Savage Harbor

One of the most enjoyable games of the season was played by the large group which gathered at the home of Mr. Ruel MacCormack, Point de Roche on Tuesday evening. Forty-fives, nine handers was the order of the night, with interest keen and play of a high standard. Among the prize winners was Miss Thelma MacKay, John D. MacIntyre, Charles Campbell and George MacCormack. A beautiful lunch was served by the hostess at the completion of play.

The many friends of Mrs. Joseph Garbun, Mt. Stewart will be happy to learn that she has fully recovered from her recent illness as is now able to be about her household duties as usual.

Mr. Lester Jay, for many years a valued and popular member of the staff of Clarke Bros., has retired from active duty. Mr. Jay, during his long term of service to the public, has made and held a veritable army of friends. It is their sincere hope that Mr. Jay will be spared for many years and that he will enjoy to the very fullest the reward of faithful honest service.

Mr. Winston Birt who for many years was a member of the staff at Mt. Stewart and later took over as manager of the firm's St. Peter's branch has now returned to Mt. Stewart where he is receiving a real royal welcome. During Mr. Birt's term as manager at St. Peter's his efforts were banked with success and his rejoining of the Mt. Stewart branch can do naught but further that success.

Mr. Fulton Douglas of Charlottetown was a business visitor to Savage Harbour on Wednesday. Mr. Leo Smith of Tracadie visited Point de Roche during the week where he was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Riel MacCormack.

Taking advantage of the excellent sleigh roads, many farmers are busy hauling hay and straw to replenish their dwindling supplies. Messrs Richard Doyle, St. Andrews and James Campbell of Mt. Stewart made several trips to the Harbour during the week for such feed.

It was called the cold Friday; and for snow, as late as 1923, thirty two years ago, the Souris train was stuck for thirty-one days near Elmira with the late John Hughes as conductor; old narrow gauge engines then melted snow for engine water.

Some nice pictures of the late Archbishop Riel, A. A. Simpson have been received here by his old schoolmates among whom are Harry Davison and Mrs. A. E. Simpson, the former Florrie Davison. They attended the old Harbour School with the late Archbishop many long years ago. The pictures are very much appreciated by those who received them; memories of another day.

An old timer here informs us when asked about the weather of a boy that much of the cold Friday, seventy four years ago, when the reading was forty below zero, the coldest ever known.

"KINGS MILL, Montague, buying logs daily. Cash market prices.

"MONTAGUE HOCKEY — A double header hockey program will be featured at the Montague rink tonight when the Montague High School boys meet the Murray Harbour boys. This game will be followed by the Montague Primroses and the Georgetown Eagles in another of their fine performances so well begun last year and again continued this year. The Primroses have joined the City League and it was learned yesterday that Georgetown would open negotiations to join the same league. The High School game is a feature under the school hockey program, which, it is hoped, will be organized between the different centres so that all school children will have the advantage of organized hockey. The double-header tonight promises to be an exciting one, and will provide entertainment for the whole family.

No Intention Of Resigning

OTTAWA, (CP)—M. J. Coldwell said today he is not planning to retire as national CCF leader. "I have no intention of resigning," he said in an interview following publication of newspaper reports that his retirement may be hastened by recent differences of views within the party.

Sharply diverging views between Mr. Coldwell and a majority of his Commons followers over the issue of German rearmament became evident late last month during Commons debate on ratification of the Paris agreement for the entry of a rearmament Germany into NATO.

Mr. Coldwell and four other CCF members voted for it, against the declared policy of the last CCF convention and a pre-arranged meeting of the party's national council.

Twelve of the 24-man CCF group opposed ratification. Six abstained from the vote. One was away from Ottawa.

Subsequent to that vote, it was learned today, a caucus of the CCF Commons membership unanimously adopted a vote of confidence in Mr. Coldwell and expressed hope he will continue as national head of the party as long as his health permits.

The 66-year-old leader has been in indifferent health for some time. Mr. Coldwell said today no one has asked for his resignation. He said the national council-governing body of the CCF between biennial conventions—has always been aware of his attitude on the German rearmament question.

