FOR SALE.

That valuable freehold farm, situated on the St. Peter's Road, eight miles from Charlottetown, which was owned by the late Henry M. McLeod. This is one of the most desirable farms ever offered for sale in this province. It is situated in the finest farming section in Queen's County. It consists of 125 acres, 95 of which are in a high state of cultivation, the balance being covered with hard and soft wood. It is well fenced with spruce hedges and has a large orchard. Railway Station, Queen's County Court House and School House are all on the premises; wharf and cheese factory are within easy reach. The dwelling house and barns are all that can be desired and are in good repair. Interested purchasers must see the property to appreciate the many advantages it offers to the aspiring agriculturist. The property may be inspected any day up to the 1st of September, when to parties interested full particulars and terms will be given by the undersigned.

Another farm of sixty acres half a mile from the above with three never failing springs of water will be sold separately or in connection if desired.

PAINT & PROSPER

Painting and prosperity go together naturally. Paint is the outward sign of prosperity. Paint saves property. Increases its value. Twenty dollars worth of paint often adds two hundred dollars to the market value of a property. All owners reckon with this strange fact. But many put off painting too long, or paint without putting enough brains into the choice of paint, and their property "runs down." The paints that are made by thoughtful people for thoughtful people are

Moliere and the Ass.

Lions, bears and elephants have done well on the stage; lizards and serpents (vide Mme. Sarah Bernhardt) have also been covered with stage glory, and mice have come to the fore with great credit to themselves and their trainer.

But while so many "gumb things" have been excellent actors one of their number at least has been immortalized through failure. Moliere himself was the actor who brought about the unheeded scene between himself and his ass. The play was "Don Quixote," and Moliere played Sancho. Some minutes before he had to appear on the stage he was waiting in the wings, mounted on his ass. But the latter suddenly forgot his part and insisted upon appearing on the scene without delay. Nor was it of any avail that half a dozen assistants hung around his head and clung desperately to his tail. The ass, with Moliere on his back, dashed wildly among the actors on the scene, and the fiasco would have been complete had not Moliere saved the situation by shouting to the audience, while jogging along, "Pardon, gentlemen! Pardon, ladies! This confounded beast has come on against my wishes!" The public responded at once with roars of laughter and applause, but Moliere never again mounted an ass.—Westminster Gazette

A High Hitch.

After General Forrest's raid into Memphis large stories were told about his heroism and the marvelous doings of his troops. One of the best illustrations of the admiration inspired by the general came from a negro soldier who claimed to have seen him as he rode up in front of the Gayoso hotel. He began telling his companions how Forrest looked and finally came to the appearance of his horse.

"I was a-statin right in dis alley," said he, "when I seen him come up. He rid his hoss right up to de hotel, an—'I'm tellin you de truf—he hitched his hoss right to de second story banisters. I seed him. I tell you, I seed him!"—Pittsburgh Record.
