Annual PWC Variety Show Being Staged By Students

The annual Prince of Wales Variety Show following the theme "Twentieth Century Revue" was staged last night at the PWC Auditorium before an enthusiastic audience.

The girls ensemble opened the show with a melody of the favourite songs of the century. Jazz numbers of the 20th century were played by the college band, under the direction of Norman Stewart. Paul Whelan and his chorus was a hit with their top tune of '62 "Big Bad Frank".

One of the favourite numbers was the selection "Tea For Two", sung by Faith-Marie McKenney. The piano solo "Glow Worm", by Lynwood Jay was very much a favorite. Win Smith, Dave Weale and Eldon Larabee brought down the house when they posed as the "Outhouse Troubadors". Lawson Drake, Bob Scott, Ivan Dowling, Doug Boylan and Keith Matheson, again staged their humorous composition of "The Still Alarm".

Other acts included in the program were a dramatization, comedy routine, recitations, tap dances, a quartet, the can-can, an old time band, trombone solo and other variety numbers.

The Flapperettes of 1925 brought the evening to a close. The show was under the capable direction of Elizabeth Anderson, John Townshend and MC Joe Ghiz.

The show will be repated again tonight.

Proposed Ferry Seen Top W. Prince Need

Robert Grindley (PC—2nd Prince) suggested in the Legislature last night that industrial development or increased tourist business will not improve the economy of West Prince County "until we have a West Point ferry service."

He was speaking in the Throne Speech debate.

Mr. Grindlay said that if a ferry had been in operation between West Prince and New Brunswick a few years ago, more careful consideration would have been given to locating the Seeman Bros. (Canada) Limited frozen food plant in O'Leary, the "centre of the potato industry." He said that "lacking direct communication with the mainland, I suspect the O'Leary area was passed over in favor of another site."

PARK PAVEMENT

Stating that clay roads in provincial parks create a dust problem, Mr. Grindlay suggested that the roads be given a light coat of pavement, "With traffic only in summer, the lack of full-year traffic would lessen damage and the dust problem would be solved."

Mr. Grindlay, pointing out that veterinary service for Prince County is not expected to be a reality until May, requested the minister of agriculture to consider appointing a temporary veterinarian to serve the area.

TO ENLARGE PARK

It was announced by Mr. Grindlay that the government had taken an option on the Yeo property adjacent to Green Park at Port Hill. "Negotiations are also underway regarding the purchase of additional property to enlarge the park," he said. "Green Park should be a federal sattelite park," he added.

Mr. Grindlay also announced that efforts are now being made to organize school districts in his area for the establishment of a regional high school. "I hope the efforts will be fruitful," he said.

Discussing cattle rustling, he told of steps being taken "to make it considerably more difficult to get away with cattle thieving."

Mr. MacRae praised the Maritime Co-operative Services Ltd. at Moncton for their work in marketing hogs. If they can't get their prices in the Maritimes, they'll ship them to Montreal or to some other centre where markets are better. "Consequently we are getting Montreal prices for our hogs here." the minister observed.

The minister gave full credit and expressed appreciation to the federation for co-operation in the effort to get more people to do a little job of extending their grain acreage."

Opposition Leader Alex Matheson reviewed the brief presentation briefly and criticized the fact that a fisheries federation brief presented last week had appeared in a newspaper before it was read in the legislature. "I hope", he added, "that this sort of thing is not going to happen with this one."

He agreed that government representatives should review producers' contracts with processing plants, particularly when public funds are involved in backing the operations.

It is extremely important, he suggested, that people grading at those plants be properly trained and highly skilled.

Witnesses Heard In Assault Case

The testimony of five witnesses for the complainant were heard in the case of John Kane, Charlottetown, charged with common assault in city police court yesterday before Magistrate A.J. Haslam.

The charge was laid by Herbert Stanley and alleges that the accused assaulted Douglas Stanley, 12-year-old son of the complainant, by striking him on the face with a hockey stick on the night of Feb. 13, at the Sports Arena.

The case for the complainant is being conducted by F. A. Large, QC., while the counsel for the defence is Allison M. Gillis.

CALLED TO ARENA

The first person to testify was Herbert Stanley, who told of being called to the arena where he saw his son lying on a table, with Dr. Therriault applying an ice-pack to his face, which was red and swollen.

After about 45 minutes, he said he took Douglas home where the ice-pack treatment was continued until the next day, Feb. 14, when the lad was taken to the family doctor, who ordered X-rays.

Douglas Stanley, the victim of the alleged assault, stated that he was near the Penguins dressing room door, when he noticed spectators along the board ducking. He did not know what for, and the next thing he felt a blow on the right side of the head.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Gillis, the witness stated "I don't think Kane tried to hit me with the stick; I think it was an accident."

