An all but forgotten ruler, Queen Margaret of Scotland, is the lady credited with introducing special privileges for unmarried girls during leap years, says the National Geographic Society. In the leap year 1288 she ordained that any single young man who rejected an offer of marriage from a maiden would be fined one pound or less, according to his means. Creeks in the Canadian Yukon's Klondike Valley have yielded $215 million in gold since the initial strike was made in 1896.
