HINTS FOR THE LADIES.—Ladies in the morning should use pure water as a preparatory ablution; after which they must abstain from gusts of passion, and particularly eschew envy, as that gives the skin a sallow paleness. It may seem trifling to talk of temperance, yet this must be attended to, both in eating and drinking, if they would avoid those pimples for which the advertised washes are sought as a cure. Instead of rouge, let them use moderate exercise, which will raise a natural bloom on their cheek, inimitable by art. Ingenuous candour, and unaffected good humor, will give an openness to their countenance that will make them universally agreeable. A desire of pleasing will add fire to their eyes, and breathing the morning air at sunrise will give their lips a vermilion hue. That amiable vivacity which they already possess may be happily heightened and preserved, if they avoid late hours, card-playing, and novel-reading by candle-light; for the first gives the face a drowsy, disagreeable aspect, the second is the mother of wrinkles, and the third is a fruitful source of weak eyes and sallow complexion.

"I DON'T blame people for complaining about the extravagance and costivness of government," said Mrs. Partington, as she was reading an ardent appeal to the people in a political newspaper. She always took an interest in politics after Paul was defeated one year as a candidate for inspector. "I don't blame 'em a mite. Here they are now, going to canvassing the state, as if the airth wasn't good enough for 'em to walk on. I wonder why they don't get ile-cloth or Kidminister, and done with it.

"And I heard yesterday," said Ike, putting his small oar in, "that some of 'em was going to scour the country to get voters."

"Well," continued she, "that would be better than throwing dust in the people's eyes, as they say some of 'em do. Canvassing the state, indeed!"

She fell into an abstraction on the schemes of politicians, and took seven pinches of snuff, in rapid succession, to aid her deliberations.

HUSBANDS AND WIVES.—What a pity that the generality of men have no truer comprehensions of women, physically, mentally, and morally. Perhaps you reply, what a pity, too, that the reverse is not true. Begging your pardon, I think that, as a general thing, the stupidest woman has a better understanding of her husband's nature than he has of hers. In the first place, men start with the absurd idea that all women are pretty much alike; and that the same treatment answers in all cases. As well might a doctor make up a barrel of pills once a year and shovel them out when called for, for all diseases. There never were two women alike yet; no more than were two sunrises or two sunsets. And till men get this notion out of their heads, they will make no progress towards apprehending them.

LOVE OF PERSECUTION.—One day when conversing with a friend, something was said on the subject of religious persecution, on which Archbishop Whately remarked, "It is no wonder that some people have a taste for persecuting on account of religion, since it is the first lesson most are taught in their nurseries." His friend expressed his incredulity, denying that he, at least, had been taught it.—"Are you sure?" replied Doctor Whately. "What do you think of this:—

"'Old Daddy Longlegs won't say his prayers, Take him by the left leg, and throw him down stairs.'"

MAXIMS ON MONEY.—The art on living easily, as to money, is to pitch your scale of living one degree below your means. Comfort and enjoyment are more dependent upon easiness in the detail of expenditure than upon one degree's difference in the scale. Guard against false associations of pleasure with expenditure—the notion that because pleasure can be purchased with money, therefore money cannot be spent without enjoyment. What a thing costs a man is no true measure of what it is worth to him.

EXPERIENCE.—In early youth, while yet we live among those we love, we love without restraint, and our hearts overflow with every look, word, and action. But when we enter into the world, and are repulsed by strangers and forgotten by friends, we grow more and more timid in our approaches, even to those we love best. How delightful to us then are the caresses of children. All sincerity, all affection, they fly into our confidence, and first pleasure.

A traveller was induced to go into a cook-shop by this inscription, "Roast and boiled at twopence ahead." He was not a little disappointed by two courses of potatoes!

In a shop-window in the Strand there lately appeared the following notice:—"Wanted—two apprentices, who will be treated as one of the family."

We see it stated in the prints, frequently, that vessels going to California double Cape Horn. If this is the case, by-and-by there will not be a single Cape Horn left.

We should always mistrust the man who finds everything good, and also the man who finds everything evil; and we should still more mistrust the man who is indifferent to everything.

