

Diverse Views To Mingle At Montreal Meeting

By FORBES RHUDE
 Canadian Press business editor
 TORONTO (CP) — Canada and Canadians will be seen through many eyes and from many points of view when the Duke of Edinburgh's second Commonwealth Conference opens in Montreal May 13 and sets out on its 25-day cross-country tour.

see people from many lands and cultures. Representatives will be here from 25 countries as diverse as the make-up of the Commonwealth. They will come from such new and under-developed countries as Nigeria and from the highly developed United Kingdom. Representatives from Ghana, Nyassaland and Fiji will be followed by those from Australia and New Zealand.

People from the tropics and the southern hemisphere will shake hands with David D. A. Jones, who will come down from the DEW line in the Northwest Territories.

HAVE MANY TRADES
 Most of them will be representatives of industry and trade unions. But also there will be G. W. King, who describes himself as a self-employed farmer from Gloucestershire; Maurice Bean, a stone mason from Bermuda; Dimitrios Charalambides, who runs a dairy farm in Cyprus; Herbert Shu-on Cheng, manager of a clock and watch company in Hong Kong; and Chang Ta Kang, owner of a stone and brick quarry in Sarawak.

There will be miners and mine executives; railway workers and officers; engineers; researchers; educationalists; managers; personnel men; government officials; and generally a representation about as wide as industry and trade unions. Names of 253 representatives, with some more to come, were announced Thursday from conference offices here.

All were chosen under a system set up by the conference but, in the words of the announcement, "they are not delegates from either countries or organizations and represent no one but themselves." The purpose of the conference is to study "the human consequences of industrial change in the Commonwealth and Empire."

WRESTLE WITH NAMES
 English-language Canadians, traditionally slow at catching onto strange names, will have some difficult ones to wrestle with. There are for instance: Augustine W. Bwanaisi, minister of labor and social development, Nyassaland; Akwasi Amoskhe, a manager and director, Narottom Lalbhai, president, Ahmedabad Mill Owners' Association, India; P. B. Olanrewaju, Nigerian Trades Union Congress; Abdul Latif Ebrahim, managing director, Husein Textile Mills, Pakistan; and Lau-

Canada's Role In Ouster Of S.A. Said Deplorable

By RUSSELL ELMAN
 OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's role in the withdrawal of South Africa from the Commonwealth was described here by the leading spokesman for Canada's mineral industry as "deplorable."

J. R. Bradfield, newly-elected president of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, started the closing session of the institute's 64th annual meeting with the remark:

"Most of us deplore the part our Canadian government played in South Africa leaving the Commonwealth."

Amid applause, the president of Noranda Mines Limited then sat down. After the session he declined to make further public comment.

The stage had been set by an address by South African mining magnate H. F. Oppenheimer, who said South Africa's "expulsion" from the Commonwealth was "a very grave mistake."

Mr. Oppenheimer, chairman of the Anglo-American Corporation Group, Johannesburg, said South Africa's withdrawal had set a "very dangerous precedent" for the Commonwealth as a whole.

One government's opinion of another was not the basis for Commonwealth membership, he suggested.

Miss Mary P. Garden, personnel department, Merck, Sharp and Dohme of Canada Ltd., Montreal; Miss Mary Jane Gilmore, staff employment officer, Dominion Textile Ltd., Montreal; and Mrs. Patricia Mimes, clerk, Outboard Marine Corporation and president of office local, United Steelworkers of America, Peterborough.

SOME STUDY HERE
 Some of the representatives are already studying in Canada. Hemendra Prabhudass, accountant from Uganda, is doing graduate study at the University of Western Ontario; Joseph Kachingwe, from Nyassaland, is at Condy International Institute, St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S.; and Shri Ramavarapu Sudhakar, mines manager from Calcutta, is studying commerce at Dalhousie University.

The largest representation out of the names announced Thursday is Canada's 77. Other larger representations are: United Kingdom 44; Australia 32; Rhodesia, and Nyassaland 16; Nigeria 12; India 11; New Zealand 10; Pakistan seven. Other countries represented are:

Aden, Antigua, Bahamas, Barbados, Bermuda, British Guiana, British Honduras, Brunel, Ceylon, Cyprus, Fiji, Gambia, Ghana, Grenada, Hong Kong, Jamaica, Kenya, Malaya, Malta, Mauritius, St. Kitts, St. Lucia, Sarawak, Sierra Leone, Tanganyika, Trinidad, Uganda.

MILK FALLOUT
 PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — About 250 persons were enjoying themselves at a cattle-breeders' banquet here until somebody whispered in the ear of George Craft, president.

Describing himself as "no lover" of the present South African government's policies, he said he was optimistic that South Africa could evolve a "humane solution" to its problems.

Canadians were lucky not to have to face such difficulties. However, he considered persons outside South Africa, including Canadians, had some "misconceptions" about the situation in his country.

Mr. Oppenheimer indicated that one path to solving South Africa's problems is the building of an African middle class with a real economic stake in the country. The government's nationalistic approach in seeking to establish a partition between the black and white race tended to disregard the economic facts.

A coast guard report on its investigation into the tragic sinking last Nov. 12 said Terry Jo Duperrault, 11, survived only through "five fortuitous circumstances."

