Alberton Couple Celebrate 50th Anniversary Occasion

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lewis of Alberton celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary recently.

Edward Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis of the lower dock, near Alberton, and Mary Skerry, daughter of Captain and Mrs. William Skerry of Alberton South, were married May 15, 1913. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George Millar at the Alberton Presbyterian manse.

They were attended by the groom's mother, Mrs. Annie Lewis (later Mrs. Allan Methuall), and his brother, Harry Lewis.

Seven years ago Mr. Louis retired and the couple came to live in Alberton, after being in Cascumpec for 42 years.

They have three sons and four daughters: Harvey in O'Leary, Mrs. John MacFarlane (Annie), on Comoc, B. C.; Mrs. Glen Beaumont (Beatrice), on Edge's Landing, N. B.; James in Fredericton, N.B.; Mrs. Cecil Gray (Isabel) in Milo, Donald in O'Leary and Mrs. Bruce Currie (Mae) in Summerside. There are 33 grandchildren and five great grandchildren. On Sunday 32 members of the family had dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gray. Among those unable to be present were Mrs. MacFarlane, Mrs. Beaumont and James Lewis. Messages were received from them.

A three tier wedding cake, surmouted with miniature bride and groom, was cut in the traditional manner. On behalf of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were addressed by their granddaughter. Miss Audrey Gray, and the presentation of a trilite and a step-up table was made by Harvey Lewis.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

Morell UCW Units Plan Lobster Supper In June

The regular meeting of Morell U.C.W. Unit II was held in the church. Devotions for the evening were conducted by Mrs. Wendell Coffin. Hymns sung were "O Word of God Incarnate" and "Break Thou the Bread of Life." Mrs. Gordon Coffin explained chapter 9 of the study book.

The president presided for the business period. Minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. Roll call was answered by 11 members. The secretary reported she had received several letters of appreciation from ladies who had attended the Presbyterial at Morell.

There was a short discussion about the lobster supper on June 19 it was decided to leave this until a joint meeting of the two units. The secretary divided the clip sheets among the various convenors: Lunch committee for the next meeting are Mrs. Geldert, Mrs. Hatton and Mrs. Stanley Dingwell; leader for devotions, Mrs. Earl James; program: Mrs. Sterling MacSwain Jr.

The meeting closed by repeating Lord's Prayer in unison. Lunch was served by committee in charge.

On Thursday evening at the close of the regular meeting of Unit I, the members of Unit II met with them to discuss the Lobster supper of June 19.

It was also decided to redeem the coupons on hand for a dozen flatware.

The treasurers were asked to buy needs for the church kitchen from the kitchen fund donations.

EARNSCLIFFE C. W. L.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Tractors On The Fields Are Into The Seedtime

What will our weather be today? We wondered when this morning's twilight was fading into the bright of the dawn. Will we be favored with another sunbeamed day? Or the dim of clouds and showers?

"Ellen. . .Ellen," James spoke softly into the silence. "This lounging in bed late in the morning will never, never, do! How do we expect to get the crop in if we waste away the days? Let's have a little shame about us!"

And the first weekday of the new week, shaped and fashioned for the May - month was. . . well, could there have been one more pleasing than it, sun-filled and warm, to the farmers anxious now to get on with the cropping? How perfect the morning was when we came to spread our pieces of wash! "This chair now, I wonder," we overheard Mama Starling speculate, "if it would look better placed here, or over there?" There was a silence in their suite.

"I declare," she offered, "you aren't listening! No, you never heard one word I uttered. Not interested," she observed in hurt tones.

"Now, now, Honey you can't say that," Papa Starling protested. "I confess my thoughts were wandering for a moment. Do you know why? Then listen, Dear. There's a new sound on the air. Hear it? Tractors on the fields. Oats are at last into the seedtime!"

"I know. . .But this chair, where does it look best?"

"Lawsy, Honey, am I not thinking it over? And I can't actually decide. I only know that anywhere in this room, with you seated in it, it's beautiful, just beautiful to me!"

