Find Toronto Officials Are Touchy Over Subway

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Long before the current music cult and its god, Elvis Presley, were ever heard of this city knew all about rock 'n' roll—subway style.

To the newcomer in New York, nothing is more hair-raising than a subway ride at the rush hour when determined mobs clutching newspapers head for the underground transport with fixed eyes and digging elbows.

With a pre-spring refurbishing and painting of trains now under way, several imposing facts about the subways were offered in interviews with officials of the Transport Authority, which runs the municipally-owned system:

The subways carry a daily average of 3,548,333 persons, about three times the total population of Montreal, Canada's biggest city.

They carry more than 1,300,000,000 passengers a year, three times as many as all the railroads in the United States.

HECTIC IMPRESSION

Despite the impression of headlong, reckless speed as trains roar through tunnels with wheel flanges screaming, the top speed is 50 miles an hour, officials said.

"We can carry about 2,500 on a train of 10 cars," said information officer Eddy Ryder.

"Have you seen how they jam in there? There was a time when Americans waited for days for stage coaches without complaint. But nowadays if a New Yorker misses his slot in a revolving door he looks at his watch."

Big - city life provides few stranger sights than that of a winsome lass on spike-high heels standing nonchalantly without support as a subway rocks wildly at full speed.

STEADY AS SUGAR

The experienced subway rider of either sex is as finely balanced as Sugar Ray Robinson used to be. The blank face and empty eyes of the city-dweller, ostensibly staring vacantly into space oblivious of all others, can be misleading.

One incident of somewhat grim humor occurred when a pair of young drunks got into a scuffle over a seat. While passengers crowded for a look-see, a plaintive female voice at the back was heard:

"But darling, I can't see over your shoulder."

The $2,000,000,000 system—comprising three lines integrated by the city—operates over 238 route miles, with total trackage of 723 miles in addition to 117 miles of yard storage tracks.

TORONTO'S LINE

Officials nodded politely when a reporter mentioned Canada's only subway in Toronto, and they referred him to an article in the authority's periodical, Transit, which said:

"About the easiest way for a New Yorker to get a poke in the nose in Toronto—in fact, the only way in that hospitable city—is to suggest to a native that the town's subway is, after all, pretty small-time stuff, with its four or five miles of length . . . and the flutey beef - keeping of the conductors' whistles warning that doors are about to close."

Torontonians are "fierce and touchy" about their subway, the transit writer found.

But accustomed to the sweat-dirty grime of New York's system, he noted with wonder that the Toronto subway was "actually scrubbed" with soap and water. This was possible in Toronto's off hours, but he couldn't figure out how it could be done here, with operation on a 24-hour basis and only minutes separating trains.

Canadian Handles All U.N.E.F. Rail, Sea And Air Transport

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ABU SUWEIR, Egypt (CP)—A friendly Canadian smile is the first welcome received at this base by a new arrival from any of the 12 countries contributing to the United Nations Emergency Force.

It belongs to Capt. Al Pearson of Port Credit, Ont., an unassuming service corps officer who would blush to the roots of his thinning hair and apply for desert service if it was suggested that he acts as the force's official greeter.

He is chief of movement control and as such he says the first and, for that matter, the last word to most of the troops moving in the theatre. Yugoslavs, Indonesians, Latin Americans and Scandinavians all respond to the warmth of the grin and have no trouble interpreting the words and signs that direct them in this vital operation.

VARIED JOB

A former armored corps officer, the captain handles all UNEF rail, sea and air requirements, moving both troops and material. If this base is finally moved to El 'Arish, near the Gaza area, it will be his job.

Besides handling military stores, movement control looks after the Suez Canal salvage organization headed by United States Lt.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, bringing in such items as diving suits and special drills.

Red tape snarled the most innocent operations in the early stages, when UNEF detachments needed permission from Egyptian authorities and sometimes from the Anglo-French forces as well to leave their bases. Everything had to be done through exhausting negotiations and endless official interviews.

But now corners are cut and officialdom bypassed. Direct approaches can be made and commitments received directly from civil transportation authorities.

PROMPT ACTION

"They'll even give us a locomotive when we have a few cars of freight, rather than hold things up," Pearson says appreciatively.

Movement control men dodged through the buffer zone in the early days, handling such delicate matters as the switch of Egyptian and English train crews. Sometimes the security guards were trigger-happy.

Sgt. Kooyman of Montreal was one of the first Canadians fired on in this theatre. A bullet went through his windscreen but he escaped with slight cuts.

"It was close enough for me, especially as we're not supposed to be mad at anybody," the sergeant said.

CANS AROMA

One of movement control's sidelines is the UNEF service station on the fringe of this base. It's run by a couple of Canadian privates —Ron Willis of Peterborough, Ont., and Stan Joslin of Camp Borden, Ont.

