MARY HAWORTH

Brow-Beaten Wife Advised To Seek Out Expert's Aid

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: What can I do when my husband makes friends with some man, brings him home, then makes sure he never comes again? Because he saw me talking to one friend, he beat the man until he needed hospital care.

Another time, another friend of my husband's came to the house, just as he (my husband) was leaving for work. Instead of asking the friend to go with him, he telephoned me (from his place of work) and gave me 10 minutes to get the friend out of the house — "or else."

We have four children and my husband is very strict with us, and very careless with his language. I've left him twice, thinking a scare might help (taking the children, as he is very mean to them).

I've been with him to see a priest, a lawyer and a judge, and was told to go home with him where I belong. He says he's right and has proven he can win. He knows I won't cross him; that I am afraid to.

He says he loves me and won't be sharing me with anyone. But there is an outside world and I'd like to share in it too. I go hardly any place without him and if I do, he tells me where to be home, wants to know who I've seen and what was talked about.

I don't know why he is like this. I spend next - to - nothing on clothes, dropped out of a women's club because it caused trouble (if I attended one night a month); and I no longer sing in our choir, as he insists that I must sit with him in church ("where I belong").

I don't want to be on the go all the time but I see nothing wrong in socializing with other women occasionally. He belongs to a men's club and his work keeps him in contact with many people. Am I wrong in wanting a little freedom? Can you explain what I've done wrong?

I am finding it hard to live with someone who mistrusts as he does. But I would like to spare my children a broken home. I want to do my utmost before admitting defeat (if it comes to that).

He says if I acted like a wife everything would be okay. I don't know my mistakes and am praying you can help me. G.G

DEAR G.G.: You say you've gone with your husband to consult a priest, a lawyer and a judge about your stormy marriage, and was told (by each and all, I gather) "to go home with him" where you "belong."

I call that pretty shallow and dismissive counsel from presumed experts, in view of the inner structure of your difficulties with your husband — as I get the picture.

One wonders if these advisers were, indeed, as blind to the depth and intricacy of the grievous problem for you, especially) as their "advice" would indicate.

Or were they, perhaps, astutely aware that a tragically unfortunate situation (for you) does exist; but for which they could suggest no feasible relief? Hence, did they see fit to "let well enough alone," by brusquely instructing you to stay with the ship (possibly in unspoken hope that time might work changes for the better)?

In any case, here is my advice (without further ado): Take your story to a bonafide family service agency (there are several in your state), for meaningful intensive family relations counselling, of a deeply reconstructive and healing sort.

You need first hand continuing confidential help of this kind, to get on the beam of maturing insight and true perspective, as regards your beaten-down status and what to do about it, in relation to your disturbed, neurotic, jealous, meanly tyrannical husband.

Now, apropos your all-aged mistakes (in his eyes) which you can't identify, that rouse his distrust, the fact is, they are myths of his making. They are shadows cast by his unconscious hateful sense of himself, as a person unworthy of love and incapable of loving. He projects at you what he feels himself to be.

You aren't the cause of his suspicious and evil thinking. Rather you are simply a scapegoat. Your mistake, overall, was in marrying him. He would be equally accusatory of any helpmate.

He urgently needs psychoanalytic help; but you can't solve his mental health problem for him. The best you can do, in the alliance, is find your own way into the light of clear understanding of what goes on. M.H.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Something Whispers 'Snow' Something Cautions 'Frost'

And here it was, up to, and over the old stone doorstep this morning: the first snowfall, actually, of the season. The forecast last night had warned of it. Yesterday's air bespoke it. Yet what a surprise it was to have a depth of it about so early, with winter on the calendar still some weeks away! Had the robins gone in advance of it, we wondered? And what about the wild geese? Had something whispered a warning to them in good time to wing up and away from our grainfields and shores? A writer is confident this does happen. He tells of it in pretty lines:

"Something told the wild geese
It was time to go.
Though the fields lay golden,
Something whispered—
'Snow.'
Leaves were green and stirring,
Berries lustre - glossed,
But beneath warm feathers,
Something cautioned
'Frost.'
All the sagging orchards
Steamed with amber spice
But each wild breast stiffened
At remembered ice.
Something told the wild geese
It was time to fly—
Summer sun was on their wings
Winter in their cry."

"I expected this" James, looking out on the morning, said.

"Oh dear! No classes for me today" the one girl sighed, her "magic carpet" of travel this week not altogether grounded in the yard, but in a dismaying prospect, a slippery road lay ahead.

"Walk it!" Mack grinned teasingly. Take "Shanks' mare—that's likely how we'll be getting to school!"

"And I'll hurry home after school, Peter" Alex promised, "so that we can build a snowman before the dark comes down."

Beautiful the night is, the moon lighting it. The branches on the lawn trees are feathered downily. And below in the valley and up the rise opposite, the spruces remain decked in white.