Mack came by on his bicycle on his way to school. Spring-repairs the wheel had received: replacements to ready it for the road. And additions. Among the latter, we noted the neat leathern case which holds the tiny tools, a Christmas gift from (cousin) Gage, and colorful streamers on the handlebars, in a gay touch which goes so well with the clean brightness of the spring.

"It won't be too long now before we get on the land," he offered. "I wish. . ." "Don't wish it," we said. "You'll have, it's likely, farming in plenty yet. But you will never have these schooldays again."

Doing the required Grade VIII work, Mack is. And happily, now that bilingualism is being more and more stressed in order that there may be more understanding between the two main races in Canada, he is finding French to be one of his favorite studies. But how can a lad lend an absorbing interest to his schoolbooks at this season, when everything else contrives to entice him out of doors?

"Mack," his dad called to him from the barnyard. "When you get home from school, perhaps you would take those old points from the harrows, and put on the new ones?"

"Yes," Mack replied. "And," he added in an undertone, obviously pleased at the thought, "if all goes well, I'll be the first to try them out in the field." And our today - where is it now?

"Rustle up a bite of something, Ellen," James says, coming in now from the night. "Why, it's not. . .!" he comments, in surprise, glancing at the clock. But it is! Quite time to put away everything, and acknowledge day's end.

Until tomorrow — — Diary— Good-night. . .

Mrs. R. Glover Meeting Hostess

The meeting of Murray Harbour United Baptist Missionary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glover. Mrs. Glover, president, was in the Chair. The meeting opened with Hymn, "There Are Showers Of Blessings." Scripture reading in unison and reading from Acts 22 12-22, were followed by prayer by Rev. A. G. J. Steeves. Devotion was "To be Christ Witness," read by Mrs. Glover. Roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture beginning with the letter V.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Marion White was in charge of the minutes. A gift of $5 is to be sent in toward the memorial of the late Mrs. J. F. MacNeill. Each family giving 50 cents to make it up. Mite boxes to be turned in next month, at the June meeting which is to be held at Mrs. Horace Hydes.

Mrs. Robert Glover was appointed convener for the June meeting. Mrs. Glover read from the "Overseas Missionary Digest" "Impressions of the Done Year" by Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Chase. Of Visiangron. The meeting closed with Prayer by Rev. Steeves. A quiz by Mrs. White followed.

The Ladies Aid had $4.04 from the small aprons pasted out at the last meeting. It was decide to use Mrs. Phillie Harris idea. To have a sunshine bag for the summer months and to put in a penny for each sunny day. And they are to be turned in at the September meeting. Mrs. Orrin Bell will make the bags which will be handed out at the June meeting. Lunch was then served.

Chapters To Unite In Holding Forthcoming Afternoon Tea

A meeting of the Anne of Green Gables Junior Chapter of the IODE was held at the Federal Building.

The meeting was opened by the regent, Miss Gail Carver, who led in the prayer of the order and introduced a guest, Miss Karin Bannister. Miss Marjorie MacInnis, the secretary, followed with the minutes of the last meeting.

The education secretary, Miss Mary Sommers, read an interesting note the International Peace Garden and Miss Wilma MacDonald acquainted the order with some important facts concerning the British Commonwealth.

The "Echoes" secretary, Miss Rosemary Gosbee, gave a brief account of the Easter project, which consisted of a visit to the retarded children at Sherwood Hospital with the distributing of Easter baskets and gifts.

Correspondence included letters from Mrs. Wood thanking the chapter for its thoughtfulness at Easter; from the Provincial Echoes secretary concerning the subscriptions to the IODE magazines.

The treasurer, Miss Wilma MacDonald, presented the financial statement showing approximately $21.00 on hand.

Plans were discussed concerning the approaching afternoon tea to be held at the home of honorary regent, Mrs. B. Earle MacDonald. It was moved by the second vice Regent, Miss Lynn Loftus, and seconded by the flag bearer, Miss Betty Moore, that the chapter unite with the Lady's Slipper Chapter for this forthcoming event.

It was unanimously agreed that each member should be responsible for the sale of at least five tickets.