BROTHER TESTIFIES

Barry Stanley, brother of Douglas, said he was standing near the Penguins players box and saw a crowd of people about 20 feet away. On going over to see what had happened the witness said he saw his brother lying on the floor.

Cross-examined, the witness said he didn't really know a thing about the alleged assault.

Leonard Gauthier said he was standing with Barry Stanley when he saw Kane swing his hockey stick toward the boards. Going over to the spot, he said he saw Douglas Stanley lying on the floor near the exit leading to the Penguins dressing room.

Cross- examined, Gauthier said that he did not actually see the stick hit either the boards or any person.

The final witness, Cecil Ladner, stated he was sitting a few feet from the spot where the accident occurred. During the third period of the game he said he had noticed spectators standing along the boards heckling Kane every time he skated past them.

He said he saw the stick being swung toward the boards, but did not see it strike anybody. He later saw the lad, Douglas Stanley, lying on the floor.

At this point in the proceedings, Mr. Gillis said the defence intended to call witnesses, and at his request the hearing was adjourned until March 8.

Also on the docket, two persons pleaded guilty to having possession of intoxicating liquor in a place other than their respective residences. One was fined $30 and costs, and the other $20 and costs. In both cases the alternative was 30 days in jail.

Of three persons convicted of being drunk and incapable, one was sentenced to 20 days in Queens County Jail, another was given a 20 day suspended sentence, while the third was fined $10 and costs or five days.

City Union Talks Slated

A few years ago the people of Parkdale, Spring Park and Sherwood, then known as Central Royalty, went to the polls to decide whether or not their respective areas should amalgamate with the city.

Spring Park voted for amalgamation and was taken into the city. Parkdale voted against the union and Central Royalty, although voting for union was not able to join because of the wedge Parkdale would drive into the centre of an eastwardly-expanded city.

Now more amalgamation talks are afoot and a meeting of delegates from Parkdale, Sherwood, West Royalty and the area termed "No Mans Land" as well as city representatives has been called for tonight to once again bring the idea before the public

Government Action Sought In Potato Top Difficulty

If high cost prevents general use of a non-poisonous potato top-killer, then the government should subsidize the chemical, it was suggested in the Legislature yesterday by Harold Smith (L-4th Queens)

He was completing his address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Pointing out that top-killers used in the past year have caused the death of a number of cattle and have been a hazard to the province's bird population, Mr. Smith said he hoped that the minister of agriculture will be able to find a non-poisonous top-killer.

Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae said a non-poisonous top-killer, known as reglone, is now available but its cost is high compared to the toxic type. "Do you realize the implications," asked Mr. MacRae, "of our subsidizing one brand of top-killer? It would provide excellent advertising for that one brand."

"You would have an excellent out," replied Mr. Smith, "if the top-killer could be shown to be non-harmful to livestock and birds."

"My department is giving the whole top-killer matter close attention," said Mr. MacRae.

PULPWOOD PRICE LOW

Referring to forestry, Mr. Smith said he deplored the fact that Island farmers are getting "only nine dollars a cord for pulpwood." He said he hoped that the provincial marketing director would look into the pulpwood market potential being offered by "the new mill at Port Hawkesbury," and that the market will offer an incentive to pulpwood producers.

It was also suggested that more consideration should be given to the growing of Christmas trees. "This could be a profitable thing," he said.

The 4th Queens member asked that the minister of industry and natural resources give consideration to providing a park that would include swimming and picnic facilities for the use of residents of Charlottetown and surrounding districts.

Mr. Smith suggested that persons who receive financial allowances while they are taking department of agriculture short courses, should, before the course is begun, be required to pass an examination. "I believe that at one recent course the students were there just for the $12 weekly allowance they received," he said.

POULTRY INDUSTRY SLIPS

According to Mr. Smith, the government should take a "positive look" at the province's poultry industry. Pointing out that poultry income is about "one-twelfth" of what is has been some years ago, Mr. Smith said "I feel the government is not doing enough in the poultry line."

Saying that he approved of the Summerside co-operative poultry pilot project, Mr. Smith cautioned against starting the project with "too large flocks." He said an inexperienced operation could lose a large amount of money in this way.

HUNTER RIVER — The members of the Hunter River Home and School Association voted in favor of a resolution being sent to all the Home and School Associations on the Island at its February meeting.

The resolution stated that the Home and School associations "go on record as being opposed to the spread of nuclear weapons to countries not now possessing them." The resolution is to be dealt with at the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Home and Schools.

A highlight of the meeting was the viewing of the film "None for the Road," distributed by the department of physical fitness and alcohol education.

Ten dollars was voted to the provincial executive to carry on its work.

The program for the March meeting will be a panel discussion with the participants to be chosen by the program convener.