"It's just like a pretty Christmas card" Alex smiled, stopping a moment on the verandah when homing, to look out at the scene.

"With a snowman on it too, Alex!" Peter noded.

So a touch of winter we have had. Its widespread charm. And also its frustrations, which unfortunately were only of a minor nature today. The tractor grumbled, when, more than once, it must lend aid on poor footing. Trucks slid, and cars too slipped towards the roadside ditches. Tabby rests on her cushion on the couch, eyes closed, napping. Dreaming, we fancy of bygone summer-paths!

Good-Sized Egg Beaten In Our Green Rice Ring

IF YOU are inventive, a bit daring and perhaps bored with preparing the usual dishes in the usual way, you might pay a visit to the fine food stores in your locality, or to the gourmet section of a supermarket or department store.

Join in the "tastings," and stock up for the holiday season with specials that can give "lift" to everyday menus, or add glamour to various simple dishes you often prepare.

Exotic Juices

You will enjoy the exotic juices, jams, jellies, relishes of all kinds, soups, both canned and in powder forms, canned game, and entrees. Delicious vegetables packed in glass come from overseas; some of them, such as salsify and celeriac, are not often used in this country.

There are dozens of new hors d'oeuvres and canape spreads, and new canape bases on which to serve them. Delectable crackers and biscuits are on sale from England, Ireland, Scotland and Holland.

There are ready - to - use sauces of many kinds; spices, gator; several fine smoked - fish items, including smoked oysters from Japan.

Other Treasures

Truffles, whole or in bits; canned dark mushrooms; cheeses of many varieties, choice teas and interesting coffees, such as Hawaiian Instant, and a special blend to use in preparing the fascinating Cafe Diablo are also to be found.

These delicacies are but a few of the 10,000 items glamorously displayed at the 10th Annual Fancy Food and Confection Show recently held in the Coliseum in New York. Many of the foods have now reached the stores. They are on sale all over the country. Happy adventuring and happy eating!

Christmas Gift Goes To India

An interesting letter from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rempel, Kanpur, India was read by Mrs John Hickox at the November meeting of Bradalbane Christian Church Missionary Society which met at the home of Mrs. Allan Hickox.

Roll call was answered by a Bible verse containing the word "remember". Mrs. Cuyler Matheson chose as the devotional theme "Sanctification", based on a sermon by Billy Graham, the evangelist. Following this "Purer in Heart" was sung. A period of prayer followed.

Mrs. James Craig, who was in charge of the Study Book, spoke briefly on the topic "Choices."

It was decided to send a Christmas box to Mr. and Mrs. Rempel. Mrs. John Hickox invited the members for the December meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Plans were finalized to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the WI with the New London United Church Women catering. It was decided purchase some new books for the school.

ST. JOHN'S WMS

The study book was read by Mrs. Waldron Ferguson and Mrs. Fred Campbell at the Presbyterian Women's Missionary rally on Wednesday evening, November 18 in Summerside, at the regular monthly meeting of St. John's Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, held at the home of Mrs. Mont MacEwen.

Twenty members responded to roll call with a verse of scripture.

Mrs. Leslie Files led the devotions on the theme "the Christian's Gratitude", and was assisted by the president, Mrs. Armel MacKinnon. The prayer committee was Mrs George P. MacLeod and Mrs. Don MacEwen. Mrs. Ralph Wigmore had charge of the Bible study. Vocal selections were sung by Mrs Wilbur MacKay and Mrs. Fred Campbell. The secretary, Mrs Don MacKay, read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer, Mrs Ken MacKay, reported a generous Thankoffering collection.

The visitation committee gave their report and it was decided to purchase a potted plant for a sick member.

Mrs. Don MacEwen invited the members to her home for the December meeting, leader Mrs. Stanley Brown; prayer by Mrs. Roy Brown, Mrs. George P. MacLeod and Mrs. Oscar MacKay; Bible study, Mrs. Ralph Wigmore; study book, Mrs. Fred Campbell.

New London WI Members Make Anniversary Plans

Plans were made to cater to Graham's Road Women's Institute's 50th anniversary in the near future, at the annual meeting of New London WI held at the home of Mrs. Don MacEwen on Tuesday evening.

The president, Mrs. Daniel Morrison, presided, and opened the meeting with the singing of "Abide With Me".

Two new members were welcomed and one visitor. The secretary, Mrs. Wilbur MacKay read the minutes of last annual and last meeting. All officers and conveners gave their reports. The president outlined the year's work, and asked the same co-operation shown her during the past two years for the new president.

The nominating committee chairman, Mrs. James E. Cole, brought in the following slate of officers: honorary president, Mrs. Robert Carr; president, Mrs. Marion Cole; first vice - president, Mrs. Oliver Bernard; 2nd vice- president, Mrs. Lorne Campbell; secretary, Mrs. Ellis Burgoyne, treasurer, Mrs. Eric MacEwen; directors, Mrs. Murray MacKay, Miss Elva MacAllister and Mrs. Don MacEwen; auditors, Mrs. Francis Murray and Mrs. Mont MacEwen; Red Cross convener, Mrs. Lorne Campbell; organist, Mrs Fred MacEwen.

