The Fate of Sir Richard's Resolution.

A TELEGRAM received on Saturday evening—too late for insertion—reports that the House of Commons voted on Sir Richard's resolution in the previous night, and rejected it by a vote of one hundred and twenty-four to sixty-seven.

Apart from this point, it was clearly demonstrated in the course of the debate that Canada is prosperous under existing circumstances, that the truly representative men of Canada are not, in any case, disposed to sell the birthright of British freemen for a mess of pottage, and that Unrestricted Reciprocity is impracticable unless accompanied or closely followed by political union.

"Promptly and Fully."

THE Patriot disputes the statement that the Government "promptly and fully" reciprocated the action of the United States Congress in making natural products free of duty.

Certainly, the Government had in view reciprocal trade in all the articles on the list, as set forth in clause nine of the Tariff Act.

"Since the discussion in the House last Wednesday relative to Canada placing on the free list certain natural products specified in clause nine of the Tariff Act, the equivalents of which have been placed by Congress on the American free list, the attention of the Government has been officially called to the matter by the Washington authorities through Sir Lionel West."

The question has been fully considered by the Privy Council and although clause nine is clearly susceptible of two constructions, the Government being desirous of carrying out its avowed policy of reciprocity in natural products, has decided to accede to the request of the Washington executive, and a proclamation will shortly be issued giving effect to the provisions of clause nine.

The afternoon gathering in the body of the large church presented a very beautiful appearance, the scholars, numbering over three hundred, being grouped in front of the pulpit, parents and friends occupying the remaining seats.

The remaining portion of the time was taken up with various exercises. An excellent fifteen minutes address by the Rev. Mr. Knight on "The Compensations of the Mission Work," a chorus by a number of boys followed by one from several girls, both of which contained the promise that the Brick Church will, in the future, sustain its reputation for the efficiency of its choir.

St. Peter's

BAND OF HOPE—ANNIVERSARY SERVICE.

THE anniversary service of the Band of Hope, in connection with the above parish, was held in St. Peter's Church yesterday afternoon. The service, at which there was a good congregation, began at 3.15.

Missionary Sunday

IN THE METHODIST PRINCE STREET CHURCH.

YESTERDAY the anniversary services of the Methodist Sunday School Missionary Society, held in the brick church were of more than ordinary interest.

The evening sermon by the Rev. Mr. Shenton was one of the finest efforts we have heard from the lips of that rev. gentleman.

Christian missions and the strong and earnest defenders of the faith in the great crusade against the powers of evil.

The Superintendent told a touching story, illustrating the missionary spirit as it existed in the school in the days of his boyhood, and a few encouraging words from the pastor brought to a close one of the best anniversary meetings of the society that has been held for many years.

Miss Duchemin, with the organ and the choir, rendered some beautiful music, which contributed largely to the interest of the occasion.

Obituary.

DEATH OF C. J. HALEY.

In a neat and beautiful casket, at Souris, awaiting interment, lie the mortal remains of C. J. Haley, of that place, whose spirit passed peacefully away on the morning of the 7th of April, at half-past six.

Mr. Haley had been suffering from paralysis for over a year, and bore his illness with remarkable patience. He was born in Portland, Maine, in 1835, and came to Souris about twelve years ago, where he since resided until the time of his death.

Immigrants.

The report of the Minister of Agriculture contains many interesting facts. The total number of immigrants, settlers and immigrant passengers who entered Canada last year was 175,579, against 122,591 in 1886 and 105,096 in 1885.

African Exploration.

The second expedition of Lieutenant Wissmann across Africa, has, as might have been expected, resulted in less discovery than his first and better-known journey, but has thrown additional light upon the evils wrought by the slave-trade, the extension of which has hitherto more than kept pace with the extension of European influence.

Preparing for the End of the World

The Adventists in Ohio are said to be actively preparing for the end of the world. Both the First Dayers and the Seventh Dayers believe that the present year will witness the crack of doom, the only difference between them being that the First Dayers fix the date, while the others simply say that the end is not far distant.

Concluding an open letter, addressed through the columns of the Toronto Globe, to the farmers of Ontario, Professor Brown, of the Ontario Agricultural College, an institution supported by the Province, says: "Farmers of Ontario, am I twenty-five per cent. wrong? If you can show this, even then you are doing well."
