In her pupils, she inspired a great interest in music as well as a personal loyalty and love. Her career and future happiness will be watched with interest.—Photo by Craswell.

Millman-Langhren Wedding Is Solemnized

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 1505-23rd Avenue N.W. Calgary, Alberta, on July 27th at 9 p.m. when Rev. A. T. Bell united in marriage Elizabeth Ann Helms, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Langhren of Hull, Quebec, and Kenneth Ray Phillipson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Millman of Alberton P.E.I.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Frank Stroud, was attired in a ballerina length gown of white lace over satin, matching bolero, and long sleeves that tapered to points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet studded with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses. Her only jewellery was a pearl necklace and matching earrings, a gift of the groom.

Miss Norma Palmer was of length honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of blue net over tulle with matching bolero, mits and headress, and carried a nosegay of pink and white mums. Miss Irene Hutt, as bridesmaid, wore a ballerina length gown of blue net over tulle with matching bolero, mits and headress and carried a nosegay of blue and white mums.

Mr. Rudy Krisko was best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Dominion Hotel and later at the residence of Mrs. D. Van Kempena. Mr. and Mrs. Millman will reside in Calgary where the groom is employed with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Newport May Have Declined But Is Still Impressive

By SAUL PETT
NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—It has been the practice of writers more sophisticated than this one to fly to Newport, to sniff the sea breeze, to hold up a tea crumpet and see the way it crumbles and then, eyes moist with crocodile tear, to compose a requiem for the death of social Newport, the faded rose of American capitalism.

But for this simple suburbanite visiting the Rhode Island playground where President Eisenhower will vacation this summer, there was still much to be awed by. Some of the great old summer palaces have been sold and broken up into apartments. But 75 per cent of the huge summer houses remain in private hands. Not all, but many acres of lawn are still manicured to within a quarter-inch of their velvety life.

At Chateau sur Mer, in Victorian splendor midst walls of damask and carved Italian panelling, ornate statuary and family portraits, lives Miss Edith Wetmore, 87.

The last of her line, Miss Wetmore lives alone in the house attended by a staff of 15. Because of her advanced age, she spends most of her time in her rooms. She descends occasionally for meals or to work a jigsaw puzzle on a card table tucked away in a corner of a magnificent library.

If Miss Wetmore dines alone, she is served by her brother Henry, who wears black tie, winged collar, cut away and striped trousers before 6 p.m. and thereafter tails and white tie. If there is more than one for dinner, Henry is assisted by a footman in black livery with the Wetmore family crest shining from gold buttons.

Mrs. Louis Bruguere, whom many regard as the social leader of Newport today, presides over

BACK TO SCHOOL
Pretty soon the young ladies of the family will be shopping for school frocks. The dresses come in sizes for big and little sister and are made of black and white cotton tweed. They are full skirted with a high, rising bodice that is boweled and piped in red. A white collar and buttons add a sparkling touch.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Grain & Roots Did Well Even With Little Rain

Content the week went to rest. A little weary, we fancied but smiling it bedded in the bright draperies of the sunset-wrapped brilliant banners in a gay coverlet about and in peace lay down to enjoy pleasant dreams.

"Looks as though this weather may continue for another day. There's not much sign of rain in that sunset I'd say "James husband of ours noted, drawing up a stout jointweed and shaking the earth from its roots before leaving it to lie between the rows of mangels that this time by hand were being rid of weeds.

How dry the earth was under foot. Thirty. And across the stream from us dust lingering bright above it in the afterglow, marked the course of the roadway.

"A strange Summer" he commented "so little rain. I wonder the grain and roots did so well. Not a bad stand of mangels these. And I've been noticing there's quite a promising catch of clover in the fields seeded down."

Sounds marked the breathless stillness: children's voices at play—youth and happy in their pre-bedtime romps. Somewhere over the fields a dog, maybe returning his master's cows to the fields barked sharply in a last- ing echo, and from the direction of the highway out over the hill came the steady weekend wash of passing machines.

This was, it came to me, a different evening to other workday ones, this which sent the week off to rest. The pleasant fore-shadow of Sunday lent an exquisite peace to the hour.

Peace — we meditated in the word as we tried to match James' pace along the rows. There were so many kinds and degrees. . . of body, and spirit, and surroundings. There was that "peace which passeth understanding" which when spoken of, is to feel it in a restful and permeating flood over pew and Church-aisle or some little sanctuary of home.

There was, we remembered, peace sought and peace bestowed in Scripture — and peace promised and peace denied. And the earthy peace, hushed and serene in a foretaste of Heaven, of a Summer evening like this which blessed our world about.

"We'll take our time" James offered. "There's another week coming", he smiled.

But now all work of week past, friends idle for "Sunday" we are home to 'the lit hearth. "Every- where we think the weekend turns faces a d thoughts towards home, when the dusky shades of evening deepen and velvet shadows drape valley and hill. Of "Evening" one says: "Now all things to their own are come

Drawn by thoughts of love and rest. To the lit hearth, the sheltered cove, The hive, the burrow, and the nest. Now petals of the wayside weed Fold inward, and the sun's keen eye

Closes beneath a brilliant lid. Of rose-and-saffron colored sky. While shyly like a girl to tryst Half-hesitant, half-proud, The young moon climbs the dusk To pace her parapat of sky."

Until Tuesday — — — Diary — Goodnight. . . .

