J. P. NICHOLSON,
Land Surveyor,
Charlottetown, P. E. I., 117-119 Queen Street,
Charlottetown, P. E. I.,

A HOLIDAY TRAGEDY.

All my life I had been well, not exactly a woman hater, but a firm believer in the idea that man is the lord of creation, and that woman is not an absolute necessity. For many years it was my proud boast that I was able to dispense with feminine aid and yet live a very enjoyable life, as, with clockwork regularity, I went from my bachelor lodgings to business each morning, returning at the evening and spending the evening at the club or some place of amusement. The idea of having a lady companion in my rambles never entered my head.

True, my handily groomed and prepared my massed and cleaned my rooms, but that was because I had not time to do it myself, and a man servant was beyond my means. But in all else I dispensed with woman's aid. I boot cleaning, sewing buttons on, lighting the fire, etc., were all done with my own hands—namely, at a pinch I have even washed a pocket handkerchief.

I desired to stand forth as a living example of the original Adam and a proof of the superfluity of the modern circle of acquaintances had decreased refused to profit by my machines or to follow my example. One by one they fell under female influence, one by one they married, and then—I cut them off. Those free Bohemians days were happy ones, as year after year I pursued my adopted course, in spite of the continual falling off of my comrades. Then came a time when my circle of acquaintances had decreased so considerably that I began to feel lonely. Bachelor chums were more difficult to find than ever. To loneliness I added melancholy, and I grew miserable and pessimistic.

One friend, to whom I laid bare my woes, said:
"You keep to yourself too much.
What you ought to do is to lodge with some family where there are two or three grown up daughters. They would wake you up a bit."
This to me, the hitherto ideal advicer of an Evesque Eden! And yet, after the advice had been tendered several times, I began to think that such a change might be beneficial. Such a course need not involve the rendering up of my tenants, but as woman still meant me a nuisance, she might as well form a part of the world, she might at least contribute to my amusement.

So, after very serious consideration, I decided to seek fresh apartments, with light society grown in.
Now my trouble commenced, I could not make the direct inquiry, "So I have grown up daughters?" So I generally viewed the rooms, listening to the landlady's verbose, settled the rent and then casually asked, "Have you any children?" and the reply would be—"Yes, four, five, or six," as the case might be; the eldest is 10 years old and the youngest two months. But they are as good as gold, and never make a bit of noise."
The numberless journeys I made and the many desultory conversations I listened to were all to no purpose. No one appeared to possess grown up daughters—the eldest was always 10, and the youngest always 2 months. I searched, fortune—or was it fate?—led me to Myrtle Villa, Paradise Gardens, Upper Duich. The door was opened by a vision of sweetness, faultlessly dressed, and with her eyes and golden hair. "Newly married," thought I; "well, here at last the eldest won't be!" She invited me in, and then disappeared; a mild knock entered, and I proceeded to discuss terms. Then came the inevitable inquiry as to children.

"I have two grown up daughters, the younger of whom opened the door for you."
At last! Need I say that within a week I was installed in Myrtle Villa?
The landlady, a widow, was a genial, homely woman and the younger daughter, Annie, aged 25, I have already described, but the other daughter, Julia, did not impress me favorably.
She was neither good looking nor pleasing, and without being exactly bad tempered, always insisted upon having her own way.

I now seemed to be in a new world, my boots for a brilliant future each morning without my aid, and my slippers were laid ready for me in the evening, and as for lending me a needle and cotton—the idea!—I would only leave them outside they would be only too happy.
I no longer needed to seek relaxation after the labors of the day. Julia played the piano well, her only accomplishment, while Annie sang divinely, and thus the evenings passed all too quickly. Male acquaintances they did not seem to possess.
I still stayed, there was one—Mrs. Malcolm, whose name I frequently heard mentioned, but as his calls were always made the day before, never saw him, I had rapidly passed into that condition of mind which raised a feeling of jealousy on his account, so one day I questioned my landlady on the subject.
"Oh, he's a very old friend of ours.
Once we thought he would have proposed to Julia, but nothing came of it." What a relief. Only Julia!

So time went pleasantly on, and then—how can I confess it?—my lifelong crave was thrown to the winds, my proud ambition humbled in the dust, and I became a willing slave to the sex I had so long despised and ignored.
My only thought now was how, and in what words, I should beseech my darling Annie to become my wife. "Time on the north by Fitzroy Street, and on the west by Prince Street, and one hundred and thirty-two square feet on the north by Prince Street, and one hundred and thirty-two square feet on the south by Fitzroy Street, together with all buildings and improvements thereon."

ANOTHER DISCOVERY.

Of Interest to Bicycle Riders.
A well known bicycle rider has made a discovery that will be good news to all who locomote on the wheel. He says:
"Since I first began to ride a wheel, which is several years ago, I have been subject to more or less chafing and irritation. Sometimes when heated the itching inside my legs would be so severe that I would feel compelled to stop riding for a time. Nothing that I tried did any material good until my attention was drawn to an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching of the skin. I tried it and almost from the moment it touched the skin the itching stopped. I also find its occasional use prevents chafing.
Further evidence of the efficacy of this preparation is given by Chas. Roe, foreman Central Press Agency, Toronto, who was troubled with itching skin in the most aggravated kind. When the skin became heated during sleep from too much clothing, would wake up with absolute pain from digging into the flesh with his nails. Chase's Ointment gave relief from the first application and permanently cured. Price 60c."

St. John, N. B., Aug. 12.—The many cases of marvelous restoration to health from various forms of kidney trouble which have been constantly appearing in the daily press of the Dominion have for some time awakened the liveliest interest here, and the remedy by which the cures were effected, namely, Dodd's Kidney Pills, is obtaining great celebrity throughout the province. The appearance of the testimonial of Dr. Rose and McCormick stating the benefits which they had persidered sufficient sign of the merit of the remedy, and the other interesting and wonderful cases which have since been chronicled has caused the specific to have an exceptional sale.