"Of course," he said, "the national council or a convention were to ask for my resignation, I should tender it immediately."

Fire Losses Reported Much Lower Last Year

That the fire loss for the City during 1954 amounted to a little over $16,000 was shown in a recent report of Fire Chief H. H. Jewell, submitted to the City Council last night. Chief Jewell said that this was the lowest in the City for some time.

The Fire Department responded to 174 calls, 22 more than last year. Of the total, 17 were outside the City. The average attendance of members of the Fire Department during the year was 87%. The fires during the past year were not of a serious nature and consisted to a large extent of five fires, grass, cars or trucks on the street, overheated stoves; sparks on the roof and electric wiring.

The Fire Chief reported that all the Department's equipment is now in good working order but felt that the time had come for the purchase of a new pump-er, since the LaFrance machine is 25 years old and the Bickle Seagrave 13 years old.

An invitation was extended by the Chief of the Fire Department to have next year's Maritime Fire Chief's convention in Charlottetown. He was pleased to report that the invitation had been accepted. Mr. Jewell made reference to the fact that he had been appointed President of the Maritime Fire Chief's Association and that the Secretary of the local department, Mr. Leslie Gillespie, had been appointed President of the Maritime Fire-fighter's Association.

Think Tablets On Burial Place False

VATICAN CITY, (AP)—A Vatican spokesman said Wednesday wooden tablets purported to shed new light on St. Peter's final burial place are doubtless false.

The tablets were unearthed recently at Bettona, 90 miles north of Rome near Assisi. Latin inscriptions on them said that the ashes of the first Pope had been transported from Rome.

Msgr. Giulio Belvederi, a member of the Vatican's pontifical commission for sacred archaeology, said he believes the tablets are "absolutely false."

Msgr. Belvederi said he has inspected one of the three wooden tablets dug up by peasants, and expressed a belief that it "most likely dates from the 11th or 12th centuries." Inscriptions on the tablets indicated they dated from the third century.

The question is often raised "What are Music Festivals?" "What are their objectives?" These questions seem to me to be ably answered by the president of the Canadian Federation of Music Festivals in his 1954 annual report. I quote—

Competitions in music have been going on for a long time. The modern Festival is dated from 1905 when a Miss Wakefield of Kendal, Westmorland, England, held a competitive festival and formed an Association of Festivals. Competitions from which the present British Federation emerged in 1921.

However, competitions had been held during the 18th century and you may be interested in the following quotation from The Oxford Companion giving the syllabus for a competition held in October, 1783, complete with rules covering time, place, test pieces, adjudicators and entry fee:

"Singing on Monday, Nov. 10th at Coward Fricker's, in the Bell Inn, Corsham, by three or more companies of singers, each Company to sing two 3-voice songs, two 2-voice songs and two catches; The best singers to have two guineas, the second best, one guinea, and the third half-guinea. Proper umpires to be chosen by the companies. The music to be delivered to the umpires before singing; To dine precisely at one o'clock, 1s. 6d. No company to sing unless they dine.

The rules, by their nature, have to deal with the competitive elements, but the "Festival" side is the one of ultimate importance. The word implies rejoicing and thanksgiving and is originally religious in character. What are Festivals now?

We know that they give opportunities to perform good music, to perpetuate traditions and to maintain standards, and that they give these opportunities to thousands who, in many cases, have no other outlet of expression. It is primarily a grassroots activity, even if urban. A few competitors go on to higher levels, but many do not and are no doubt aware they will not before they enter.

I think all those charged with operating festivals must be stirred by this great unsolicited response to the challenge of a Festival. We prepare our syllabus, establish a date for receiving entries and then sit back. Quite often we are swamped by the deluge of entrants, and find our programs crowded and our adjudicators overworked by the necessity of dealing with greater numbers than we had anticipated.

This is a stirring experience and a great encouragement to those responsible for Festival work. There is no doubt that we are supplying a great need in the field of Canadian culture, that there is a great demand from our Canadian people for this means of expression.

And it means further, that there are far more people than many cynics suppose who respect great traditions and high standards and are willing to work hard and do their best to realize them.