Their gas station—petrol point in army parlance—is situated two miles from the base in the clustered slum of Abu Suweir village. It's within smelling distance of the misnamed Sweetwater Canal and its neat rows of jerry cans are objects of raiding attempts by pilfering Arabs.

Just the other day, the pyjama-clad Willis caught a fleet-footed thief after he jettisoned his plunder and took to the desert.

Alberton Legion Selects Rink

A Legion curling team skipped by Fred Millman will represent the Alberton branch at the Canadian Legion provincial curling playoffs in Montague on Wednesday.

Rink members are, skip, Fred Millman; mate, Byron Weeks, second, Albert Clarke; lead, Ron Nicholson.

The winning rink will represent Prince Edward Island at the Canadian Legion national bonspeil in Winnipeg March 12-15 Rinks from Montague, Charlottetown, and Summerside will be in attendance.

Discuss Retarded Children's Ass'n

Pius Smith, Leo Berrigan, and Ernest Hennessey, Charlottetown, members of the P.E.I. Retarded Children's Association, were in Summerside yesterday conferring with various citizens relative to the organization of an association branch in the Prince County capital. Talks were held with Dr. H. B. MacNeill, and officials of the Social Welfare Bureau. It is expected that a general meeting of interested persons in the Summerside area will be called in the near future.

Capping Ceremony Held Last Night At Prince Co. Hospital

Seventeen student nurses, the largest class in the history of Prince County School of Nursing, received their caps, first aid diplomas, and pins, in capping exercises at the new Nurses Home on last evening.

The program began with the students marching into the assembly lounge where the capping and candle lighting ceremony was conducted by Miss Olive Murray, R.N., instructress at the School of Nursing. She was assisted by Miss Donna Silliphant, student nurse.

The Florence Nightingale pledge was repeated in unison by the students prior to an address of welcome by Miss Margaret Collicutt, the nursing superintendent at Prince County Hospital.

The main address to the nursing class was made by Rev. J. Donald MacKay, of the Summerside Presbyterian Church, who reminded the students of the responsibilities and obligations of the profession which he said, had chosen them, and of the dignity, respect, and obedience which were part of the training.

Attending the capping exercises were parents, relatives, and friends of the student nurses who were interested spectators throughout the program.

A unique feature at the event was the presentation of New Testaments to the nursing class by Mr. George Snudden, eastern field secretary of the Gideons Association of Canada, who was introduced by Mrs. A.H. Hubley of the local Gideon camp. Mr. Snudden, who has been transferred to Moncton from Ontario, will be the first full time secretary for the Gideon Association in the Atlantic region. He made the presentation of Testaments on behalf of the Ladies Auxiliaries of Charlottetown and Summerside, and nursing manuals were presented by nursing instructress, Miss Helen Ralph, R.N.

To the members of the class who made the highest percentages in the past half year of training, the presentation of prizes was made by Mrs. Heath Strong, president of the Ladies Aid of the Prince County Hospital.

The student nurses who received their caps were: Edith Poole, Summerside; Elizabeth Enman, Summerside; Ethel White, Summerside; Eileen Gaudet, Summerside; Clarann Found, Ellerslie; Myrna Hancock, Summerside; Dorothy Clark, Summerside; Shirley MacKinnon, O'Leary; Shirley Mann, Kensington; Alberta MacCausland, Bloomfield; Frances MacCormack, St. Eleanors; Barbara MacDonald O'Leary; Elizabeth Brookins, Kensington; Pauline Myers, St. Lawrence; Shirley Gallant, Summerside; Eleanor Clark, Kensington; Doris Andrew, Cavendish.

Heat Pump For Homes Soon?

TORONTO (CP) — A "heat-pump" that heats in winter and cools air in summer may soon enter the highly competitive home heating field, W. Ross Strike, vice-chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, said Monday.

The pump was only one of many futuristic electric devices which Mr. Strike said in an address are already available for a limited market. He spoke of electronic lighting which lit up whole ceilings and walls to the color and brightness desired by turning knobs and many futuristic gadgets for the kitchen.

A heating radiant panel suspended above a bed would dispense with blankets (including electric blankets) and could be equipped with a TV monitor screen to keep an eye on the children in the nursery.

Arab Leaders Hold Conference

CAIRO (Reuters — The Big Four Arab leaders Monday discussed President Eisenhower's recent talks in Washington with King Saud of Saudi Arabia, informed sources said Monday night.

The sources said King Saud's account of his talks with the president took up the entire first day of the meeting, also being attended by Egyptian President Nasser, King Hussein of Jordan and Syrian President Shukri el Kuwatly.

An official conference spokesman said the Arab leaders at their meeting "reviewed the international situation generally and Arab issues particularly."

