THE Grand Encampment of the Maritime Provinces of Canada was instituted at Summerside on Tuesday, 9th inst. At the session of the Grand Lodge on the day following notice will be given changing the name of the Grand Lodge from that of the "Lower Provinces, British North America," to as to harmonize with the Grand Encampment both of which will be known by their new names.

TO-MORROW morning in the police court, Richard Farquharson, Louis Whelan and Wallace Knight will answer to a charge of disorderly conduct. One day last week these three got on a spree. They drove around town at a furious rate and then started for the country. Here they came to grief. They were charged with assaulting a farmer's wife, breaking his furniture and windows. Sergt. Bradley was put on the tract and had been arrested. Such conduct is disgraceful.

We have received the initial number of the Maritime Grocer and Commercial Review, published at Halifax in behalf of the Groceries and Provision trades, and generally for the commercial interests of the Maritime Provinces. Mr. G. P. McLennan, one of Halifax's ablest young journalists is editor. The Review has, among other features, special articles from the Montreal, New York, and Chicago Markets. It will no doubt be warmly welcomed by the Trade.

OUR readers cannot fail to be impressed with the immensity of Jas. Paton & Co's advertisement in this issue. This well-known and popular firm keep themselves continually before the people, and in this lies the secret of their success. Their large trade during the months of August and September in previous years warrants them in launching out on a big scale this year with greater bargains than ever before. Read carefully what they have to say.

DUNCAN MUNN, Esq., of Little Sands, left for home yesterday by the M. A. Starr, via Orwell. Under Mr. Munn's supervision the log house, erected for the celebration of the pioneer feature at the gathering of the clans on Wednesday next, is now completed. The walls are formed of logs about 7 inches in diameter, and undressed, laid horizontally and crossing each other at each corner of the building, where they are coarsely notched about half through to allow each log to touch the one immediately below it. The chinks are filled in with moss. The roof is formed of lighter material and covered with bark peeled off the tree in large unbroken pieces, and secured by poles lashed down with birch gads. It certainly presents an antiquated appearance.

THE LAKE MAGAZINE FOR AUGUST.—The first number has been issued of a new high-class magazine, published by The Lake Publishing Company of Toronto. In its chaste and elegant appearance it rivals the best of its American contemporaries, while in the character and popular interest of its contents it scores a decided success. The magazine is devoted to politics, science and general literature, and purposes filling in some measure, in the discussion of public questions, the place filled in Britain and the United States by the leading reviews of these countries. The political articles will be contributed by leading statesmen and writers of both Canada and the United States, and appearing under the names of the individual writers. In the present number articles on Canada and Imperial Federation, Edward Blake and Ireland, a Cheap and Simple Franchise, from the pens of leading Canadian journalists, and also articles on The Lead of Massena, A Canadian Literature, Second-Sight Along the Wires, Art in Canada To-day,—all interesting and well written. Two stories and two poems of superior merit, in addition to a number of illustrations complete the list of contents.

SEA SERPENTS IN MONTREAL.

Lively Experience of a Ship's Crew.

(Montreal Star.)

A serpent, and especially a venomous one, on board a ship is calculated to rather try the nerves of the seamen, and this the sailors on the ship Theodore H. Rand discovered when, one fine day during their voyage from Iloilo to Montreal, they were made aware that a vicious snake, seven feet in length, had possession of the deck and proceeded to make things lively on board. How this snake came on board the Theodore H. Rand is a mystery. Its presence was first discovered by the man at the wheel when the snake made a dart for him. The steersman called out lustily, and some of the crew coming on the poop deck where the snake held high carnival were in turn attacked by the reptile. The men had to move about lively to get out of its way, as it made very rapid lunges, darting a distance of fully seven feet at a jump. The snake had everything its own way for a while, when finally it was killed by the captain, who succeeded in cutting off its head with an axe. The snake was a long slender water-snake, beautifully marked, and is said to be so venomous, that a bite from it to one of its own species will cause death. It is thought the serpent was washed on board by a wave. It is a most unusual occurrence to have such a passenger put on board in this manner, nor is it usual to see such serpents so far south. Around Calcutta water snakes are often noticed swimming around the ship. The "Theodore H. Rand" snake, however, now occupies a prominent place in the cabin. It is stuffed with oakum and is no longer an object of terror.

The Theodore H. Rand left Iloilo for Montreal on March 8 last. She experienced a hurricane while off the Cape of Good Hope. The wind and waves were terrible. It was during this storm that the snake is supposed to have been washed on board.
