not provided with government jobs, Dr. T. V. Grant, King's County, on April 1 delivered his maiden speech in the House of Commons. Following is the Hansard report of his remarks:

Mr. T. V. Grant (Kings): Mr. Speaker, before the motion is adopted I should like to say a few words regarding unemployment as it exists in the province of Prince Edward Island. First, however, may I congratulate the Minister of Labour (Mr. Rogers) upon the masterly manner in which he has presented to the house the measure now before us.

Before proceeding to further observations may I at least to some extent reply to the remarks of the hon. member for Broadview (Mr. Church) and, as the time before adjournment is short, I shall be brief. The hon. member admits that unemployment is the most important problem remaining to be solved, and in the next breath he states that the appointment of an employment commission illustrates the decay of parliament. As I see it, sir, hon. gentlemen opposite have watched the decay of parliament in the last five years and they cannot now appreciate its resurrection. The hon. member for Broadview referring to the National Employment Commission states that it is all right to put your name down on a list, but that it would be easy for the minister to wipe it off with a sponge. Earlier in his speech he condemned the appointment of such a commission and stated in effect that the department should look after the unemployed. May I point out to him that one of the objects in the appointment of a commission is the elimination of political interference. The hon. member stated further that he was not in agreement with the hon. member for Greenwood (Mr. Massey) and that he believed the youth of Canada would not find jobs through the operations of a commission. He stated still further that by itself the government could not pull the country out of the mire. May I say to him that one reason the commission is being appointed is that the government realizes the importance of the problem, and believes that the matter cannot be handled by any governmental department.

IN MEMORIAM
HARRY MALLARD

It is with a feeling of profound sorrow that we, today, chronicle the passing of one of New Zealand's popular sons in the person of Mr. Harry Mallard, at the comparatively early age of 39 years.

Deceased had not been in robust health from the time of his return from overseas, where he served in the Great War with the 85th Battalion, but it was only a few weeks previous to his demise that his illness became of an alarming nature, and although medical skill and the best of home care were afforded him, his gentle soul passed peacefully away on Friday, Feb. 28, 1936.

Harry was a general favorite wherever he was known, and was always considered a model young man, strictly honest and upright in all his dealings with his fellowmen and his passing at such an early age has not only deprived his family of a dutiful son and brother, but also the community of an exemplary young gentleman. During his illness he was attended by his pastor, Rev. A. L. Simmt, who administered to him the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church, of which Harry was a devout member and it was his happy consolation to moment of death.

There are left to mourn the loss his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Mallard; three sisters, Mrs. Feter MacInnis, Mrs. Henrietta McCormack, and Miss Helen, all of New Zealand, and one brother, John E., of Dorchester, Mass.

His funeral to St. Alexis Church on Sunday, March 1st was very largely attended, showing in a marked degree the esteem in which the deceased was held. Services at the church and grave were conducted by Rev. A. L. Simmt.

The pallbearers were Garfield, George and Wm. Mallard, Jr., Ernest Cheverie, Peter D., and Michael Conway. The hearse driver was Edward Whalen.

The following gave Mass Cards—Mr. and Mrs. John G. Mallard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mallard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hanlon, Mr. and Mrs. James Hanlon, Mr. and Mrs. Peter McInnis, Mr. and Mrs. Fedalis Cheverie, Mr. John T. Valley, Mr. Ernest Cheverie.

Personals

USVILLE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Owing to the inclement weather, the Plusville Women's Institute scheduled to take place on March 1st was held on April 1st at the home of Mrs. Patrick Gallant. In the absence of the President, Mrs. Ambrose Corcoran presided. The meeting opened by repeating the "Hail Mary" in unison, followed by a prayer, which was answered by something pertaining to St. Patrick. Treasurer reported $14.20 on hand. All other committees reported and the following new ones appointed: School, Mrs. Nelson Gallant and Mrs. Justin Corcoran; Sick, Mrs. John F. Gallant and Mrs. Isidore Gallant; Entertainment, Miss Iertha Gallant and Miss Mary E. Corcoran; Correspondence was read and the Secretary reported that the government grant was received.

Four questionnaires were discussed and filled and papers on Child Welfare Problems were distributed among the members. Our April meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. Thos. J. Corcoran on the 28th, roll call to be answered by "manufacturers of our country" and it was decided to have a talk on any selected subject. A grab-bag will be conducted for the purpose of raising funds. Mrs. John Millar was appointed to take charge of same. The meeting adjourned by singing "Come Holy Ghost".

Mr. Lea's Achievement

But while Prince Edward Island was left off the map in those books of reform speeches, it has been put on the map in some other ways in recent months, and right here I wish to pay a tribute to the memory of the late Hon. Walter M. Lea who put Prince Edward Island back on the map last summer one hundred per cent. so that today our local legislature is in session with thirty members on one side of the house and none on the other. Prince Edward Island was again put on the map on the fourteenth of October last, and again one hundred per cent, to co-operate with the federal government in ridding Prince Edward Island and the rest of Canada of unemployment.

