WHAT WILL DAVIES THINK?

The Campaign in the First Electoral District.

SIR,—Mr. J. H. Bell of Summerside, one of the missionaries sent to this district in the interests of the Local Government, speaking at Clifton, exclaimed: "What will Davies think if you elect Mr. Campbell?" The district did elect Mr. Campbell as a rebuke to the men who now rule in Dominion and local politics—as a rebuke against unredeemed pre-election promises, against the unwarrantable expenditure at North Wiltshire, and against Mr. Davies for not doing his utmost to extend the branch Railway to Stanley Bridge. New London elected Mr. Davies; and New London will yet defeat him. The electors of New London, Cavendish and Hope River will not be slaves to any man, particularly to a man who is not able to judge righteously in the interest of the people. His mission, it appears, is solely for dismissing Conservative officials and for increasing Judge Alley's salary. These things are more important, in his estimation than public improvements. No wonder disappointment at the result is now apparent in the Government Countenances. The leader told the people plainly they must now be taxed to the tune of $1200 per annum the estimated interest, at 4 per cent, of one third the cost of the Hillsboro Bridge. Mr. Sinclair declared that one-third of the cost was estimated at $300,000. The people of New London will not permit a scheme of this kind to go ahead without a protest; and the partial election now over is a gentle hint that the independence of New London is not gone forever, that that people will, in their might, yet rise and hurl from power men who do not respect their pre-election pledges. Let these men place themselves on record. The Leader should publish his card to the electors, and then they would be no occasion for the great man to visit political meetings, as the people would then know what his views and policy are. Mr. Stewart, at the Granville meeting, showed up the boodling contracts of the party; and poor Mr. Sinclair had to bow his head in shame and disgrace after piously declaring that he "believed the debt of the Province was under $400,000." Mr. Stewart very ably clinched every point and showed conclusively that either Mr. Sinclair did not know that he was talking about or he wanted to deceive the people. The electors were convinced that Mr. Stewart told the truth, and his speech placed him in a very high position in the affections of the people, not only as an able lawyer, but as a man who prizes honesty and integrity above political place and power.

The tax-gatherer is already on the war path and the Commissioner of Public Lands, after squandering the assets of the Province, is busy sending notices, of income tax. It is time for these gentlemen to step down and out.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A very sudden death occurred in the city on Sunday last. Bessie McAulay, lately of Pinette, Belfast, had lived for some time on Richmond St. East. After breakfast on Sunday, apparently in her usual health, she went up stairs to dress for church. A sister who lived with her, being in the kitchen at the time, seemed to have taken little notice of her absence, until the afternoon, when she looked into her room and found her on her knees against a chair in the cold embrace of death. Dr. Conroy was immediately sent for, and after examination pronounced the cause of death to be heart failure. Deceased was about 60 years of age. She was a constant attendant of St. James' Church and bore an unblemished character. The remains were placed in charge of undertaker Davison, who sent them this morning by boat to be interred in Belfast cemetery.

A PLEASANT OUTING.—The enterprising firm of James Paton & Co., had their annual outing yesterday. The weather was delightful throughout, and the outing was thoroughly enjoyed by all who had the pleasure of participating. Seven or eight double teams, containing between thirty and forty excursionists, left Charlottetown at one o'clock, and after a pleasant sail in the Elfin to Rocky Point drove to the McLean House, at Nine Mile Creek, where the party had dinner. After dinner several hours were pleasantly passed in and about the premises, after which the party left for Charlottetown, via Long Creek, Clyde River and Cornwall. The drive home occupied about three hours, and was through a very pretty and prosperous section of country. The carriages were profusely decorated with bunting, and the drive was enlivened by pipe music and song. Before leaving Nine Mile Creek the place was formally christened Glenvale, and rousing cheers were given for the firm of James Paton & Co. Upon returning to Charlottetown coffee and cake were partaken of at Carter's restaurant, after which several hours were pleasantly passed at Mr. Paton's charming residence on Prince Street.