The formal business being ended; the Queen was sung and lunch was served.

MARY HAWORTH

Master-Slave Situation Exists Between Twins

Dear Mary Haworth: When my sister died some months ago, her twins, 16, a boy and girl, came to live with me. I had seen little of them before, but expected they would be healthy teen-agers, who, once adjusted to their mother's passing, would be good company for me.

I am a widow, childless, comfortably situated, with plenty of room for them.

At first I was unbelieving; now I am disturbed and baffled. My sister was deserted by her husband early in marriage and possibly this prejudiced her against the male sex. At any rate it seems she favored the girl and treated the boy as a stepchild.

Years of playing second fiddle evidently caused the boy to feel inferior to his sister, who reigns over him like a queen. The fact that she is ahead of him in school does nothing to improve the situation at home.

She orders him about like a lackey, while he hastens to oblige her demands. He'll clean her room, pick up after her, wash and iron her clothes (expertly too), wait on her at table, run her errands and in general let her walk over him — if I don't watch carefully.

Nothing I say or do changes this pattern. The minute my back is turned she is bossing him about, while he reacts as if her word were law. I've heard her call him from the other end of the apartment to answer the phone at her elbow. If I assign her a chore and don't stand over her, she'll make him do it for her.

I am at my wits' end, trying to correct this master-slave arrangement and introduce a normal brother - sister relationship. Can you give me any ideas how to achieve this? L.V.

Dear L. V.: It is possible that you are contributing to the imbalance In the brother-sister relationship, rather than taking steps to try to correct the imbalance, as you think.

Your letter, here condensed, suggests that you may be treating the twins as a sort of domestic staff, requiring an endless amount of housework from them, as repayment of sorts for foster home board-and-keep.

If such is the case, the badgered boy — perhaps more heartsick than usual, since losing his mother and being transplanted to a new authoritarian environment (as to housing and schooling) — may be dancing to his sister's tune as never before, in a stricken excess of solicitude for both of them, not because he feels he must appease her.

His inordinate obligingness, under your roof, may be a "situational" phenomenon, fired by a feeling that he ought to protect her, insofar as he can, from your bossy attitude directed at both — but especially at her.

This may be why, or at least partly why, he is knocking himself out, when your back is turned, trying to do her share of the household chores you demand of them.

It well may be that the mother spoiled the daughter and neglected the son, for neurotic reasons, thus ingraining unduly self - abnegating tendencies into the boy's make - up. But it also may be that the lad loves his sister greatly, with a twinship sense of solidarity, and therefore feels a normal legitimate need to ventilate his deep affection for her in wholesome ways.

A renowned philosopher has said that "Work is love made visible." And possibly your nephew waits hand-and-foot upon his sister in this generous spirit.

In any case, it strikes me that you are off course, in your efforts to shape their character. Plainly you need first - hand professional guidance from a good family relations counsellor, in learning how to function as a leader in relation to the twins. Obviously you can't show them how to improve until you are moving awarely in the right direction. M.H.

Pres-Re-elected By Art Society

Miss Eleanor Lowe was re-elected president of the P.E.I. Art Society at the society's annual meeting Tuesday evening.

The slate of officers for 1963-64 was announced by Mrs. Ruth Barlow. Vice president is Harry Morris, secretary, Mrs. A.J. Hennessey treasurer, Miss Germaine Doucette, and exhibition chairman, Mrs. David MacNevin. Program committee members are Mrs. Guy Fichaud, Mrs. Malcolm Putnam and Mrs. Daniel Taweel.

A study of the history of arts was proposed as a project for the coming year.

Miss Lowe reported on the Maritime Art Association meeting held at Sackville last weekend at which Barry Bugden was elected president. Charlottetown will be the site of the meeting in 1964.

On behalf of the members, Mrs. Willard MacKay thanked Mrs. Guy Pichaud for her efforts in making the arts and antiques dinner and sale a success.

It was decided to hold an auction at the June 21 meeting to sell the decorations and the articles left from the "priced" table at the sale.
