

CNIB Issues Warning To Eclipse Viewers

In order to avoid tragic and unnecessary loss of sight, CNIB officials are advising people to exercise every precaution when viewing the "once in a lifetime" opportunity to witness an eclipse of the sun.

The event which takes place about 6:30 p.m. July 20, will be 80 per cent in this area, and the CNIB states that unless proper protection for the eyes is used, permanent damage to the sight could result.

It will be the first total eclipse of the sun seen in populated areas of Canada since 1932, and the first to occur in this country since 1854. But the eclipse in 1954 occurred in sparsely populated northern areas and was not visible from the ground because of heavy clouds.

Eclipses of the sun have in the past caused partial or total blindness among people — especially children, who have persisted in looking at this phenomenon through sun glasses, binoculars, smoked glasses, a d such things, the CNIB people warn.

HALIFAX (CP) — The weather office says the Maritimes remained under the influence of a very large and stationary high pressure area lying to the south of the district Friday evening. This resulted in clear skies and warm temperatures. However, the air was moist enough to produce fog patches along the Atlantic and Fundy coasts.

Little change in the weather picture is expected over the weekend. Consequently sunny skies and warm temperatures will occur although cooling southerly breezes and night time fog patches will persist along the Fundy coasts.

blindness among people — especially children, who have persisted in looking at this phenomenon through sun glasses, binoculars, smoked glasses, a d such things, the CNIB people warn.

"The infra-red rays from the sun burn the retina, and leave black spots on the eye which will cause partial or total blindness depending on their extent."

In Ultra-violet rays the sun, invisible to the naked eye, focus on the retina. Irradiation by these burns result which appear as dark patches in the field of vision for the rest of your life."

The CNIB suggests the best way is to watch the eclipse on television. A second suggestion is to use a large piece of thick glass, heavily smoked in the light, develop it and view the eclipse through at least two thicknesses.

"Remember," the CNIB people warn, "your children's eyes must last a lifetime, take care of them."

'EXPECT TO BE ENTERTAINED'

Shaw Festival Venture Has Gala Opening Plans

"Expect to be entertained" is the slogan of the Shaw Festival which has its gala opening this evening at Queen Charlotte High School in Charlottetown.

Lionel Dixon, artistic director of the Shaw Festival, last night announced that the P.E.I. Regiment band under Lieut. Ronald MacGregor will be on hand for the opening this evening.

The band is scheduled to present an instrumental program from 7:30 to 9:20. This will be followed by the presentation of the play "Candide."

At the conclusion of tonight's presentation, a reception will be held for invited guests at the Charlottetown Hotel, expected to start about 11:15.

Mr. Dixon said that during the summer run four of George Bernard Shaw's plays will be featured.

On Mondays and Thursdays, he said, "we will present 'Candide.' This play produced in London in 1903 and in New York in 1903, is a light drama in the finest Shaw tradition. Its satires are directed at Shavian wit."

On Tuesdays and Fridays, a double bill will be featured. "The plays," said Mr. Dixon, are "Man of Destiny" and "How Sae Led to Her Husband," the former was written in 1898 and produced in London in 1906. It centers on an incident in the life of Napoleon and gives an unusual glimpse of the emperor.

The second play in the double bill was written in 1904 and first produced in New York. It is a brilliant piece of Shaw comedy. In fact, it is a sly bit by Shaw in his earlier play "Candide."

Rounding out the week, on Wednesdays and Saturdays, will be "Arms and the Man." Mr. Dixon said "this play is a delightful satire on military dress and romantic notions. The play explodes many accepted ideas of heroism and romance to the delight of the audience."

HOW IT BEGAN
The Shaw Festival was conceived last winter while its co-founders were conversing.

Mr. Dixon and co-founder Iain Wolfenden were recovering from illness at the Wolfenden home in Summerside following Mr. Dixon's production of "The King and I" in which Mr. Wolfenden starred. "We were seeking ideas for summer drama," said Mr. Dixon.

"I came up with the idea of a Shaw festival," he went on, "which would be unique."

"In mid-March we began planning for the festival and laid the groundwork for it. In June, we typed and mailed scores of letters to businesses, clubs, and asking for support for the idea."

"We wrote to various places for financial support. It was yet a dream, without finances of any kind. But we had determination. We received encouragement for our venture from such well known theatrical people as Joseph Cotten and Peter Ustinov."

Canadian Star Urges Support

Robert Morse, star of the award winning, smash Broadway hit, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" has expressed the hope that the people of Prince Edward Island will give their full support to the Charlottetown Shaw Festival.

In a letter to festival director Lionel Dixon, Mr. Morse said "I hope that the young people of Prince Edward Island will find theatre as rewarding and stimulating as I have found it."

"May I also express the hope that the people of Prince Edward Island, both young and old, will support the dramatic enterprise of your province which depends so much on that kind of support."

Festival Has Governing Bd.

Chairman of the governors of the Shaw Festival is Lloyd MacLeod, Charlottetown.

Other officers are vice-chairman C. Ross MacKenzie and treasurer Sterling Walker.

Board members are Mrs. B. Earle Macdonald, Malcolm Kenzie, A. L. Wright, Rev. Adrien Arsenault and Bruce MacDougall.

Secretary to the board is Iain Wolfenden, one of the founders of the festival.

LOAN FUND

The federal legislation, before the details were published, Douglas Fisher (NDP - Port Arthur) asked whether the prime minister was considering a separate meeting with Premier Lesage "in order to increase progress on this legislation." Mr. Pearson said he hopes to meet all 10 premiers.

Replying to Louis Jollette's question (PC - Jollette-Montclair), he added: "It is obvious that the success of such legislation will depend on the co-operation that is given from provincial governments."

CONFERENCE NEEDED
In the light of circumstances that now have developed, it is obviously desirable, I think, to call a separate provincial conference on tax arrangements and the proposed Canada pension plan which has been planned to fall. Mr. Pearson did not specify whether the conference to be called was to be held in Ottawa or in the fall.

A federal ministerial letter to the prime minister, dated June 7, Mr. Lesage asked that the Commission be postponed until after the annual premiers' conference Aug. 2-8 in Halifax. He said the premiers would want to study the implications of the bill and give their views later to the federal cabinet.

Mr. Pearson has not yet replied to that letter.

The municipal loan bill was given first reading June 17 and has not been debated since.