Our hearts are at least bright and brim-full of love in the one hour of meeting, and in the other hour when we part, inconsolable; even as all the stars appear milder, larger, and more lovely at their rising and setting than when they pass over our heads.

LITTLE JOYS.—How brightly do even little joys beam upon a soul darkened by the clouds of sorrow, as stars come forth from the empty sky when we look up to them from a deep well, or from cellars.

Agricultural.

THE HORSE'S MOUTH.

There is one infallible proof, constantly to be obtained, of the cruelty of the use of the bearing rein and of its injurious effects, though we believe every few persons are aware of it. Whenever a horse has been worked with a tight bearing-rein the corners of his mouth become raw, inflame, fester, and eventually the mouth becomes enlarged on each side, in some cases to the extent of two inches. Even before the bit has produced these visible effects, if the corner of the mouth under the bit be touched, the animal will flinch as if from hot iron. Let this be the sign with every master and servant. To what are these enlargments attributable? What causes them? Nothing but the friction of the bit, in the efforts of the horse to get up to his work. How dreadful to see a horse heavy laden—his neck bent into a perfect curve—his mouth open—his eyes ready to start out of their sockets. The ignorant, though, perhaps, not cruelly-disposed driver, looks on with admiration to see how "handsome" his horse appears, and imagines that the tossing head, open mouth, and gnashing teeth, are signs of strength; whilst, on the contrary, they are the most unequivocal evidences of distress and agony. Let any one test the truth of this by loosing the bearing rein, and he will immediately find the horse go faster, his mouth shut, and his head in one steady, horizontal position.

A short time since, the writer stopped a waggon to look at the mouth of the shaft horse—he found the mouth actually cut open by the bit at least two inches on each side; the waggoner said, "he know'd it sure, 'twas the fair wear of the ir'n!" The man was open to conviction, and upon the cause of this dreadful punishment being shown, altered the rein.

Dray-horses in London often exhibit the most painful examples of the cruelty of using a tight bearing-rein. Whether at work or standing they will be found in continual torment—tossing their heads, or resting the weight of them on the bit, and so drawing back the corners of their mouths as nearly to split the ligatures. At work, instead of going on steadily, they "bob" their heads, feeling the check at every step they take.

LAYING SAWED SHINGLES.

A correspondent of the Maine Farmer gives the following directions for laying sawed shingles:

"Almost all sawed shingles have a rough side and a smooth one, i. e., they are sawn from the bolt somewhat across the grain of the wood, the grains lapping one over the other on the sides of the shingles should be laid so that the water will run over and not into them as it flows from the roof; in other words, lay them "right side up with care." If perfectly dry, they should be laid about one-eighth of an inch apart, to give them room to swell in wet weather; and should have but one nail in each shingle. Here is where most persons fail. In nailing, it is often said that we cannot nail shingles too well. "That's so;" but we can, and there is danger of nailing sawed shingles too much. Where they are nailed down too close they retain moisture, and consequently rot sooner than they would if one nail only were used in each shingle, which gives them a chance to curl up a little, and admit the air to circulate on the under side. I have had much experience, not only in Maine, but in other States, in this matter of shingling, and I find that the most practical or experienced builders prefer the above method of laying loosely all kinds of sawed shingles. To make the most durable roof with such materials, I would have it first covered with narrow boards, put about three inches apart, across the rafters, and then lay the shingles on them as I have described, and I doubt not that it will pay to immerse them in lime water, as suggested by Mr. Mansur."

in Mr. H. J. RICHARDSON'S Old Stand, which he trusts will be the real Fashionable one of Summerside. If an accurate fit, a stylish cut, and superior workmanship can ensure custom, he flatters himself he shall not be without patronage from the tasty and discerning. Every trade requires brains, and none more so than the art of cutting and making up a garment to fit every variety of the human form; but some people seem to imagine that it requires no more judgment to cut a coat than to hew a log,—an erroneous idea, the effects of which are seen in the tasteless and ill-fitting garments we every day behold in the streets. There is no earthly reason to prevent us Provincialists from being as elegantly and fashionably dressed as the Americans, and the subscriber will use his best endeavors to reach a "consummation so devoutly to be wished."

Mrs. S. A. Allen's
PREPARATIONS FOR THE HAIR.

