Racy Literature.

"How solemn these funernal obstacles is!" said Mrs. Partington, as she looked down from an upper chamber window, on the day of a mock funeral of one of the presidents. She took off her specs to wipe the moisture from their discs, tapped her box mournfully to the measured time of the distant drum, and looked anxiously down the street, to catch the first glimpse of the funeral train. "Here it comes at last," quoth she, "with the soldiers all playing with muzzled drums, and their flags all flying at half-mast. Is that the catastrophe?" whispered she of a gentleman near her.

"That is the catafalque, madam," replied he.

"Well, well," said she, "no matter; I knowed there was a cat about it, and I didn't know but it might be a catapl sm. Will you tell me when the artillery flies over, that come on here to tend the funeral?"

"Good gracious, madam!" cried he testily, "they don't fly. They are artillery men on horseback, merely."

"Dear me!" replied she, "I thought it was one the wings of the army and flew. How easy it is to get mistaken!"

She pensively gazed upon the pageant that slowly passed before her.

"What a pity it is," said she, "that we don't vally people till arter they are dead; but then what paragories we pour upon them!"

She here paused; a silence pervaded the chamber; the procession had passed, the company had departed, and two hours after the old woman was found still sitting by the window fast asleep. So powerful is grief!

PEPPERCASE REBUKED.—"Stop your noise in there!" roared Mr. Peppercase, as he heard the sound of a juvenile riot in the kitchen. "If I come to you I'll give you something that you'll remember for a fortnight! I'll knock your heads off! I never saw such children in my life; always yelling and fighting."

"I declare, that's queer," said Mrs. Partington, who was there to tea; "that is queer, when they have such a very mild man for a father; I should think they would be as gentle as doves. Some fathers are like the frightful porcupine, and of course their children will be fractious;—as the old hog sqeals the young ones learn, you know."

She stirred her tea gently, and smiled as she spoke; and Mr. Peppercase, after a vain effort to detect malice in her looks, changed the subject to the best mode of raising cucumbers, which cooled him down in a short time.

EXCELLENT ADVICE—"Never get in debt, Isaac," said Mrs. Partington; and she raised her tea-spoon with an oracular and held it thus, as if from it were suspended the threads of a fine argument on economy, discernable in her eye alone, and she was watching an opportunity to make it tangible. "Never get in debt no matter whether you are creditable or not; it is better to live on a crust of bread and water and a herring or two, than cows and oxen cut up into rump steaks, and owe for it. Think of our neighbor, what a failing he had, and had all his goods and impertinences took away on a mean procession and sold, and his poor wife reduced to a cafeo gound, starvation, and shushon tea, and he in Californey."

"Some tea, please," said Ike, as he handed over his tin dipper. The tea, like her own reflections, trickled out musically, and she passed along the caution, with the cream and sugar, never to get in debt.

"And do you believe in the spirituous knockings?" asked Mrs. Partington, as she leaned forward over the table, and bent her eyes on a queer individual who had related some wonderful things he had seen. "O, I would so like to have poor Paul come back."

A gentle rapping upon the old chest in the corner attracted their attention, and the whole of them immediately surrounded it.

"If it's Paul's apprehension," said Mrs. Partington, "I know he'll answer me. Paul is that you?"

Knock.

"Just like him," said she, smiling, "when he was living, he was always tapping when we had anything in the house to tap, didn't you, Paul?"

Knock.

"Can't you speak to me?"

Knock.

"Does that mean yes or no?"

Knock.

"Which does it mean?"

Knock.

Some of the party suggested that alphabet should be called, which was done.

"Are you in want of anything?" said she.

Knock.

"What is it?"

And the anxious spectators, through the medium of the alphabet, spelled out "S-i-d-u-r."

"It's Paul," cried the old woman delightedly; "that's the way he always spelled it. Do you want me to come to you, Paul?"

The answer came back, "No, I'm in better company."

The old lady turned away mournfully. There was sorrow in the wavy lock of gray hair that struggled beneath her cap border,—there was a quiver of grief in the tone that inquired for the scissors,—there was a misty vapor upon her specs, like the dew upon the leaves after a rain,—the cap-border, like a flag at half-mast, trailed in woe over the ruin of dissapointed affection. At that instant the cover of the chest opened, and the head of Ike, protruding disclosed the the secret of the knockings.

"Ah, you rogue!" said she, a smile dispelling all evidence of disorder, "Ah, you rogue! was it you? You'll never be a good spirit as long as you live, I'm afraid, if you go on so. But I knowed it wasn't Paul."

There was triumph in her tone, and it seemed as if a whole basket full of sunshine had been upset in that room, it was pleasant all the rest of the evening.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

MRS. WINSLOW,

An experienced Nurse and Female Physician, presents to the attention of mothers, her

SOOTHING SYRUP,

FOR CHILDREN TEETHING.

which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflamation—will allay all pain and spasmodic action, and is

SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and Relief and Health to your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for over thirty years, and can say, in confidence and truth of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—never has it failed in a single instance, to effect a cure, when timely used. Never did we know an instance oi dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this manner "what we do know," after thirty years' experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfilment of what we here declare. An almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

This valuable preparation is the prescriptions of one of the most experienced and skilful nurses in New England, and has been used with never failing success in thousands of cases. It not only relieves the child from pain but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve GRIPING IN THE BOWELS, AND WIND COLIC, and overcome convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death. We believe it the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentry and Diarrhœa in Children, whether it arises from teething, or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—do not let your prejudices, nor the prejudices of others, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be sure—yes, absolutely sure—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None Genuine unless the fac-smile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

Sold by Druggists throughout the world. Principal office, No. 48 Dey Street, N. Y. Price, only 35 Cents per Bottle.

New Triumphs of Rogers' Medicines.

Run your eye over them and tell your afflicted neighbour about it.

AMHERST, N. S., August 7th, 1866.

MESSRS. ROGERS & CO.:—

Gentlemen—Permit me to add my testimony to the gret value of your preparation; and any person reading the following account of a cure effected by it upon my son, will not dispute my right to do so.

He first fell upon a fork handle in the barn, and hurt his leg a little below the knee; he subsequently took cold, when it b gan to swell and pain him very much. It soon ulcerated near where it was hurt, and continued to discharge freely, until the calf of the leg seemed to be one mass of corruption. His foot and knee swelled very much, and when we commenced with your medicine, was very much inflamed, and was evidently on the eve of mortification. The pain and suffering he endured, no pen can describe. He grew weaker daily. Nothing that medical skill and faithful attendance could accomplish, was omitted; still he gradually sunk, until there seemed but little hope of saving either his life or limb. As a last effort, the doctors decided to amputate the leg. This was to have been done the next day, but just at this critical point, a kind friend advised me to try your medicine. I concluded to do so; and the leg at once began to improve, and is now well. He goes to school daily.

This is, certainly, the most extraordinary cure ever made in this country. No person could fully appreciate the sad and suffering condition he was in, without seeing for themselves; to all human appearance he could not have lived a week; there did not seem to be a ray of hope left. Doubtless there are thousands dying whose lives might be spared, if they had this extraordinary medicine.

Hoping that God may prosper you in your work of humanity,

I am, Gentlemen, yours affectionately,
ALISON COPELAND.

We, the undersigned, inhabitants of Amherst and vicinity—some of us having been eye witnesses to the above distressing case, and all being quite familiar with the facts, from common report in this community—have no hesitation in endorsing the above statements of Mr. Copeland.
