Sanitation Is Stressed In Cannery Operations

TIGNISH — A one-day course in cannery operations and sanitation, sponsored by the federal and provincial departments of fisheries, held in Tignish Regional High School yesterday afternoon and evening, was largely attended by employers and employees from the Tignish area.

W. A. Murphy, officer in charge of the Charlottetown laboratory, acted as chairman and also spoke on canning qualities. He stressed the importance of the canning industry in the economy of the province and the workers' role in this field. Mention was made that the quality of the 1961 pack was better than usual.

R. L. Doyle, laboratory field representative from Charlottetown, dealt with operations inside the cannery. The speaker dealt mainly with processing lobster and referred briefly to other canned fish. Canning should be done so as to present a pleasing appearance to the consumer, he said and spoke about "dead lobsters" and "discoloring."

M. W. Mullen, chief bacteriologist for the Maritime area, Halifax, gave an hour long address on sanitation and displayed canned goods to stress his remarks on the need for sanitation in the cannery. Cleanliness, good organization and tidiness must be present at all times.

Poor sanitation affects the produce in the fish plant, he said. So very often a well is not properly protected against surface drain and carries bacteria along with rodents and

The meeting was presided over by the president, David Harper.

It was also decided to close the books of the association on Sept. 30 as the annual meeting will be held on the first Tuesday in October of each year.

Instant Tea Wins Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — Instant tea is tea. At any rate, it will henceforth be tea to the customs collector.

That's the ruling of the tariff board, made public Wednesday, upholding an appeal by an Ottawa importer of Nestle's instant tea.

The importer said it should fall within the classification of "tea" in the customs tariff. The revenue department had classed it in a tariff item which covers all imports not specifically enumerated in the tariff.

The tariff on tea is two cents a pound. The duty levied by the department was 20 per cent of value.

The board, in its ruling, outlined the process of making instant tea by evaporation of a concentrated tea beverage.

"When this substance is placed in a cup or other receptacle with water it forms 'instantly' either the beverage known as tea or, at least, a beverage claimed to be more or less undistinguishable from tea."

The board then concluded instant tea should be classified as tea, though it said instant tea is 100 per cent pure tea
