Nine Killed, Three Seriously Injured In Saskatchewan Highway Collision

Seven Men, Woman And Child Die

WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—Nine persons were killed and three seriously injured Saturday night when two cars collided near this town 70 miles southeast of Regina.

A child, a woman and seven men died in the crash, some in flames that enveloped one car just after the accident. Three children are in hospital here seriously injured.

Two passing motorists pulled a child from the burning car after smashing a window with a stone. They were driven back by flames before they could get to five male passengers, all oil workers.

They were identified Sunday as owner and driver Robert Prive of Stoughton, S. Sask.; Walter and James Thorlakson and Peter Haverchuk, all of Weyburn, Sask.; and Joseph Popadynec, address unknown.

Killed in the other car were elderly Leonard Pickard, Mr. and Mrs. George Pickard and their son Lloyd, 9. All were from Blenfaith, Sask.

BURST INTO FLAMES Reported in satisfactory condition in hospital were two other Pickard children—David, 10, and Gerald, 5—and Randy Haverchuk, the two-year-old boy who was pulled from the burning car. Doctors said that all three children suffered multiple fractures.

Motorist Melvin Bierke was driving along a straight stretch of highway No. 30 when he came on the accident scene.

As he drove up, Bierke said, a car straddling the highway burst into flames. The other car was in a ditch.

"I heard someone shout and I tried to kick in one of the windows," George Dawson, a district farmer returning from a friend's farm, pulled up behind Bierke's car and to help.

"I grabbed a stone from along the highway and with it we managed to break a window," he said.

TOGETHER the two men pulled a child from the car—then flames engulfed it. Two children were found alive in the other car, lying sideways in a ditch. One of the men took the three children to hospital.

Police said it was difficult to say what caused the accident. There were no witnesses.

Feel Tito On Dangerous Ground In Moscow Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President of Yugoslavia, in the view of U.S. officials, is playing a dangerous game on his visit to Moscow.

Policy makers are following Tito's moves and awaiting the outcome of his talks before venturing any final conclusions on precisely what his present position is between East and West really is.

But the opinion of most experts within the government is that Tito definitely does not want to break his highly profitable ties with the United States, Britain, France and other free countries even though he is clearly working for re-establishment of cordial relations with Moscow.

CONTRADICTIONARY AIMS The problem of keeping these two more or less contradictory aims in balance is what makes his present diplomacy, in the view

AIMED AT MOROCCO, TUNISIA

Mollet Issues Stern Warning

PARIS (Reuters)—Premier Guy Mollet warned the newly independent governments of Morocco and Tunisia Saturday night to keep their hands off Algeria.

Winding up a three-day debate on North Africa, the socialist premier told the national assembly that France can never allow Algeria to become a Moslem nation. He said he presumes the Moroccan and Tunisian governments would not "risk their friendship" with France by interfering in Algeria.

Mollet reaffirmed that his government is prepared to carry out a "new order" in Algeria once the country is pacified. He said the nationalist insurgents know they have no chance of victory against the French forces.

Once again, Mollet pointed out that the solution adopted in Tunisia and Morocco cannot be applied to Algeria because it is an integral part of France and has a population of more than 1,000,000 Frenchmen along with about 8,000,000 Moslems.

CONFIDENCE VOTE Mollet is taking the life of his four-month-old government on a confidence vote, scheduled Tuesday.

122 Candidates In Field For N. B. Election

FREDERICTON (CP)—A field of at least 122 candidates for the 52 seats in the New Brunswick legislature was indicated Sunday night. The official nomination for the June 18 election close at 1 p.m. ADT today.

Supporters of Premier Hugh John Flemming's Progressive Conservative government and the Liberal party headed by Austin C. Taylor have chosen full slates. There are 17 Social Credit candidates to date and one independent. No CCF candidates have been nominated. In the last election in 1952 the party nominated 10 candidates.

Premier Flemming and Mr. Taylor are running in the old constituencies of Carleton and Westmorland, respectively. The standing after the 1952 election: Progressive Conservatives 36, Liberals 17, Three of the Conservative seats—in Kings, Saint John City and Victoria—were vacant at dissolution of the leg...

PREDICT EASY PASSAGE

Quick Senate Action On Pipeline Bill Expected

OTTAWA (CP)—Present indications are that the government's controversial pipeline legislation will receive swift passage in the Senate, compared with the bitter three-week struggle in the Commons.

Any possibility that the seven Progressive Conservative Senators will be able to block the bill is just about ruled out, despite a plea in the Commons Friday that the Senate give the bill a long second look.

The earliest time at which the measure is expected to receive third and final reading in the Commons is in the early hours of Wednesday.

JUNE 7 DEADLINE That would leave the Senate two days to pass the pipeline bill before the Thursday, June 7, deadline set by the government.

