

BRIDGE AT SIMPSON'S MILLS.

SIR.—THE EXAMINER has earned the thanks of the travelling public in calling attention to the dangerous state of the bridge at Simpson's Mills. This bridge has been allowed to go down and become unsafe because an expenditure in repairing it was not likely to result in acquiring votes for the party.

Immediately after its condition was noticed in THE EXAMINER, Timothee was seen doing some more patchwork, but the work being as rotten as the system under which it was done, it failed to keep the team of one of the milk drawers from breaking through it the next day. After this accident the Supervisor was sent for in haste, and the result is that there has been a contract let to put a whole new top on it. As to T. P. Cullen's ravings in the Patriot (re—the author of "Bay View and other notes") they were just written to let the public know that such a person existed—a fact—the knowledge of which, has hitherto had a very limited circulation. His reference to Pickwick is evidence of the fact that the schoolmaster was at home.

Why should T. P. C. take such offence at THE EXAMINER's mention of this bridge. He was not even named in the communication and we think it was a piece of impertinence and presumption for him to assume that he was the only or the most important Timothy in the locality. But the cap fitted and he enthusiastically put it on. His reference to ex-officers and clerks is accounted for by the very peculiar state of his mind at present which is anything but happy.

He seems to be possessed with the balucination that he is destined in the future to be the grit leader of the First District of Queen's, and in order to his success he must first muzzle the opposition press and then let the electors know that he is here.

The correspondents of THE EXAMINER will likely continue to send items of news in the public interest about unsafe bridges and "patchwork jobs" to that paper and in doing so they are content to remain unknown as long as the public interest is served.

We would suggest to T. P. C., that if he wants to further advertise himself that he change the middle initial of his name to C., as it would better express his feeling just now.

Cut to the Core.—The unrelenting, unmerciful scythe, "low prices," has made a deep and powerful cut in our prices during the past week. Our foreign competitors in Summerside, Souris and elsewhere, when reading our advertisement, threw their hands up in amazement at the magnitude of the values which we are constantly offering to the people of Ch'town and vicinity. Prudent economical buyers always on the watch lest adversity should overtake them, are our patrons. We teach each and every housekeeper in Ch'town and vicinity the watch word of progressing life today—economy. A visit to our store every day this week will pay you big interest in dollars and cents saved here. Here you see the great lesson of life fully portrayed. We help you to live and live well, for little money.—P. Goodstein, New York Cheap Store, Grafton St.

This, however, is only an introductory remark for he next produces a pair of gold rimmed spectacles, which he claims to have found at different places such as Pictou, N.S., Geo' town; $2.00 is the price put on them; but they have sold them for from 50c to $2.00 and invariably make a sale at each house. Whether they have stolen them or are trying to evade paying a peddlers tax is not known; but people should beware and the proper authorities should be on the lookout for them.