Mrs. S. A. Allen's
is suited to both young and old. It strengthens the Hair, prevents its falling or turning grey, and imparts to it a beautiful glossy appearance. It never fails to RESTORE GREY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTHFUL COLOR.
IT IS NOT A DYE, but acts directly upon the roots of the Hair, giving them the natural nourishment required, producing the same vitality and luxurious quantity as in youth. It will restore it on bald places, requires no previous preparation of the hair, and is easily applied by one's self. One bottle will usually last for a year, as after the hair is once restored, occasional applications once in three months will insure against grey hairs to the most advanced age.

Mrs. S. A. Allen's
World's Hair Dressing,
or ZYLOBALSAMUM. is essential to use with the Restorer, but the Hair Dressing alone often restores, and never fails to invigorate, beautify and refresh the Hair, rendering it soft, silky and glossy, and disposing it to remain in any desired position.
FOR LADIES AND CHILDREN, whose hair requires frequent dressing, it has no equal. No lady's toilet is complete without it. The rich glossy appearance imparted is truly wonderful. It cleanses the Hair, removes all dandruff, and imparts to it a most delightful fragrance. It will prevent the Hair from falling out, and is the most economical and valuable Hair Dressing known. Millions of bottles sold every year.

The Restorer Reproduces and the Hair Dressing Cultivates and Beautifies.

LANDS FOR SALE
Valuable Freehold Property
FOR SALE IN LOT 17.

THE subscriber offers for Sale 100 acres of LAND, in Lot 17, formerly occupied by Mr. HUGH SMITH. It is all cleared and under cultivation—within one half a mile of inexhaustable beds of mussel mud. This Farm fronts on two roads, one of which leads to the shore. This property is within two and a half miles from St. Eleanor's, and five of Summerside, and is in the immediate vicinity of grist, carding and saw mills. There are on the premises a comfortable dwelling house and a large barn 60 x 35, with cellars under it; and other outbuildings. The fences are of cedar and in good repair.

A good chance for Speculators!

FARM FOR SALE!

THE Subscriber offers for Sale, the undermentioned Property, in one lot, or in any part, at a great bargain, and on the most liberal terms,—
1. That well-known MILL SITE and FARM, in FREETOWN, Lot 25, formerly known as Keefe's Bridge, on the Wilmot River Stream, with a secured right to overflow. This valuable property is situated only 6 miles from Summerside, on the main road, and consists of 50 acres of FREEHOLD LAND, of an excellent quality; about one-half is clear, and the remainder can be made ready for ploughing at a trifling cost. An excellent crop of wheat was taken from it this season, and twelve acres of it are laid down with grass. There is a large quantity of building stone and limestone (to what extent is not known) on the premises.
2. About 50 acres of LEASEHOLD LAND, on Lot 19, held for 999 years at 1s cy. per acre. It is about two miles from the above Site, is covered with a heavy growth of spruce fir juniper and hard wood. No better lumber can be found on the Island than there is on this farm.
3. About 180 acres of LAND on Mill's Point formerly known as Knowland's Point. 75 acres are held in Freehold, and the remainder under lease for 999 years at 1s cy. per acre—one-ninth added. About 150 acres of it are on Lot 18, remainder on Lot 19, all under one fence; there is about 120 acres clear from stumps; besides two large marshes. This property fronts on Richmond Bay, Indian River, and Malpara Weit. It requires no praise, as it is well known to be one of the best wheat and root growing and stock raising farms in Prince Edward Island. There is a well stocked orchard of apples and other fruit trees on the farm. The buildings require a little improvement. 50 acres of the land could be sown to wheat the coming Spring; there was a large quantity of grass seed sown last spring; and there is a large quantity of mussel mud and sea weed on the front of the farm. It is a splendid place for fishing and fowling.
A good title of the above property can be given. The terms will be very easy, and made known on application. The above property if not sold in a short time by private sale will be offered at Auction, of which due notice will be given.
The sole object of the subscriber in selling out is that he intends to return to England to his old friends.
The quality of limestone on the Mill's Point Farm is described in Sutherland's Geography and the Bay and River can be seen on Baker's Map. It is a good place for loading.