In the light of Conservative and CCF opposition in the Commons, it is certain debate on third reading will go on several days unless the government moves today to impose debate-taking closure for the fourth time on the issue.

In setting the deadline, the government said that if its bill to set up the northern Ontario pipeline crown corporation is not approved by June 7, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. would be released from its agreement to build the line's western leg by Dec. 31.

WOULD PERMIT LOAN The legislation would permit the crown corporation to lend up to $80,000,000 to Trans-Canada for construction of the line and to build the northern Ontario section of the 2,200-mile project in co-operation with Ontario.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) urged in the Commons Friday that the Senate should show it is not "completely supine" by putting up stiff opposition to the bill. Demands for abolition of the Senate would be justified unless the Upper House displayed its traditional independent character and gave the bill a sober second look. Unlike the Commons, the Senate has no closure rules or time limit on speeches. It can sit around the clock and any motion for adjournment could be defeated by the overwhelming Liberal majority.

The little non-Conservative support the Senate opposition could muster likely would be insufficient to block the measure if Solicitor-General Ross Macdonald, government Senate leader, decides to keep the chamber in continuous sitting until approval is gained.

The Opposition Senators expected to speak are Senators John T. Haig, Manitoba, Opposition leader; Walter Aseltine and Ralph B. Horner, Saskatchewan; John T. Hackett, Quebec; and Felix Quinn, Nova Scotia.

Senator Arthur Marcotte, Saskatchewan, is not expected to speak. Senator James A. Calder, Saskatchewan, is not in Ottawa.

Remainder of the Senate's membership consists of 80 Liberals, one Independent Liberal and two Independents.

Possibility Of New British Naval Bases In Far East

By ARTHUR GAVSHON LONDON (AP)—Construction of two new naval bases on Africa's eastern seaboard and on Australia's west coast were reported under consideration today to bolster Commonwealth defence lines.

Authorized informants reported a high-level reappraisal of Commonwealth defence strategy in the Middle and Far East is now far advanced. It has been supervised personally by Admiral Lord Mountbatten, Britain's first sea lord, who toured naval installations in the Pacific and Indian ocean areas two months ago.

Mountbatten's mission was to check the needs and the strategy of Britain's navy against the changing political picture of the Middle and Far East.

The urgency of Mountbatten's task has been underscored by events in Ceylon, where a new nationalist premier, Solomon Bandaranaike, has said his Commonwealth government will demand Britain's withdrawal from naval and air installations at Trincomalee.

ON LONDON AGENDA Prime Ministers of other Commonwealth countries mainly affected—Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the Central African Federation—will discuss the new strategic pattern later this month. They will be in London for a conference of Commonwealth prime ministers beginning June 27. The other countries attending are India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Canada.

Favored setting now for a new East African naval base is Kenya's deepwater port of Mombasa. Its Kilindini harbor was big enough to shelter the whole of the British East Indies fleet during the Second World War.

Site of the projected West Australian base would be at Cockburn Sound, 12 miles south of Fremantle. Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies told reporters in Colombo today that establishment of such a base "is a matter that needs careful attention and costs a vast sum of money, and Australia has no money to burn."

Earlier in the week Defence Minister Sir Philip McBride told Parliament there is no urgent need for a base there now but that the advantages are fully appreciated. The postwar upsurge of nationalism in Middle and Far Eastern countries has transformed the face of the British Empire. Some countries which had served as safe and sure British bases now follow their own way either inside or outside the Commonwealth. They include India, Pakistan, Burma, Palestine, Sudan, and Egypt.

There are new pressures building up along the eastern seaboard of Africa, in parts of Arabia, in southeast Asia and in the South China sea.

The Eden government is worried by Egypt's pledge to support Yemen and Saudi Arabia ambitions to oust British rule from Aden and the Aden protectorates. Aden is a staging point for a loosening of British grip, but Prime Minister Eden insists Cyprus must remain available for British use.

WINDSOR, England (Reuters)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh sail today aboard the royal yacht Britannia for a three-day state visit to Stockholm.

This will be the Queen's first glimpse of Stockholm, and the Swedish government has arranged a welcome that will be memorable.

When the Britannia, which sails this evening from Teesport County Durham, arrives in Swedish waters next Friday at 6 a. m., she will have an escort of 300 jet fighters flying in the form of a four-leaf clover "for happiness and good luck."

Prince Bertil, the son of King Gustaf and Queen Louise, will be at the harbor to greet the royal couple.

The visit will be a family affair as well as a state occasion, because Queen Louise is an aunt of the Duke of Edinburgh. Admiral Lord Mountbatten, Queen Elizabeth's aide-de-camp and the duke's uncle, will be in the royal entourage. Queen Louise is his sister.

The Queen and the duke will drive in state to the royal palace where a 12-room suite with a magnificent view of the harbor has been prepared for them.

