A ROMANCE

"Ah, Pierre, 'tis but an hour since we met!"

"What does it matter? I love you!"

"Oh, joy! To my arms!"

"Mon ange!"

"Ma vie!"

"Today, Eugenie, we will wed! The bells will ring, the sun will shine, all our friends will be there to say: 'Happy Pierre! Happy Eugenie!' Is it not grand? Come, let us fly, for 'tis torture waiting."

"Beautiful life! Beautiful love!"

"But Eugenie, have you any money?"

"None! Have you?"

"Ten sous! Alas for hope! We are cursed by a cruel fate! I weep!"

"Mon Dieu! And I was so happy!"

"Wipe away thy tears, Eugenie! I have a plan. Ten sous will buy enough charcoal for one grand suicide. So it shall be!"

"Ah, Pierre, thou angel! How stupid of me not to think of it before! We shall die in each other's arms!"

"So pale, so interesting! All the people that through the morgue will cry and murmur, 'So young, so beautiful!'"

"And the papers will all brim with the thrilling accounts, and immortelles will be bought for us by subscription!"

"And our friends will say, 'Ah, they were wonderful people, these two—Pierre and Eugenie!' and will swell with pride as they say to the canaille that crowds about for a peep: 'Back! In life they were our friends, and death has not dissolved the bond! Beautiful!'"

"Quick, Pierre, and get the charcoal before the store closes! Merci! How my heart beats with impatience!"—Kansas City Independent.

The Flight of Fashion.

Mrs. Frillington—You heard, of course, that my daughter and I were to have gone to Miss Cashmore's wedding tomorrow. And now, I'm sorry to say, the ceremony is postponed for a month on account of the bridegroom's accident.

Country Visitor—How very distressing! Nothing serious, I hope?

Mrs. Frillington—Oh, but indeed it is most serious! We have had our gowns made specially in Paris, the very latest thing, and of course in a month's time they will be utterly out of date!—Punch.

"A Word to the Wise," Etc.

The young man had taken off his coat and hung his hat carefully on the hall rack. Coming into the parlor, he went to the fire and held his hands out to warm them. The girl waited for him to speak, but it was evident that he was a bashful young man and knew not how to begin the conversation. Finally he said:

"It was very, very cold last night. I staid at home and hugged the stove all the evening."

The girl turned her great brown eyes

THE WEDDING RING.

Death lurks in every place in this "vale of tears." There is no happiness, no joy, no gaiety, no success, no sorrow and no failure that may not secrete him. A favorite hiding-place for death, where women are concerned, is in the very happiness and rapture of wifehood and the sacred joy of motherhood. But too frequently there is death in the embrace of love, and the first touch of baby-fingers is succeeded by the chilly grasp of the grim destroyer.

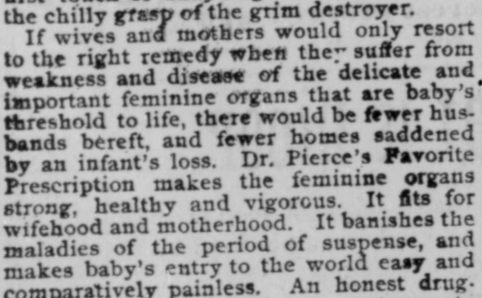

If wives and mothers would only resort to the right remedy when they suffer from weakness and disease of the delicate and important feminine organs that are baby's threshold to life, there would be fewer husbands bereft, and fewer homes saddened bands bereft, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes the feminine organs strong, healthy and vigorous. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. It banishes the maladies of the period of suspense, and makes baby's entry to the world easy and comparatively painless. An honest druggist will not try to induce a customer to take an inferior substitute for this great remedy, for the sake of extra profit.

"Mrs. Seagle was a great sufferer from a combination of female diseases, a few years ago, from which she has been entirely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Geo. A. Seagle, Esq., of Box 130, Wytheville, Va. "She is thoroughly convinced that there is no medicine on earth equal to the 'Favorite Prescription,' and she doesn't hesitate to say so. She has recommended it to her lady friends, and in all cases, where it has been given a fair trial, it has given entire satisfaction."