They are discussing crucial Middle East issues which include Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian territory, the Suez Canal, Jordanian defence and reopening of the Syrian oil pipeline.

Monday's meeting set a pattern for later sessions which will be held mornings and evenings and be "heart - to - heart informal talks," the sources said.

At a similar summit meeting last month the Arab leaders signed an "Arab solidarity pact" granting aid to replace Britain's annual subsidy to Jordan.

Euratom Will Not Get Can. Uranium For Several Years

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Wednesday he does not expect Canada will be shipping uranium for two or three years to six European countries now negotiating an agreement to pool their resources in an atomic power industry.

Mr. Howe reiterated that Canada now is in a position to export only small quantities of uranium because the bulk of existing production goes to the United States. However, he said it will be two or three years before Euratom is operating power plants and by that time Canada will be in a position to provide them with uranium.

Children Mob Gov.-General

TORONTO (CP) — Hundreds of cheering children ignored protocol and police Monday to mob Governor-General Massey.

Mr. Massey, in Toronto on a three-day visit at the invitation of Mayor Phillips, visited the low - rent Regent Park housing development. The children, alerted by an advance escort of motorcycle police, surrounded the governor-general as he alighted from his car.

Obviously delighted by the spontaneous reception, Mr. Massey busily signed autographs, chatted with youngsters and asked three miniature cowboys if they had licences for their six-shooters.

When the governor-general and his party, which included his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Massey, entered one of the apartment blocks the children surged after him.

They were rebuffed for a few moments by police, until one child shouted "We live here don't we? Well let's go." And in they went.

$143,000 Quiz Champ Is Tied

NEW YORK (AP —Mrs. Vivienne Nearing, a lady lawyer with a headful of knowledge, Monday night again tied quiz champ Charles van Doren in two games of the television show "Twenty-one."

This left the two contestants committed to again facing each other on the NBC show next week. Next time they'll be playing for $2,000 a point.

Van Doren has won $143,000 on the show so far, but Mrs. Nearing has equalled him in three of the games and halted his progressive climb, at least temporarily.

Should van Doren lose next week, he would be off the show and the amount Mrs. Nearing won would be deducted from his total winnings. That could slice off as much as $42,000 from his $143,000.

Changes Coming Soon In Gov't Liquor Business In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—Changes that have been brewing for months in the Manitoba beer and liquor business are all coming to a head at once.

The situation had its origin in 1954, when the government set up a royal commission headed by John Bracken, former premier and national Progressive Conservative leader, to study the provincial law. The commission recommended broad changes and they were approved last year by the legislature.

The government liquor commission now is considering applications for new types of outlets provided by the new law. The first licences are expected to be granted this week.

In addition to government package stores and men - only beer parlors in hotels that existed under the old act, the province now will have five other types of outlets.

LIQUOR WITH MEALS

Where approved by local option, licences may be granted for beer and wine sales to men and women in restaurants and adjoining beverage rooms, and for liquor sales in dining rooms, cocktail rooms and cabarets. More than 50 communities, including all the cities, have approved some or all of the new outlets.

The first is expected to open about March 1.

There has been less controversy about the new outlets than about another product of the commission investigation: Its statement that government overpayment to breweries for beer "probably exceeds $1,000,000 a year and is increasing annually."

Four months before the commission brought in its formal report, the government cut the price it paid to breweries by $300,000 a year. When the changed liquor act was proclaimed last July, the liquor commission started negotiations with the breweries for a further price reduction and the two groups announced they had agreed on further reductions amounting to an additional $300,000.

Before the current session of the legislature, the liquor control commission went to the municipal and public utility board as required under the new liquor act to ask the board's approval of the second cut in the price.

FOAM FLIES

When the legislature went into session the foam began to fly. Opposition members tried to discuss prices paid to breweries and were ruled out of order on the grounds that a judicial decision was pending on the question.

Discussion was cut off until the ruling of the utility board was handed down. While the controversy raged over whether freedom of speech was being hampered by the ruling, the government by order-in-council ruled that part of the application to the board, covering a proposed payment by the breweries to the liquor commission of a 10-cent licence fee on all one-dozen and two-dozen cartons sold by the breweries direct to consumers, would go into effect.

When the utility board Friday approved the remainder of the liquor commission and brewery proposal for a price cut, the $300,000 annual saving to the government was complete.

However, the battle over whether the government still is paying too much was expected to flare anew in the legislature since the utility board's part in the case is ended.

CROWDED SCHOOLS

VICTORIA (CP)—Greater Victoria will be short of 17 school classrooms next fall, and the swing-shift system will be again introduced. Citizens will vote in March on a $5,600,000 school-building program.

MORE FISH

VICTORIA (CP) — Current figures show nearly $36,000,000 worth of fish was landed in British Columbia in 1956. This is about $4,000,000 above the average for the last five years.
