SHARP PRACTICE ANENT THE DRUMMOND COUNTY DEAL.

Scrivener Declines With Thanks.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—Mr. Reid gives notice of a bill to establish a railway commission with power to regulate freights.

Mr. Foster will ask for papers regarding the East Line; also for papers respecting the gold digging rights given to parties in the Northwest.

Mr. Scrivener told your correspondent yesterday that after careful consideration the government's offer to him of the position of Lieutenant Governor of the Territories he had decided not to take it owing to his advanced age and his ties in Huntingdon.

The Government has scored a pretty sharp move against the Senate. It was late in the last session that senators got ready to investigate the nefarious Drummond County deal. The government thereupon withdrew the proposal to buy the road out and substituted an estimate to cover the expenses of nine months trial of the road, and induced the Senate to forego its enquiry by holding out a promise to assist the Senate in the inquiry this session. But the government was not going to risk a repetition of the Bois des Chaleurs disclosures of 1891 and so decided to take the matter out of the hands of the Senate altogether and have the investigation made before a partisan committee of the House of Commons. No time has been lost in carrying out the plan; for the first issue of the Commons' order paper will contain a notice of the resolution appointing a special committee of the House, the mover bring the Premier himself.

TREASON IN THE EAST.

Vancouver Liberals in Revolt.

Laurier Scared by Free Traders.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 4.—There was a monster indignation meeting held here last night and from what was said by prominent liberals present it is evident that they are not satisfied with doings of the Dominion Government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's ears must have burned; for the government got a worse raking from its own supporters, and life-long free traders than it ever got in this country from its bitterest political enemies.

A HALIFAX HOCKEY SENSATION.

The sensational rumor that Pickering was to "throw" Friday night's hockey match, between the Wanderers and Crescents, caused tremendous excitement in Halifax, which is just now hockey mad. Whatever ground there were for the statements Pickering disproved them all by playing a star game for the Wanderers, and nothing could have exonerated him so completely. Speaking of the affair, Thursday night's Halifax Mail has this to say: "Pickering is one of the best athletes in the city, and has invariably played to win. His friends say that the rumor started among his clubmates, with whom he had a row, and that it is a result of the hockeyist leaving the team. There is no doubt a lot in this, as the loss will be a serious one. To say such a thing about any amateur is rather hard, to say the least of it, and there should have been positive proof before such an assertion was made. This statement is only made in justice to the young man, who feels his position keenly. A prominent Wanderer stated that the rumor had been started by a crowd of gamblers to influence the betting, and that the club has every confidence in their men. They, like the general public, think the young man far above any such transaction. Pickering called on one of the Wanderers' executive committee to day and stated that he would resign at once from the team if a remark, said to have been made by a Wanderer hockey player reflecting on him, was not withdrawn at once. Mr. Pickering wishes the Mail to state that the report that he had sold the game was deliberately concocted by a Wanderer, with the object of injuring him because he had decided to play on the picked team against the St. John team next week. Mr. Pickering feels that his friends will not take any stock in the report. The matter will be investigated. Mr. Pickering has always played to win, and he says that nothing will induce him to do otherwise. No offers of money to throw any game, he says, were ever made him."

The area of England's colonial possessions at the present time is 3,400,000 square miles larger than it was twenty years ago, and in the same time the number of her colonists has been increased by 140,000,000. In the same time the area of the colonies of France has increased by only 2,540,000 square miles with an increase in the number of her colonial subjects of 23,500,000. The colonies of Holland have expanded to the extent of about 120,000 square miles during the ten years last past, with an expense of about 6,000,000 in population. The colonial possessions of no other European power have increased to any considerable extent since 1878. Thus it is seen that Britain's acquisition of territory during the last twenty-four years is nearly a million square miles larger than that of all the other countries of Europe, while the increase of her colonial subjects is from one hundred and twenty to one hundred and thirty millions larger. The conclusion is inevitable that except for a quite improbable change in the current of affairs, a hundred years hence the English language and English civilization will be the dominant language and civilization of all the people of the world. Then race prejudices will cease to exist, wars will become infrequent and an era of unprecedented progress in everything that tends to make humanity wiser and happier will begin.
