

Embleton - Best Marriage Solemnized in Hamilton

St. Giles United Church, Hamilton, Ontario, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, November 3rd, at 5.30 p.m., when Peter Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Embleton, Hamilton, Ontario, took as his bride, Amy Evelyn, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Best, Central, Lot 16, P.E.I. Rev. (Dr) Clifford S. Elliot performed the double ring ceremony. Miss Jesse Gray, was in charge of the wedding music, and accompanied Mrs. Ruth Ripchuck, who sang "O Perfect Love," preceding the Bridal March, then "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The altar of the church was beautifully decorated with white mums and ferns. The guest pews were marked with white chiffon bows.

The groom was supported by Mr. Bernard Petitclerc, brother-in-law of the bride. The ushers were Mr. Hubert Anderson, brother-in-law of the groom, and Mr. Hillard Best, brother of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was very lovely in her wedding gown of white velvet, trimmed with tiny pearls, and the full skirt ended in a chapel train. The long sleeves came to lily points over the wrists. From her tiara of pearls and pearl sequins fell a floor length veil of net, edged with silk threads which covered the tip of her train. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with stephanotis streamers, and an orchid corsage in the centre, which was later worn with her going-away outfit.

The bride's attendants were her two sisters, Mrs. Sturdy Inman, as matron of honor, wore a floor-length gown of white velvet, and shoes tinted to match. She carried a nosegay of white carnations. Mrs. Bernard Petitclerc was bridesmaid. Her veil and gown was made on the same style

84-Year Old Princess Writes Her Memoirs

By HAIG NICHOLSON
LONDON (Reuters)—Princess Marie Louise, 4-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria, says in her book of memoirs recently published here that Queen Elizabeth II has dedicated her life to the triple task of sovereign, wife and mother.

"The Queen," the princess writes in My Memories of Six Reigns (Evans Bros., London) "has inherited many of her father's (King George VI) great qualities among which is her thoroughness in making herself fully acquainted with every subject placed before her."

"She does not merely cast a cursory glance at the report or paper but studies it carefully in order to be completely au fait with the matter in hand. One of her ministers said to me: 'Some of Her Majesty's memoirs might have been written by Queen Victoria.'"

"I do wish that Queen Victoria could have known this great-grandchild of hers; they would have had so much in common, and I do not think that modern life as represented to her by Lillibet would have displeased or shocked her."

Princess Marie Louise, who wrote her 300-page book in long-hand, told how on Queen Elizabeth II's wedding day, she stood talking to Field Marshal Jan Smuts of South Africa just far away from the "fairy princess."

"MAKES ME SAD"

She turned to Field Marshal Smuts and said: "Is she not beautiful? Are not blossoms to have such a princess?"

Field Marshal Smuts thought for a few moments and said, "Yes, you are right, but she makes me very sad."

"Sad?" exclaimed Princess Marie Louise. "How can that radiant being make you sad?"

He answered: "Yes, sad, because she is serious and wise beyond her years."

"I remained quite silent," Princess Marie Louise comments. "Did that wise soldier-statesman have a vision that all too soon the heavy responsibility of sovereignty would fall on those young shoulders and a heavier crown than that of orange blossoms rest on her dear head?"

Princess Marie Louise once read her own obituary notice. Newspapers reported her death when it was her Aunt Louise of Desau who had died. Flowers, letters and telegrams poured in and Queen Victoria was "extremely annoyed."

and presided for the business meeting.

Mrs. David Heartz read the minutes and Mrs. Windsor Brehaut received the offering. The study on the Baptist mission field in India was led by Mrs. Blois Manuel and Mrs. Heartz. Mrs. Welton read a letter from Rev. and Mrs. John Lockwood who are studying in Portugal.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Charles Ballen and Mrs. Cameron. The January meeting will take the form of a joint meeting with the Fern Levy World Wide Guild at the church. Mrs. Harold Milton will lead the devotions at that time and lunch will be served by Mrs. Heartz and Mrs. Welton.

The February meeting will be held at the parlour when Mrs. Ballen will lead the devotion. Mrs. Cameron will tell of her missionary; the program will be by Mrs. Paul Garnham and Mrs. Welton, and Mrs. Manuel and Mrs. Kenneth Yeo will serve lunch.

Egypt, a republic since 1953, has an estimated population of 22,500,000.

It was wedding bells on Parliament Hill Monday when David MacLeod, member of Parliament for Capeau, and Georgette Chaput, member of the commons law clerk staff, were married in a chapel at the residence of Archbishop Marie — Joseph Lemieux of Ottawa. The couple is seen prior to their departure for New York where Mr. Gourd will attend sessions of the United Nations. Later they will spend some time in Bermuda (CP Photo).

MacLeod-Francis Wedding Solemnized At Calgary

The North Hill United Church, Calgary, Alta. was the scene of a wedding of interest to Prince Edward Island friends, when on November 10th, Rev. J.L. Patruff led in marriage, Ethel Bernice Francis, youngest daughter of the late Harry S. Francis, Fortune Bridge, and Willard Fortune, and Bruce MacLeod, Grand View.

The lovely young bride was given in marriage by Mr. McLean Drake. Her gown was a wafly-length nylon tulle and lace veil held in place by a headdress of iridescent sequins and lace. She carried a bouquet of pink sweet heart roses surrounded by stephanotis.

Her single attendant was Mrs. Marion Platts who wore a group of pink lace with matching Juliet Cap, and carried a bouquet of blue feathered carnations.

Mr. Bill Platts was best man and the ushers were Mr. George MacLeod and Mr. Monty Annear.

The reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Platts at their charming home. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. C. Langster.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Great Falls, Montana. For travelling the bride wore an ensemble of light blue wool dress and black coat with matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod will reside in Calgary.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

at releases exactly the right amount on your hands—both for only a c. A quick thumb pressure gives you the little you need. Rub it in thoroughly—and then get on with your business. . . . Do this and your hands will stay pretty, always! At drug counters. Everywhere.

Buy Or Not To Buy . . . that's the question that so many people ask themselves in the shops around Christmas. Finding the right present can sometimes be an exhausting experience. Among my teenage nephews and nieces, I'm always popular when I give holly-decorated B of M Christmas Cheques, or B of M Money Orders in their brightly coloured envelopes. . . . I can't do both at my local BANK OF MONTREAL each without wasting any time at all! Then, the small fry, the present with a real future—a Savings Account at the B of M—its package with a nice balance inside, comes decked out in a merry Yuletide cover. I like this gift because, besides giving pleasure to youngsters, it starts them on the road to thrift and self-reliance.

Is She A Bit Lonely? Have you a friend or relative who is pretty much alone? Then give her the gay cheer and absorbing interest of a Budgie this Christmas!

—lovely to look at—fun to talk to—easy to care for. What an ideal gift, too, for youngsters—teaching them the love and care of their own Budgie. Believe me, there's no easier way to bring amusement, interest, and day-after-day pleasure into anyone's life than by giving a beautifully colored Budgie. And Budgies are no trouble at all, are always endlessly interesting. They thrive on BROCK'S NATURAL FEEDING DIET . . . for it contains all the food elements they need. Do give a Beautiful Budgie this Christmas!

So Good! So Good! Use your left-over turkey or chicken with this extra-special, economical, low-calorie recipe!

Chicken Mousse

1/2 envelope Davis Gelatine 2 tbsps. chopped peppers
1/4 cup hot water 1/4 cup cream
1/2 cup milk 1/2 cup chicken
1 tsp. parsley 1 tsp. salt
Cayenne pepper

Dissolve gelatine in hot water. Mix together chicken, salt, pepper, parsley and peppers. Add to dissolved gelatine. Whip cream and fold into mixture. Put in a wet mould. Chill thoroughly. Unmould on lettuce and garnish with sliced olives. Serves 4.

Remember that DAVIS GELATINE has 6 instead of the usual 4 packages in every box and that it's the high favorite on low-calorie menus!

A Babe At Christmas? . . . Are you lucky enough to have a new baby to bring new beauty to your festivities? Give your little one the benefits of FARMER'S WIFE Formula Milk . . . Your doctor will tell you which of the three types of formula is the right one for your baby's special needs. It may be Partly Skimmed Milk (Blue Label) created originally at the request of pediatricians for a high-protein, low-fat concentrated formula . . . Or perhaps the Whole Milk (Red Label) or Skimmed Milk (Yellow Label). All with Vitamin D increased, and vacuum packed in the most modern type of milk container.

So Much Excitement! . . . and so much turmoil, in this merry month of Christmas . . . that it strikes me as doubly wise to make sure your family has the advantage of really good breakfasts—featuring RED RIVER CEREAL. This delicious blending of fine grains so delicately flavored, and so nutritious, is Nature's mild regulator, too. It's excellent for giving a basic food requirement for the energy of the hungry, lively youngsters. Excitement, too, for those whose lives are more sedentary as a dose guard regularly. And any Man of the House whose work keeps him on his feet all day knows how good Red River Cereal is for breakfast! It's a good way to start your day, today, dear lady!

MARY HAWORTH Not Allowed To Be Mature

Dear Mary Haworth: We are three sisters from a very nice family. The youngest, Anna, is 19 and still in school. I am in my early twenties, and my elder sister Nell is in her late twenties. Nell and I have been married, but unfortunately our marriages didn't work out; so now we are back home with our parents.

Nell and I both have very good jobs. And since we are divorced, my mother thinks we shouldn't go any place—that we should stay home. When we do get a chance to go out, she thinks we should return home at a very early hour. If we are the least bit late, she really argues with us.

Mother says she isn't raising us to stay out late; and when we plan to go out, she thinks we should ask her permission. Usually the three of us go out together and we have a very nice time. In regard to my younger sister Anna, mother doesn't even want to trust her out alone with boys.

Don't you think that, at our ages, we have been already raised? Aren't we old enough to take care of ourselves? How can we solve our problem and yet not hurt our mother's feelings? B.G.

STILL CHILDREN

Dear B.G.: Let's put it this way: If a child in school couldn't pass the tests required, for promotion into more advanced lessons, but was returned year after year to the same old disciplines, dispensed by the same primary teacher, we couldn't rightly consider him a graduate student, could we?

Well, much the same principle

COOK'S CORNER

PEAR-GRAPE JAM

Dice 5 large pears (1 3/4 lbs.) seed grapes, 1 1/2 lbs. This should measure 5 1/3 cups.

Cook until soft in small amount of water to prevent scorching. Add four cups white sugar and cook until jam is thick. Fills seven 8-oz jars.

SHIPBOARD TIME

Ship's bells sound once for each half-hour in a four-hour period, with maximum eight bells at 4 a. m., 8 a. m., etc.

WORLD WIDE GUILD

Mrs. R. F. Welton was hostess for the December meeting of the Junior Chapter of the World Wide Guild of the Charlottetown Baptist Church. Mrs. Douglas A. Cameron, president, led the devotions

HOUSEHOLD HINT

Cut small pieces off the bottom of each stem of cut flowers as soon as you get them. Dryness in the florist's box may have caused the stems to close so the flowers can't take in moisture. The action is similar to sealing a drinking straw with wax.