A layette was passed in for the USC.

It was decided to take out a membership in the music festival. One quilt has been sold.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

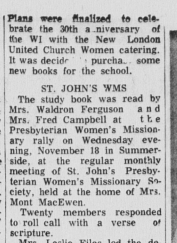
Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.



MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS MacDONALD

Reception At Pius X Follows Phelan-MacDonald Nuptials

Vases of bronze and white mums adorned the altar of St. Lawrence Roman Catholic Church, Morell Rear, for the October 24th ceremony uniting Josephine Anne Phelan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Phelan, Morell Rear, to Francis Joseph MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald MacDonald, St. Peter's Lake.

The nuptial mass and double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Dunphy, cousin of the bride. Knights of the Altar were Cletus Phelan, brother of the bride, and Charles Sharkey, her cousin.

Sister Mary Alfred CSM, St. Anne's Convent, was organist, and accompanied a sisters' choir. Hymns sung during the ceremony were Panis Angelicus, Ave Maria, Christ the King and On This Day O Beautiful Mother.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a street length gown of white velvet. It featured a princess style bodice full skirt and three - quarter length, tapered sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a pearl tiara, and she carried a semi - cascade bouquet of American Beauty Roses. Her only jewellery was pearl earrings, a gift of the groom.

The maid of honor was Virginia Phelan sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Olive Trainor and Laurena Phalen, the bride's sister. They were identical, simply designed street length dresses of gold peau - de - soie with fitted bodice and bell shaped skirts. Head dresses and shoes of the same shade completed their ensembles. They carried nosegays of white and bronze mums.

Dunstan MacDonald, brother of the groom, was best man. Kevin Charles MacAdam cousin of the groom, usherec guests to pews marked with white bows and lily of the valley.

For her daughters' wedding, Mrs. Phelan, chose a two-piece teal blue dress with dress with black accessories. Her corsage was pink roses The mother of the groom wore a steel gray, two - piece, dress knit dress with maroon and black accessories and a corsage of deep red roses.

A reception for 105 guests was held at St Pius X Hall, Parkdale, where the bride's table was centered with a three - tiered wedding cake topped with a Christogram and flanked by tall, white tapers and bronze mums.

James MacAulay, brother in-law of the groom, was master of ceremonies. The toast to the bride was proposed by Father Dunphy, to which the groom responded.

Music during the dinner hour was supplied by Mrs. Layton Coffin, Morell.

In the afternoon and evening, a buffet supper was served at the Morell Parish Hall following which the bride and groom left for a honeymoon in the Maritimes, which included the Cabot Trail.

For travelling, the bride chose a three piece, brown and beige knitted suit, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was tendered two miscellaneous showers, one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sharkey, Morell Rear and the other at the home of John D. MacAdam, West St. Peters

Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald are residing in Morell.

Gifts From Your Kitchen

Canadian cheese is always a welcome gift—fun to fix, fun to give, and fun to open. Might team up some good Canadian cheddar with an inexpensive Canadian handcrafted cheese board . . . or send cheese along "from your house to theirs" with a handy cheese cutter, half a dozen novel hors d'oeuvre knives, or a smart basket for the accompanying fruit or crackers.

Complete With Tray

Or set your gift of cheese on an inexpensive tin tray that you've painted in smartly modern colors. And why not include your favourite cheese dip recipe, along with the other ingredients?

Cranberry Velvet

Here's a dessert idea to use from now till Christmas. It's elegant, and easy to make. Whip a cup of cream and fold in a cup of whole cranberry sauce, and half a cup each of drained crushed pineapple and tiny marshmallows. Chill well and serve simply—spooned into sherbets.

Holiday Squares

Ever try giving those tasteful Date Squares (or Matrimonial Cake) the cranberry touch? Just make up that butter, sugar, flour and oats mixture, pat half of it in the pan, then spread a layer of thick cranberry sauce over the crumbly base. Add a sprinkling of orange rind, then top with the rest of the oats mixture. Bake 40 to 45 minutes at 350°F. Serve warm or cold, cut in squares. Great dessert for the holiday season topped with ice cream!

Party Pâté

With party time around the corner, here's a wonderful way to make a really excellent mock-pâté to serve with crackers, pre-dinner! Beat a large package (8-ounces) of cream cheese until soft and blend in 1¼ pounds of liverwurst and 2 teaspoons finely-chopped onion. That's all there is to it, but be sure to keep it refrigerated until serving time.

Butter-Up The Bird

Make a mental note for Christmas . . . that the bestest birds are really "buttered-up"! Meaning they're butter-basted throughout the roasting time, as well as having lots of butter in the stuffing. Hmmm, let's not wait till Christmas for a scrummy turkey dinner.
