

Eskimos' Economic Advance Poses Delicate Problems

OTTAWA (CP) — Advance of Eskimos also received family allowances, old age pensions and pensions for the blind and disabled. "As a result, the number of Eskimos is growing beyond the capacity of the country to support them in the old way," Mr. Lesage said.

"The long-term answer is certainly not relief. It obviously is desirable and even necessary that some of the Eskimos turn from their traditional pursuits of hunting and trapping and earn their livelihood by other means."

The government intended to give Eskimos the same opportunities as other Canadians to develop their talents. For this reason an extensive educational program was in progress, particularly to train Eskimos in skilled and semi-skilled trades.

Mr. Lesage said increased exploitation of the natural resources of the North will open up many types of jobs for Eskimos. Work would be available in mines, transportation and communication services, construction projects, hospitals, schools, police establishments, weather stations, surveys, church missions and trading posts.

In addition, defence activities would provide employment. Full advantage was being taken of this northern development and some 200 young Eskimos now were employed on the DEW line.

"These growing opportunities will absorb all the Eskimos who can be trained for many years to come. Most will be young men, for a change in the way of life for mature and older people is more difficult."

LEAD CLASS OF 52 AT NCO COURSE GRADUATION

A class of fifty two young soldiers from across the country recently graduated from the Junior NCO School at Camp Aldershot, N.S. Topping the list were three Maritimers.

A Junior NCO School Passing Out Parade was held at Camp Aldershot recently with Lt. Col. W. A. Milroy, DSO, General Staff Officer 1 of Headquarters Eastern Command acting as the inspecting officer.

Although they represented various Regular Force Units from Eastern Command the soldiers represented a good cross section of the country.

This was the largest NCO School attended at Camp Aldershot in recent years and consisted mainly of such subjects as technique of instruction, administration, platoon tactics, drill and weapon training and throughout the course the members attained a very good standard of efficiency.

Officer in charge of instruction was Vernon MacDonald of Charlottetown, P.E.I. who was recently transferred to the 1st Battalion Black Watch after having served on the instructional staff of the School of Infantry at Camp Borden, Ont. Other instructors included Lieut. Vince Mayhew of Toronto, Lieut. Craig Cameron, Vancouver, B.C. and C.S.M. Bob Warnock of Victoria, B.C.

Big Discoveries Expected In Field Of Disease Causes

By FRANK CAREY
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Dr. Wendell M. Stanley, Nobel Prize-winning scientist of the University of California, says science may be "on the verge of tremendous discoveries" linking diseases of unknown origin with recently discovered "viruses in search of a disease."

"I'd even go so far as to say that a condition like rheumatism, whose cause we do not know, might be caused by one of these viruses," Stanley told reporters at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

"It used to be," he added, "that we'd have a disease confronting us, and then we'd go looking for the organism that caused it."

"Now we have hundreds of new viruses—viruses in search of a disease. That is, we have hundreds of viruses for which there is no known disease."

LINK WITH COLDS? Extensive research designed to pin down some of these organisms was under way, and pay dirt already had been struck in certain areas. For example, he said, the so-called APC viruses in adenoids and throats of children have been linked—or at least some of them have—with certain forms of cold-like illness.

Stanley, declaring that it is known that certain forms of animal cancer are caused by viruses, said it's conceivable that the development of human cancer may be linked in some way with a virus getting into a cell.

It was conceivable that the virus might not act like a true "infection" in which the invading organism is multiplied rapidly. Rather, it might be that a virus gets into
