MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM HAROLD RODD

Wedding Of Local Interest At St. John's United, Moncton

A wedding of local interest took place in Saint John's United Church, Moncton, N.B., when Elizabeth Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas T. Curtis, Upper Blackville, N.B., became the bride of William Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon P.
 Rodd, Charlottetown, P.E.I.
 Rev. Dr. Archibald performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She looked charming in a ballroom length gown of white nylon mist.
 The elongated train featured a scooped neckline and elbow length sleeves edged with lace.
 Gathered puffs accented the circular skirt which was over Dutchess satin and crin-line. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her shoulder length veil fell from a crown of sequins.

The bride was attended by Miss Mona Hare who wore a gown of yellow nylon over ta-feta with matching accessories.
 She carried a bouquet of white and white mums. The groom was attended by Hans Nelson, and the ushers were Melvyn Baker and Donald Sprague.

The organist, Mr. V.C. Black-ette, accompanied by Orville Brown who rendered two duets.
 Mrs. Curtis chose for her daughter's wedding a blue print silk dress with white accessories. Mrs. Gordon Rodd, mother of the groom, wore a blue sheath dress with white accessories. Their corsages were of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Brunswick Hotel for approximately fifty guests. Mr. and Mrs. D.
 Murphy proposed the toast to the bride and groom.

The ceremony was officiated by Rev. Dr. Archibald, pastor of St. John's United Church, Moncton, N.B.

MARY HAWORTH

Mother Heartbroken Over Biased Daughter's Attitude

Dear Mary Haworth: I am the heartbroken mother of a married daughter, aged 27, twenties, married six years.
 My younger daughter Alice, now in college, always has been a quiet, loving, lovely daughter, thoughtful of everyone. She always has shown that she genuinely loves me and is grateful for anything I do for her.

Jessie, the older girl, is quite the opposite, saying hurtful things to or about me. When she comes to her former home town, she never has time for me, not even on Mother's Day. When I have had her for just a meal with me, she is always too busy.
 Yet she praises her husband's mother in the highest terms.

Her father and I have been separated for years and he makes his home with her. Recently she wrote to Alice and urged her to stay with her during vacation, as she (Jessie) doesn't like the environment at home. I have been told she would be better off with her, as "mother's home isn't really as it should be."

I have two old men and my father boarding with me. Don't you think I have just a meal with her heartbroken? Please advise me through your column. — H. B.

Dear H. B.: When parents can't make a go of their marriage relationship, it is not expected that their children will grow up undamaged, able to love their father and mother wholeheartedly (protectively or respectfully, as their character indicates) the one against the parents.

The pattern of the children's prejudices may be just as reasonable, if measured against the objective truth of the parents' relationship. Now, it reflects the children's confused convictions and panic reactions to their parents' going on and above their head and against their depth.

In the Province case, there may be a certain class significance in the fact that the elder daughter has paired off with her dad, against you. For example, Jessie may already have reached the age at which a girl-child becomes smitten with dad as the favorite parent — say, before your marriage. It is not before your marriage that you ald with the League prayer recited in union.

The minutes of the last general meeting were read and approved.

Roll call was answered by eleven members.

The treasurer's report was a read by Mrs. Gus MacDonald in the presence of the treasurer, Miss Anna MacLennan, and showed a substantial sum on hand.

Reports were then heard from the various convocations.

Mrs. Donald MacLennan was reappointed to look after the altar boys lockers.

The president asked that all members support the Blood Donation Clinic at Carleton Place, Ont.

The Reverend Director encouraged the members to consider the church work after which the meeting closed with the Act of Consolation to the Blessed Virgin Mary.