In cases of constipation and torpid liver, no remedy is equal to Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate and invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. They never fail. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. An honest dealer will not urge a substitute upon you.

The Danger of Modesty in Politics.

The chairman of the state committee glanced at the latest batch of returns and sighed wearily. His look was the look of a man who had no hope, who saw an abyss at his feet and knew that he must plunge into it.

"Why, what's the matter?" his chief assistant asked. "You look ill."

"I am," the chairman replied. "Have you seen those latest figures?"

"Yes, but surely there is nothing in them to discourage you. They only add to the glorious victory we have won. Our plurality keeps getting greater and greater as the distant counties are heard from."

"Yes," groaned the chairman, "that's the trouble. My career as a campaign manager is ended. After this I shall be shelved. The party managers will never repose any confidence in me again. Our vote will be at least 8,000 above my highest claim! I have al-

Healthful Ignorance.

"Don't you want the water of your well analyzed?" asked the traveling agent of the chemical company.

"What fur?" inquired the hale old farmer sitting on the front porch.

"To know whether it is pure and wholesome or not."

"I reckon not. If there's anything the matter of it, mister, I'd rather not know it."

"How long have you been using it?"

"Eighty-seven years."

The traveling agent passed on.—Chicago Tribune.

Profitable Silence.

"I think that husbands ought to pay their wives a weekly salary," declared Mrs. Tomdik.

"About how much?" asked Mrs. Hojack.

"Well, say $10 a week."

"I used to think so, too, until I discovered that my husband pays about $800 a year for my millinery and clothes alone, and then I decided that any salary I would like to ask for wouldn't go very far."—Detroit Free Press.

Not So Brave as He Looked.

Stricken by panic, the audience was jamming itself into the exits.

"Gee!" said the comedian. "I thought it was just the usual rush."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Woes of a Veteran.

"Yes," said the one legged veteran, "Billy chipped splinters off my wooden leg to light the fire with, an when I got a cork leg the old lady wuz puttin up catchup, an she used six inches of it for bottle stoppers. That's why I look so lopsided!"—Atlanta Constitution.

THOSE METEORS.

A Thrilling Romance of the Far-away Philippines.

A silver moon floated high above the palms. Night birds called just as they do in Stephen Crane's books. A solemn hush had fallen on the land, such a hush as falls upon the congregation when the rector says, "Let your light so shine." Aguineldo sat on the bank of a listless flowing stream pondering, with chin sunk in his breast, like Napoleon in the tea store lithographs.

Then with one accord the heavens burst. A rain of stars fell, their reflections twinkling on the verdure.

Aguineldo pulled himself together with a start.

"Takawana! Takawana!" he called in an affrighted tone.

The faithful aid came around from behind the bush.

"Oh, Takawana, Takawana! What was that?"

"Only a meteoric display," was the answer.

"Thank heaven!" exclaimed the shivering leader as he fell upon the neck of Taky. "Methought I had been captured and was being spanked. Come! Untether the mule and let us be off!"

A silver moon floated high above the palms. The night birds called.—Detroit Free Press.

Another pause.

"Papa, won't you please gimme a drink when you get up to whip me?"—Tit-Bits.

DR. CHASE'S Kidney Liver Pills

The statement that Mr. Major owes his life to . . .

Dr. J. T. A. Gauthier, of Valleyfield, Que., writes: "I, the undersigned, certify that the contents of this letter, in regard to the cure of Mr. Isadore Major, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, is correct."

Here is Mr. Major's letter: "After 30 years of suffering from backache and kidney disease I owe my life to Dr. A. W. Chase. I had tried an endless variety of remedies to no avail, and on the recommendation of a friend began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Two pills that night and two next morning gave great relief, and I continued their use until now I am completely cured. My friends are surprised and pleased to see me well again, for I spent hundreds of dollars in vain trying to get cured. Before using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills my back ached so I could not put on my shoes and couldn't lift 50 lbs. My shoulders were sore, I had headaches and a bad taste in the mouth. These troubles are now entirely gone and what I say I am ready to prove. I have told my friends of my wonderful cure, and many have been greatly benefited by using these pills."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the greatest kidney cure the world has ever known. One pill a dose, 25c a box at all dealers. Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.
