

Canadians Exempted In Immigration Plan

By ARCH MACKENZIE
WASHINGTON (CP)—Authors of an attempt to place a U.S. immigration ceiling of 120,000 persons a year on Western Hemisphere countries say no discrimination against Canadians is intended or likely at present.

A spokesman for Democratic Senator Sam Ervin of North Carolina, who successfully moved such an amendment last week in a Senate subcommittee, suggested here that "Canada has not got much to worry about."

However, he said Canadians seeking entry to the United States could face competition if a population explosion in Latin America causes a sharp increase in arrivals from there or the Caribbean.

Right now, on the proposed first-come, first-served basis, Canadian migration to the United States could rise substantially without bumping into any 120,000-person ceiling.

Mexico is the only major source of southern migration.

Envoy Predicts Appeal For Aid

LONDON (AP)—Pakistan's envoy to Britain has predicted that his country's fight with India will involve other Asian countries and said Pakistan may appeal for aid from the South East Asian Treaty Organization.

Acha Hilaly, Pakistani high commissioner, told correspondents "it is obvious that other peoples will become involved" in the conflict with India. He did not elaborate.

Indian armed forces invaded Pakistan Monday.

Hilaly spoke to reporters after conferring with Cledwyn Hughes, Britain's minister for Commonwealth affairs. Hughes later saw J. N. Mehta, Indian high commissioner.

No statement on the talks was made, but informants said Hughes impressed on both envoys Britain's deep concern over the conflict between the two Commonwealth countries.

"There will be escalation," Hilaly told the correspondents. "We are prepared to fight."

Pakistanis and Indians resident in Britain began lining up to offer their services to their governments.

Distillers Corp. Said Studying E. Coast Fishing

TORONTO (CP)—The Financial Post says that executives of Distillers Corp. - Seagrams Ltd. have been studying East Coast fisheries for several months and may be ready to make a decision next month whether to set up a large-scale fish operation in the Maritime provinces.

One plan under consideration, the weekly business newspaper says, is a joint venture of the Montreal-based distillery headed by Samuel Bronfman with New Brunswick industrialist K. C. Irving of Saint John.

The Post says it understands a land option, probably for the purchase of Bunker Island off Yarmouth, N.S., has been taken and that a fish-processing plant on the island is being considered at a cost of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

French Spies Angry Over Meagre Pay

PARIS (Reuters)—France's spies are reported angry about a meagre increase in the secret service allotment in the 1966 budget.

The weekly news magazine L'Express says the French spies, "badly paid, lacking in resources and short-circuited by the amateurs," have been pressing the premier for two months for a raise.

In the budget estimates circulated among members of the National Assembly, the secret service was allotted 33,300,000 francs ($5,700,000), 2,700,000 francs more than this year.

Quoting the "average spy," L'Express says:

"Not enough. There are 1400 of us, paid the ordinary civil service salary, and for the most part recruited from the army. There are also the 600 auxiliaries.

"With this little army we have to cover the world and try to outwit the vast American, Russian, Chinese, German and British services, who have money to throw around."

"It is no longer a decent job. Soon they will be counting out the number of pencils and bullets we use."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAKX is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

4 Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

Declarer frequently finds that one opponent is more dangerous to have in the lead than the other. It is therefore not uncommon for declarer to shape his play so as to keep the dangerous opponent out of the lead if it is possible to do so.

Here is a sample of the theory at work. Let's say that West leads the king of diamonds and continues with the ace. If South makes the mistake of ruffing the ace, he eventually goes down one.

South's proper play is to discard a heart instead. If he does this, he eventually makes the contract by ruffing two of dummy's low hearts and thus establishing the 7-6 as tricks on which he can discard two clubs.

South has no assurance that his heart discard will make the contract for him—he needs the hearts to be divided 3-3—but it costs him nothing to lose two diamond tricks right away in place of the normal diamond and a heart.

The heart discard also preserves the chance of East's having the ace of clubs, in which case the contract will be made even though the hearts turn out to be divided unfavorably.

Observe what happens if South ruffs the diamond at trick two. He now finds it impossible to establish dummy's hearts without letting East into the lead and, when he attempts this method of play, East returns a club to defeat the contract one trick.

It is also interesting to note that West can defeat the contract by playing a heart or a trump instead of a diamond at trick two.

Perhaps West should be clever enough to diagnose the situation and abandon further diamond plays if he does not. South should take advantage of the opportunity to increase his chances of making the contract. The substitution of a diamond loser for a heart loser may quite easily prove to be equivalent to the substitution of victory for defeat.
