IRELAND.

Through the malicious burning of six acres of a new plantation belonging to Edmund H. Percy, Esq., High Sheriff of Mayo, Coolronean House has been completely destroyed.

DISTRESS.—The distress is increasing to an alarming extent in the neighborhood of Loughrea. An old man, who had spent fifteen years in the army, has just been discovered in a frightful state of emaciation in one of the surrounding districts. He was lying on a heap of straw, without food or clothing, and although the place in which he was lying is unfit for human habitation, he declared that he did not want relief, and would not go to the workhouse. Whole families are starving and it is stated that three persons have already died from the effects of hunger.

Reserved Rivers in P. E. I.

Nor long since a good deal of political capital was attempted to be made out of the fact that four rivers in this Province, viz: Dunk, Winter, Morell and Midgell—had been set apart by an Order in Council for the natural and artificial propagation of fish. The poor man's rights, it was said, had been interfered with; and a good deal of sentimental clap-trap was indulged in by the lovers of the rod and fly. Our object in now referring to this matter is not to find fault with the Order, for we believe it to be in the interest of the public at large, as well as for the benefit of persons living in the immediate vicinity of these rivers. We merely wish to call attention to the fact that the Order in Council setting apart the before named rivers was passed by the late Administration on the 8th of October, 1875. Let persons therefore, who are of opinion that their rights have been interfered with by the setting apart of these rivers, bear in mind that it was the late, and not the present, Government who passed the necessary Order in Council.

Fishermen's Boats—A New Model Suggested.

J. HUNTER DUBAR, Esq., Inspector of Fisheries for P. E. Island, in his able and exhaustive Report for the year 1879, offers for consideration of the Department certain practical suggestions that are entitled to more than a mere passing notice. On the subject of boats, for instance, his remarks are as follows:—

"Something ought here to be said of boats, the observations having reference to all varieties of fish sought for in these waters. Our fishermen's boats are mostly built by themselves, in the intervals of other labor. Many of these boats are neither commodious nor safe, for the reason that the shores are shelving and shoal, the seas are heavy and break a long way off. Were the coast bolder, I would take it on me respectfully to suggest, for here or elsewhere, that it would pay the Government to introduce from the east coast of Scotland (perhaps from Fife) a model of one of the seaworthy fishing boats, which, held in joint stock and manned by the shareholders, kept the sea, in pursuit of business, when larger craft could not live. With such boats, our fishermen could compete with foreigners, who, owning better appliances for keeping the sea, have almost a monopoly of the waters outside of the three miles line. As it is, I take the liberty of suggesting the advisability of the Department taking some measures to introduce to public notice a model of an improved fishing boat, at once seaworthy and adapted for beaching on coasts shallow as ours."

This suggestion, we believe, is a good one. Heavy keel boats cannot be used at all in localities where the water is shoal for some distance from the shore. The old-fashioned dory is, in many respects, unsuitable for shore fishing. We believe that an improved fishing boat could be built which would far surpass, both in safety and commodiousness, any "craft" now in use among our fishermen.

Lobsters.

Under this head, our Island Fishery Inspector in his last annual report, offers some very pertinent and timely remarks. The following extracts are well worthy of further consideration:

"In this age of competition the tendency is to overdo any business that promises to be lucrative. Such, it would appear, is about to be the case in the canning of lobsters. Whatever measures of repression may be called for in lobster packing, it is not one of those industries that require to be fostered into growth.

Several important questions, present and prospective, arise out of this great industry. For example, the fishery staff is so small and opportunity so easy to evade the law, that no sufficient supervision can be had over the destruction of spawning and undersized lobsters. Let me say, the fishery is carried on by means of the box trap and hoop trap. Comparatively few hoop traps are as yet in use, but if my information is correct, much the greater number of the undersized lobsters are meshed in the hoops. The remedy suggests itself, viz:

that hoop traps be declared illegal. Further, an Order in Council might prescribe such distance between the laths of box traps as would permit the small lobsters to escape. The objection to such regulations would be that considerable capital is invested in them in their present shape, and moreover, the juvenile crustaceans might crawl in as well as out, and by filtering the bait prevent the capture of larger fish.

Another question, that is at present only beginning to loom up, but will cause trouble as factories increase, is encroachment on the fishing grounds of each other. Instances are known where buildings have been erected apart from the leases consent, on dunes and sandhills, leased for pasturage half a century ago from the Local Government, but over which the General Government now claims jurisdiction. Many of the purchased sites are closely adjacent to other factories. It will thus be seen that formidable difficulties lie in the way of assigning and defining fishing stations to the respective factories; and yet it is a matter that must sooner or later be met. Probably the earlier it is done the easier it will be. The subject is already engaging the attention of packers. Another matter connected herewith is the issuing of licenses to lobster fishers, toward which I find several of the leading men the reverse of opposed."

Queen Square School.

ANNUAL EXAMINATION—THE PRIZE LIST.

AMONG those present at the annual examination of this school, to-day, were Hon. A. A. McDonald, W. E. Dawson, Esq., Thomas Handrahan, Esq., Archibald Kennedy, Esq., Miss Montgomery, Miss Doyle, Professor Caven, R. R. FitzGerald, Esq., H. Lawson, Esq., P. R. Bowers, Esq., A. McNeill, Esq., Mr. Hamilton, of the Patriot and Mr. McDonald, of the Argus. There was a good attendance of pupils. On the register of the school are the names of three hundred boys, and the average daily attendance is two hundred and thirteen. Regularity of attendance is one of the features of this school, and probably one of the reasons of the marked improvement evident. The Teachers are: Mr. Gaul (Principal), Mr. Curran, Mr. McElmeel, Mr. Smith and Mr. McDonald. The latter has a very full class and some of the pupils are under five years. Considering their ages and circumstances, the reading of boys in this class is remarkably good. With respect to the other classes we have space only to say that they exhibit the good results of careful teaching and systematic training. This school is working a great change in the prospects of the boys who attend it. The following is the Prize List:—

PRIZE LIST.

Mr. McDonald's Department.
