Medical Schools To Offer General Practice Courses

TORONTO (CP) — Medical schools in Calgary and London, Ont., will offer North America's first formal three-year, post-graduate courses in general practice next summer.

The College of General Practice of Canada announced candidates now are being selected to take the courses at the University of Western Ontario and the University of Alberta.

Dr. John B. Corley, director of the Calgary course, said seven of the 10 places in the residency program there have been awarded to students from the four medical schools in Western Canada—the Universities of Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

The course begins at Calgary General Hospital July 1. Dalhousie University medical school in Halifax has been studying a similar program for general practitioners for some time but no decision has yet been reached.

The new programs reflect the views of the College of General Practice that a family doctor needs as much training as a specialist. The curricula worked out so far also reflect the college's view that the core of post-graduate training for general practitioners should centre around internal medicine, with the emphasis on diagnosis, and on wide experience in treating patients outside hospital.

The new courses at London and Calgary are integrated three-year courses taking in the mandatory one year internship. Students in the Calgary course will also be taught by specialists and general practitioners and will receive experience in home and office calls as well as hospital work.

In their final year, they will be assigned to a rural hospital for a month and will take over a family doctor's practice for another month, freeing him for a period of refresher study.

However, if a fisherman does not qualify for unemployment insurance benefits, the amounts of $150 and $200 are paid by the department of fisheries, provided the fisherman has at least five weekly fishing stamps for the year 1965.

The department of fisheries advises that if a fisherman has the required minimum of five fishing stamps during the year 1965 and wishes to apply for his income supplement, he should make a regular application at the nearest Unemployment Insurance Commission office.

Mr. Paterson preached the sermon at the first service of the week of prayer at Kensington, held in St. Mark's Anglican Church. He spoke on the first part of the creed which is the theme for the week.

The rector, Mr. Fiander conducted the service, and Mr. Tannhill read the lessons.

Mrs. Kenneth Pidgeon was organist.

POPE ORDAINS PRIESTS VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope Paul ordained 62 new Roman Catholic priests from 22 countries Thursday in the first such public rite conducted by a pontiff in living memory.

One of the new priests was a 52-year-old retired lieutenant-commander of the Indian navy, Rev. Charles D'Souza, from Malpe, South Kanara district, who studied at the priesthood at the English Bada College in Rome.

The club had a very active and successful year in 1965. Anita McIsaac from this club was a delegate to the National 4-H club conference in Toronto, also two members from this club, Charles Mutch and Stella Boswall were selected by the Department of Agriculture to go on a bus tour to Nova Scotia where they visited the Halifax Citadel, the CBC studio, Peggy's Cove and the Nova Scotia Agricultural College.

Mr. Herbert and Alexandra 4-H clubs joined to entertain the interprovincial 4-H exchange guests to this province in July and had a bus tour to points of interest in eastern P.E.I. and afterwards a corn-bowl.

This club was represented in the public speaking competition at the Queens County 4-H rally. A 4-H club supper was held in Mermaid School in July and was a good success.

The officers elected for the 1966 term are president, Zoanne MacEachern; vice president, Leona McIsaac; secretary-treasurer, Stella Boswall; club-leader, David Mutch; assistant leaders, Bill MacEachern, Lea McIsaac and Robert Wood.

MONTAGUE RINK TAKES SHAPE

H.M. Smith, business manager for the erection of the new hockey and skating rink at Montague advised yesterday that the building is proceeding at a good rate although about one week behind schedule. He also said the walls were nearing completion and the steel will arrive this coming week and all is in readiness to continue. The above picture shows a portion of the rink. Completion of the building is expected in March with the artificial plant to be installed next fall. This is a project of the Community Welfare League Ltd., the town of Montague and its citizens. The work is being done under the winter works incentive program.

Liberal Leader Sees Salary Revision Need

The need for an immediate revision of the salaries of teachers and civil servants was urged last night by Liberal Leader Alex Campbell in an interview with this paper. The problem goes beyond those two groups, and affects indirectly practically every segment of salaried persons in the province, Mr. Campbell suggested.

The present scale for teachers and civil servants is certainly below the standard in other provinces, and it is now tending to place the department of education, and the administration of education generally at a disadvantage, Mr. Campbell stated. "We are losing the opportunity to attract teachers with high qualifications, and are losing many of the teachers who were once attracted to the profession in the province. Our own island graduates who have prepared themselves for the profession are tending now to leave the province, and some are even going to Quebec where the teachers are now striking for more pay," he observed.

"We'll have to face the problem as well," Mr. Campbell explained, "of providing incentives not only for the attraction of teachers with high qualifications, but also of providing incentives for self-improvement."

Mr. Campbell explains that the low standard of wages paid to teachers and civil servants has an adverse effect on the whole scale of salaries and wages in the province.

It tends to reflect adversely on the level of wages for workers, laborers, stenographers and others in private industry. So long as the salary scale of teachers and civil servants is below standard in private industry, Mr. Campbell observed.

Looking to the near future Mr. Campbell noted that school trustee boards will soon be negotiating contracts for next year, and predicted there will be serious problems where they are needed.

The problem, the Liberal leader emphasized, "is one that merits our most serious consideration at the coming session of the legislature."

SEARCH, RESCUE HAS BUSY YEAR
In 1965, search and rescue incidents in the Atlantic Region increased by 15 percent.

The primary rescue facilities for the area are RCAF Albatross and Labrador aircraft from the Search and Rescue Unit at RCAF Greenwood and the Canadian Coast Guard Cutters Rapid, Rally and Relay.

Typical of the mercy missions completed by the Albatross aircraft are the airlift of an injured Eskimo boy from the Arctic to Montreal for treatment and the pick-up at sea of an injured seaman from the Cape Scatarl.

The Labrador Helicopter performed emergency airlifts of injured or ill sailors from a US Navy Ship and Dutch ship Strinda and the French Navy ship Foudre.

The CCC cutters removed many injured seamen and aided other vessels in weather unfit for aircraft operations.

Major searches for crashed aircraft during 1965 occurred in Labrador for the missing pilot J.T. Binderman and in the Gander Newfoundland area for the American pilots Charles Krueger and Merrill Shields.

Many other aircraft and vessels helped save lives during 1965 such as the Canadian Coast Guard Icebreaker D'Iberville which searched and saved the lives of eleven seal hunters within a 36 hour period last May.

Search and Rescue in the Atlantic region is the responsibility of the RCAF and is co-ordinated by the rescue co-ordinating center in Halifax. The center

Cost Of Cigars Takes Jump

Cigar smokers will need a bit more money to enjoy their favorite smoke.

The first day of business in 1966 found retailers asking more money for their cigars than was the case in 1965. The small package of five cigars which sold for 25 cents is now retailing for 35 cents and the package of five which brought 55 cents in 1965 now sells for 60 cents.

The increase came about when the manufacturer jumped his price one cent a cigar, sending the former 25 cent pack into the tax bracket and boosting the price to the 35 cent mark. The pack which formerly sold for 55 cents was already in the tax brackets and the one-cent per cigar increase didn't affect the tax. Hence a five cent jump in this case, and that solely because of the manufacturer.

Cigarette prices remained stationary in this province.