GRADUATES

Miss Norma Gallant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gallant of Bloomfield Station, will be among the 96 students to be graduated from the Catherine Labour School of Nursing on Sunday afternoon, September 1st. The ceremony at which His Excellency, Bishop Eric F. Mackenzie, D.D., will preside will be held at 3:00 p.m. at the John Hancock Hall.

The graduation exercises are climaxing a busy Commencement Week for the senior class which will include social as well as spiritual activities. Rev. Joseph Keefe, C.M., will conduct a Retreat for the graduates on Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursday, the class plans an outing at Duxbury Beach. The Senior Promenade and Buffet will be held at Dreamland on Friday evening. The parents of the graduates will be the guests of the class on Saturday evening at a social in the Archbishop Cushing Auditorium.

Graduation day will commence with Holy Mass and Communion at the Archdiocesan Television Studio followed by a Communion Breakfast at which the students will be presented their pins by Sister Winifred, Director.

The Catherine Labour School of Nursing is New England's first central school of nursing. The students receive clinical experience at Carney and St. Margaret's Hospitals in Dorchester as well as St. John's Hospital in Lowell, all three of which cooperate in offering their combined facilities for educating student nurses.

LAKE VERDE W.I.

Mrs. Raymond Wood entertained the members of the Lake Verde Women's Institute at her home on Wednesday night, August 14, 1957. Mrs. Harry Kelly, president, opened the meeting with the reading of the Creed. Seven members and one visitor answered roll call with an article for grab bag.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read, approved and signed. Sick committee reported one call. It was decided to meet at the home of Mrs. Harry Kelly on August 21, to pack woollens for shipment.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ina Redmond. Roll call to be answered by a contest. On motion the meeting adjourned. Collection amounted to $1.20. During a pleasant social hour the "Wakehurst," a stone mansion modelled after an English castle. It has leaded glass windows, priceless Dutch masters lighted by candles, and rooms filled with growing orchids.

THE PROPER WAY
The mistress of Wakehurst recently entertained 60 for dinner honoring Capt. Alan Villiers of the Mayflower II. On arrival each male guest was handed a discreet card by the butler telling him which lady to escort in to dinner.

Newport still has many varied signs of the convenience and occasional capriciousness of great wealth, despite high taxes. Robert R. Young, the railroad man whose estate adjoins Perle Mesta's, recently built himself a $250,000 heated swimming pool complete with dressing rooms and snack bar.

Not many estates away lives a retired banker. Some 15 years ago he bought the place next door. Since then the former banker and his wife, both in their 70s, have occupied adjoining but separate houses. Each has at least 20 rooms and a separate staff of servants.

It is said there is no hostility between man and wife. They just happen to enjoy the space and convenience of separate establishments, although frequently they will dine together or will accept invitations out in tandem.

HOUSEHOLD HINT
When it's hung to dry correctly, a "miracle" fabric blouse needs only a fast touch-up with a cool iron. Put it over a shaped hanger to drip dry, with a folded washcloth "pad" inside each shoulder to assure a smooth shoulder line.

Ease out ruffling so that it will dry in place and finger-press seams, pleats and cuffs.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Accepting the good wishes of many friends and relatives, with a pleasant humorous smile that reflects inward peace and tranquility, Mrs. Henry Burhoe celebrated her 90th birthday on Thursday, August 29th, at Sunset Lodge where she has been a guest since last February.

A most pleasing incident during the afternoon was the presentation of a birthday cake by a delegation of ladies representing the Missionary Society of Pownal United Church, headed by Mrs. Calvin Wood. Mrs. Burhoe, who for many years was a staunch supporter and willing worker in the Society, has long enjoyed the honour and status of Life Membership in the organization.

Although slightly handicapped as a result of a broken hip some time ago, Mrs. Burhoe moves about freely and with a keen mind that belies her advanced years, enjoyed meeting her visitors from city and country and reading upwards of one hundred congratulatory cards, telegrams and letters.

Mrs. Burhoe was born at Alexandria, P.E.I. on August 29, 1867. Susan Jardine and has two sons, Kelsey and Ellwood Burhoe residing in Charlottetown and two daughters, Mrs. Earle Ballum, Cross Roads and Mrs. Hilda Dunbrack, Waltham, Mass.

Sanatorium Patients Are Remembered With Flowers

On August 25th, Parkdale W.I. Flower committee visited the Provincial Sanatorium bringing a bountiful quantity of garden flowers.

A bouquet accompanied with a card bearing an appropriate verse, was presented to each patient, in addition, the Juniors received gaily colored balloons.

The committee was graciously received by the matron Miss Poirier, and later Dr. Found, Medical Superintendent of the San. extended the appreciation of the staff and patients for this kind thoughtfulness expressed yearly by this act of remembrance.

A coffee break was much enjoyed when Miss Poirier poured and was assisted by staff nurses Mrs. J. L. Douglas and Miss Jean Johnston.

The committee consisted of Mrs. V. M. Hudson and Mrs. M. F. Rodd, co-conveners, Mrs. Hilbert Frizzell, Mrs. Harold Clay, Mrs. Arthur Trewin, Mrs. Allison West, Mrs. Horace Vessey, Mrs. Fred Gallant, Mrs. Arthur Seaman, Mrs. Fanny Bertram, Miss Carol Hogan.

Cars were provided by Mr. Hilbert Frizzell, Mr. Arthur Seaman, Mr. Harold Clay, Mrs. Allison West and Mrs. Arthur Trewin.

It was very heartening to note that the number of bouquets required, has been reduced to such an extent, from 150 in 1951 to little more than half that number at the present time, bearing eloquent testimony to the progress being made by those who are labouring toward the elimination of tuberculosis.