The report said Harvey did not harm Terry Jo or her sister, Renee, "probably in the assumption that they would draw a U.S. Coast Guard Rules On Sea Tragedy In Nov.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The United States Coast Guard has ruled that the ketch Bluebell was intentionally sunk by Captain Julian A. Harvey and that Harvey's wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duperrault and two of the Duperrault children were slain by Harvey before the sinking.

The report said Renee drowned when the Bluebell sank but that her body floated because of a life jacket she was wearing.

The report concluded that Harvey, who later killed himself, recovered Renee's body and kept it to lend credibility to the story he would later tell after being rescued.

CITES CIRCUMSTANCES
 These are the circumstances the coast guard listed as probably having saved Terry Jo's life:

1. Harvey was prevented from assuring that she did not survive because a dinghy had gone adrift and Harvey had to retrieve it.

2. Terry Jo knew of a small balsam life float, was able to free it from the sinking ketch and climb into it.

3. Harvey was unable to locate the girl after the vessel sank.

4. The weather was mild enough to permit the 11-year-old's survival with no food, water, shelter, and with scant clothing.

5. She was almost directly in the path of the rescue vessel, Captain Theo, on the morning of Nov. 16 when the small life float was spotted.

The coast guard said circumstances would not permit determination of how the lives of the four Duperraults and Mrs. Harvey were taken or the order in which they died.

The report added: "The motives for the acts of Harvey cannot be ascertained. However, the fact that he was the sole beneficiary of his wife's insurance policy and that he was secretly in need of funds must be considered."

CNR Net Deficit Shows Increase

MONTREAL (CP)—The CNR reported a net deficit in the first three months of 1962 of $10,803,000, compared with a net deficit of $4,189,000 in the corresponding period of 1961.

Net deficit in March was $1,708,000, compared with net income of $343,000 in March, 1961.

The company had operating revenues of $166,972,000 in the first three months of 1962, while expenses totalled $177,775,000 in the corresponding period of 1961.

Operating expenses were $171,141,000 and operating revenues $166,952,000.

In March, the company had operating revenues of $58,455,000, compared with $59,075,000. Operating expenses amounted to $60,163,000, compared with $58,732,000 in March, 1961.

New War Use Seen Possible For Uranium

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian defence scientists are involved in a project to develop uranium in its natural state as a means of increasing the armor-piercing power of artillery shells and other ammunition, it was reported here.

The possibility that uranium may evolve as an important metal in non-nuclear military use was disclosed in an interview by Dr. John Convey, director of the federal mines branch.

He declined to elaborate beyond mentioning that the United States defence scientists had found uranium a more effective and more readily available substitute for tungsten-carbide in production of shell cores.

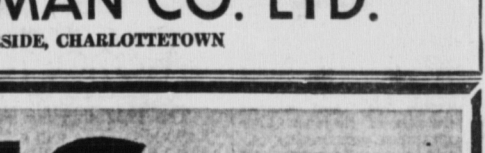

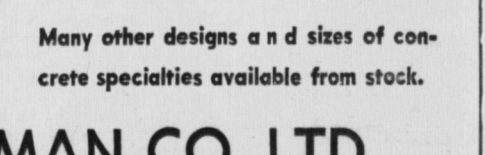

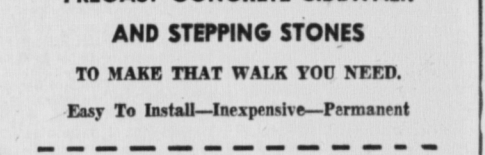

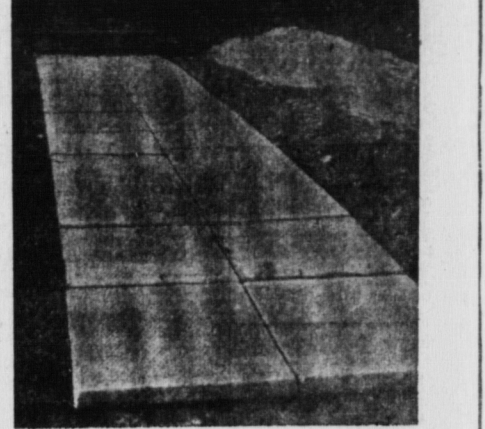

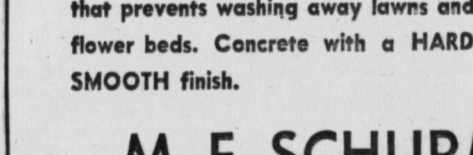

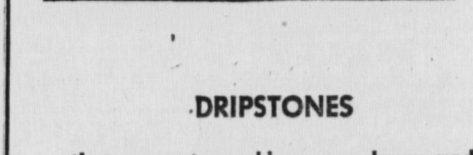

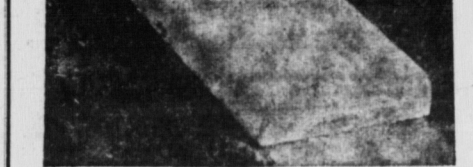

Describing this as "very urgent research for the armed services," he said in Canada "we are aware and involved" in this field.

Dr. Convey said a "blitz" attack, launched by the government in co-operation with the steel and other metal industries, has already produced significant results indicating a brighter future for the uranium industry.

However, he considered an even more vigorous approach, with industry playing a greater share in finding new uses for uranium, was needed within the next couple of years. The present annual expenditure of $300,000 on uranium research was relatively small.
