SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER. DOMINION PARLIAMENT

The Budget Speech.

A MASTERLY EFFORT.

OTTAWA, April 27. Sir Charles Tupper delivered his Budget Speech to-day, speaking for about two hours and a half. He first referred to the revenue expenditure for the fiscal year 1886-87. He explained how an anticipated deficit of $400,000 had been changed into a surplus. He attributes it to increased duties received from extra iron imported in consequence of the increase of the iron tariff. He then revised his estimates for the current fiscal year, and explained that the short crop in Ontario last season and the shortage of the lumber cut, though an exceedingly dry summer, had checked importation somewhat, and produced a shortage in customs duties. His revised estimate of revenue for the year was $36,000,000. The expenditure, he thought, might reach $37,000,000, leaving a deficit of one million. This he proposed to make good in the next fiscal year 1888-89. For that fiscal year he estimated a revenue of $36,900,000, and an expenditure of one million less. Results would probably improve these estimates, as they were made on a strictly Conservative basis. With respect to the public debt he said the Government had borrowed £100,000 sterling as a temporary loan. Since May the country had experienced financial stringency and three banks had ceased to transact business. He explained how there had been an apparent falling off in saving bank deposits, caused, as he showed, by the order reducing the limit of amount of deposits. Several large deposits had been withdrawn in consequence, but they were placed in the chartered banks. The Post Office Savings Banks showed a healthy increase. The number of depositors had increased in both some 13,000 during the year. He then referred to the effect of the readjustment of the iron duties made last session, and read a number of authorities, proving that the increased price of iron since then had been less than half the increased duty while the production and use of Canadian iron had greatly increased. The development would have been much greater except for two reasons: the leading of the Canadian market with iron previous to the duty coming in force and the immense capital required to start iron works. As to the tariff, he did not propose to amend that in any respect; the fact was, he had not been asked to make any material change in the tariff. It proved how well pleased the people of Canada were with the tariff, that during the past year there had hardly been a remonstrance against it from any part of Canada or from any interest.