It has been unofficially reported here that extra Swedish policemen and plainclothes men will be on guard during the royal visit because of Scotland Yard's concern over the possibility of action by Cypriot gunmen.

The Queen and the duke will lunch with their royal hosts at the palace and in the afternoon will meet members of the diplomatic corps.

In the evening they will appear on the balcony of the palace to hear a welcome sung by a choir stationed on "Lions' hill (Lejonbacken) near the palace.

UNDER FIRE IN COMMONS

Criticized repeatedly by the Opposition, Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin leaves the Chamber Friday during the most hectic day of the pipeline debate. Wild disorder reigned for 30 minutes early in the aft. noon in an unprecedented opposition demonstration against the Speaker highlighted by an attempt by Opposition Leader Drew to have 'im censured. "Sensational" Discovery Of Christian Documents

FRIBOURG, Switzerland (Reuters)—Important fragments of a translation of the Book of Gamaliel, hitherto an almost unknown Apocryphal work, have been found in an Ethiopian manuscript of the 15th century, it was disclosed here today.

The discovery was made by a Dutch Dominican priest, Father Marc-Antoine van den Ouderrijn, professor of Old Testament studies at the Swiss Roman Catholic University of Fribourg.

Authoritative Roman Catholic sources described the discovery as "sensational" and of great interest in regard to the origins of Christianity. The fragments cover the story of the Passion from Good Friday to the Resurrection of Christ.

Gamaliel, a Pharisee, favored treating the first Christians with leniency. The fragment of about 10 pages probably was translated from the original Greek in the second century.

MOLOTOV RESIGNATION

Foresee Little Change In Red Foreign Policy

By ALVIN STEINKOPF LONDON (AP)—Western Europe received the news of the resignation of V. M. Molotov as Soviet foreign minister with considerable satisfaction, but could foresee no spectacular changes in Russian foreign policy. That pretty much reflected the reaction in Washington, too.

Molotov was the man who most persistently said "no" to Western suggestions for an East-West accord. Diplomats hope there will be a different refrain now.

Molotov's going was big news everywhere in Europe but there was little official comment. In many quarters his retirement was expected, and a general view was that he no longer fitted into new Kremlin patterns. British government sources said his departure

"just catches up with events in Russia." An extraordinary gesture of conciliation of Tito of Yugoslavia, who began an extraordinary gesture of conciliation to President Tito of Yugoslavia, who began an official visit to Russia Saturday. Molotov was a prime mover in the 1948 expulsion of Tito from the Cominform.

NO SOFTENING There was no disposition in Western Europe to believe Russian foreign policy is softening to any large degree. The independent West Berlin Morgenpost said Molotov's successor as foreign minister, Dmitri Shepilov, will be "definitely no less dangerous in negotiations with the free world."

"The new foreign minister," said the leftist but non-Communist newspaper, "is a tireless

IN ALTA. MLA'S HOME

Seven Persons Murdered

ERSKINE, Alta. (CP)—Seven persons were shot and killed Sunday in the farm home of John E. Clark, Social Credit member of the Alberta legislature.

Inspector M. Laberge, heading a 12-man RCMP investigating team, said Clark is sought for questioning in the case. Organized search for the slayer got under way late in the day when a police dog from High River was brought into this isolated district 17 miles northwest of Stettler.

RCMP identified the dead as: Mrs. Margaret Clark, 36; the four Clark children, Jenens, 8; Rosa, 7, Ann, 5, and Linda 4;

George Anderson 21, of Peace River, Alta., a hired man on the Clark farm, and Bill Olah, about 30, a sailor in the Royal Canadian Navy whose home was believed to have been Medicine Hat, Olah, a visitor to the Clark farm, was wounded and died later in hospital in Stettler, about 100 miles southeast of Edmonton.

FOUND BY NEIGHBOR Inspector Laberge said a 22-calibre rifle was used in the slayings. The bodies of the six dead and of the fatally wounded Olah were found inside the two-story frame house by G. M. Parrett, farmer-neighbor of the Clarks, about 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Clark and the four children had been shot through the head. It was not known immediately how Anderson and Olah had been shot. Inspector Laberge said a 22-calibre rifle was known to have been borrowed by Clark, 41, a part-time school teacher and farmer who has represented Stettler in the legislature since 1952, from a neighbor, T. M. Robinson. The Clarks were married in 1947. Mrs. Clark was daughter of George W. Dinwoodie of Vancouver. No reason for the mass slayings was known.

FIRE IN UNIVERSITY

LONDON (Reuters)—Firemen Friday fought the second major fire in the University of London's egyptology department in 12 weeks, and once again only just managed to save the contents of the famous reference library. The blaze brought down 150 feet of roof and wrecked offices and lecture rooms in the department. Much costly repair work in progress following the first fire last March was destroyed.