Of course, Mr. Speaker, public works afforded a measure of relief, but that relief is only temporary, and if some arrangement such as I have suggested could be made whereby the government would assist our farmers in securing young men to help work on the farms, the government paying them for a limited length of time. Such an arrangement would be far better than any unnecessary public works. Necessary public works, of course, must go on; we must have them, and we insist on having our share of them in Prince Edward Island, but there are in our province thousands of farmers who need help and cannot get it because they have not the money to pay out in wages. Again I would impress upon the Minister of Labour (Mr. Rogers) the fact that there are thousands of young men idle today in Prince Edward Island; why not pay them $1.10 a day to go to work for the farmers who need their help, and who will willingly supply them with good food, and shelter.

I am one hundred per cent for this bill, Mr. Speaker, because no government can handle such an important problem as unemployment as it exists in Canada today in a routine manner. You may call this a commission or what you will, but something of the kind is necessary, and the men who are to serve on the commission must give this unemployment problem their whole time and concentrated energy, because it is a very responsible work that they are called upon to do. When hon. members say we do not need a commission for this purpose, I am afraid they are not sincere. The only thing I see wrong with this bill is that it comes five years too late. Not four years but five years of wasted effort.

In conclusion, sir, I would urge the Minister of Labour to hasten a solution of this unemployment problem, and to see to it that so far as is humanly possible, full and equal justice be done to every part of Canada.

MR. GEO. REGINALD FRASER

Friends throughout the city will learn with regret of the death of George Reginald Fraser, after a week's illness of pneumonia, which occurred at his home Sydney Street yesterday morning.

The late Mr. Fraser was for a number of years cabinet maker with McParlane & Co. Upholsterers, and was known as an expert and conscientious workman. As such he came in contact with numerous patrons of the establishment, all of whom held him in high esteem.

He leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father, one son John Reginald and one daughter Audrey; also two brothers, Harold in Philadelphia, and Hubert of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. Muriel Walsh, Mrs. Florence Cross, Altadena, Calif., and Mrs. Wm. Reed, City, to all of whom the Guardian extends sincere sympathy.

MATCHING MODES

The spring handbag collections are completed, and there pervades in the styles selected the same tendency that carries through in costume namely, the very tailored or mannish, and the feminine, which is evidenced by dress-maker details in the treatment of the leathers.

It is generally believed, according to Europe, that the fashion trend in handbags is getting away from the large, bulky broad shouldered type which has been in vogue for so long. In a season when the tailored suit is of paramount importance, the tailored bag must be equally so. There are any number of models created with the mannish suit in mind, which subscribe to the simple characteristics considered a correct link-up with the tailored, yet are smaller, without losing the necessary capacity requirements.

PLAYFUL PRINTS APPEAR

Collections of prints styled for summer make an important fashion point of white grounds. The favored white grounds range from pure or "dead" white to soft creamy and ecru tints. The creamy tints are associated particularly with silk and are considered to be night their efforts proved unavailing.

She leaves to mourn, in addition to her sorrowing husband, manager of the Charlottetown Bowling Alleys six children ranging in age from 2 to 13 years: George, Alfred, Kenneth, Freda, Thelma and Phyllis.

Surviving also are an aged mother, Mrs. Simon Joseph, and three sisters, Annie, Mrs. J. McDonald, (Margaret) and Sophie, and one brother, Fred, to all of whom the Guardian extends heartfelt sympathy.

The funeral will be held this morning to St. Dunstan's Basilica.

Carlyle & Burke

I was amazed to hear the hon. member for Broadview criticize the minister for referring to Thomas Carlyle, the great writer, who died many years ago. Well, Carlyle died in 1881, but the hon. member immediately proceeded to call to his support, as recorded in Hansard, an Englishman named Edmund Burke. As a matter of fact Edmund Burke was an Irishman, like the hon. member, and died in 1797, about ninety years before Carlyle's death.

May I preface my further remarks by an illustration: Let us suppose that England should be forced into a European war and that Canada should decide to enter the war at the side of the mother country. Could not this country afford to send three hundred thousand young men overseas for four or five years and pay them $1.10 a day to shoot down our enemies? I do not say that we should send them or that we would send them, but I do say that this country sent them before and paid them $1.10 a day, and in addition fed them and clothed them and housed them. To that end the government committed this country to millions and millions of dollars of debt for generations to come. Then why cannot this government help the poor farmers of Prince Edward Island and other provinces, who are so hard pressed for assistance, by paying that same wage to the young men who are now idle, in order that they may work for farmers who need their help? The farmers would clothe and feed them, but they have not the money to pay their wages. The only difference would be that the government would be relieved in this case of feeding and clothing and housing the men, and the country would not be committed to many millions of dollars of present and future expenditure. That is one way, Mr. Speaker, that I see in which this government could help put unemployed young men to work, especially in the province of Prince Edward Island. I have in my constituency perhaps seventeen jobs on boats, and I had four hundred applicants for those seventeen jobs.

Mr. Heaps: What kind of jobs?

Mr. Grant: Working on tugs and dredges, and of course everybody who is a Liberal and unemployed is now looking to me for a job. How do you expect me, Mr. Speaker, to divide four hundred into seventeen without getting anything but a fraction? We will have plenty of friction, I can assure you of that.
