There have been great moments on the screen—but none to surpass that electric second when this champion of humanity had to decide which was dearer to his heart—the fate of his own daughter, or that of unborn generations. The choice he made was like every other moment of his life—heroic! And here it is that life re-lived in all the drama of its fearless combat with the fearful enemies of man—in a picture that, as hundreds have told us, "stands among the significant works of the screen."

THE COW BIRD

(Natural History Notes Contributed by the Pioneer Jack Miner League)

Rather a rare migrant to our Province is the cow-bird. It is described in natural history as common over most of Canada, except in the extreme coastal provinces of the east. It is a bird that lives on weed seeds, insects, grain and largely on parasites. Were it not for one bad fault, it would be one of our most beneficial birds. But like Matilda, in the old school-book, it possesses one ugly trick. The cow bird does not build a nest as do the other birds, but in the absence of the mother bird it lays an egg in the nest of some smaller bird, and depends upon the other bird for the incubation. The egg of the cow bird generally hatches a few hours before the others and it thus seems to have a lead in life. Even if only a few hours it means much in such circumstances. The poor mother bird does not seem to think she is being imposed upon and generally treats the little stranger as her own. Then a strange occurrence takes place. The young cow-bird decides the nest is not big enough for so many. He does not believe in the old story that thirteen can sleep in one bed if they are narrow enough, and so he being stronger than the others just simply pushes them over the side of the nest until he is the sole occupant. The poor little birds then perish miserably on the ground or are killed by predatory animals. We find then that each cow bird may mean the loss of an entire family of other small birds. In size it is like a small black bird with seal black head and neck. It is a very interesting sight to watch a cow bird and it well deserves its name. The writer watched one for quite a while as it followed up a flock of cows, generally picking out one particular cow. It would light on the ground and then almost walk into her mouth. Indeed as we watched it we wondered how the cow kept from eating it. It was doubtless attracted by the insects and parasites around the cows mouth. Several times when the cow opened her mouth to eat grass it almost walked in. If alarmed it would rise in the air some twenty or thirty feet and then quickly plane down and repeat the above performance. So if this coming season you should chance to see one of these migrants in your field do not fail to observe it for a few minutes. The children would be especially interested and you would be well repaid for the short time thus spent.

"CLEAN-UP" WEEK

Citizens are reminded that it is customary to observe annually a general "Clean Up" Week. The Mayor and City Council recommend for this purpose the week of May 25th to 30th when citizens are requested to make the necessary "Spring Cleaning" for the coming Summer. As this year it is expected several Conventions will be held in the City which will bring a large number of visitors, it is hoped that the renovating, repainting and redecorating generally will be on a more generous scale than usual.

Dwyer Lands Coal Orders In Ontario

TORONTO, May 21—Belief that Nova Scotia would sell more coal to Ontario from now on was expressed today by Mines Minister Michael Dwyer of the eastern province as he ended a sales visit to Ontario.

Nova Scotia coal is able now to compete in Ontario with the United States product on an even footing, the Minister declared, Canadian subventions, he said, and the higher cost of U. S. fuel have opened Ontario to the Nova Scotia coal operators at competitive rates.
 Greatest difficulty in pushing sales, he asserted, would lie in breaking down the buying habit of Ontario consumers, accustomed to getting their coal from across the border. "But I think they're becoming Nova Scotia-conscious now," he added.
 His own visit, he said, had brought promised orders from three large industrial firms and "many others" and promised contracts as soon as their agreements with United States coal dealers expired.
 Mr. Dwyer did not indicate how large these orders might be, but he emphasized an 8,000,000-ton potential market lay in Ontario. "And," he said, "we're out to get all of that we can."

Many lovely floral tributes were received.

A Lasting Tribute

In every field of endeavor there must be a standard, a goal toward which to strive. Long ago ours was set and our path has led in its direction ever since.

As a step toward maintaining this goal a buying trip in March resulted in the purchase of the most beautiful assortment of stones ever offered in Prince Edward Island and at present we have 100 stones from which to choose. The entire stock of which is offered at greatly reduced prices. We pride ourselves on perfect workmanship and will comply with your most detailed wishes. We deliver from Digby to East Point—Murray River to North Side and set monuments up on a good solid concrete foundation.

We have no agents, as intending purchasers cannot tell from a photo the quality, size, etc. of a stone; so we ask you to come to our Monumental Plant and make your selection, thus eliminating agents' commissions. There is no charge or obligation for consultation at any time. In this specialized field such regard for high standards cannot but result in your greater satisfaction.
