Nickel Prices Up

TORONTO (CP) — International Nickel Company of Canada announced Wednesday an increase in the price of refined nickel of 9½ cents (U.S.) per pound, effective today.

This brings the export price of electrolytic refined nickel, from Port Colborne, Ont, refinery, to 74 cents (U.S.) per pound, including the 1¼-cent U.S. import duty which is paid by the company.

At existing exchange rates the corresponding Canadian price will be 70 cents a pound, Canadian currency.

Similar increases were announced by the company's United States subsidiary, International Nickel Co. Inc., and its United Kingdom subsidiary, Mond Nickel Co. Ltd.

The price increase followed announcement by International Nickel that it would proceed with a $175,000,000 nickel development in northern Manitoba.

The increase, the announcement said, was "to deal with higher costs and to facilitate maximum production"

Similar price changes were announced for nickel oxide sinter and other forms of primary nickel. Corresponding increases also were announced for nickel and nickel alloys in the form of mill and foundry products produced at the plants of the American and British subsidiaries.

Show How Study Abroad Affects Can. Painters

OTTAWA (CP) — Sixty-seven paintings by 17 well-known contemporary Canadian artists will be shown at the National Gallery here this month, the gallery announced Wednesday.

Entitled Canadian Artists Abroad, the exhibition opens Friday and ends Dec. 31.

Aimed at showing the influences and changes on an artist's work as a result of study abroad, the exhibition already has been shown in London, Ont., Montreal and Windsor, Ont.

The Canadians studied in Brazil, Mexico, France or England, the majority of them on fellowships or scholarships.

Among the well-known Canadian artists represented are Montreal artists Goodridge Roberts, Alfred Pellan and Fernand Leduc and Jack Weldon Humphrey of Saint John, N.B.

Hope For More Cancer Patients

TORONTO (CP) — A group of cancer patients, who 18 months ago thought they had only a short time to live, now are receiving a second series of treatments by serum which may show a way to control the disease.

The first of them received their first inoculations shortly after Dr Gordon Murray, noted Toronto surgeon, announced in March, 1955, that he had found a substance which seemed to control breast cancer.

About a year ago, he said he was studying a serum to control intestinal cancer.

The serum is not a cure, he says. It would take years of research to determine even if they could control some types of cancer.

They are made from the blood of horses which have been injected with specific cancer cells. The horses develop anti-bodies which may be able to work to control the disease.

Newsprint Controls To End In Britain . . .

LONDON (Reuters) — Peter Thorneycroft, president of the board of trade, a government department, said Wednesday he intends to revoke Dec. 9 all statutory controls over the distribution and use of newsprint.

In a written reply in the House of Commons, Thorneycroft added he would end Jan. 1 the power he had to impose newsprint controls.

Thorneycroft said that the newspapers had agreed to take over the existing system of control for the next six months on a voluntary basis after the end of the current rationing period Dec 8.

Since the war, British newspapers have worked under a rationing scheme providing for a certain number of pages during a 12-week period. The number of pages to be used each day is up to the newspapers.

Delaware, first of the original 13 states of the United States, has an area of only 2,057 square miles.

CANADA'S FIGHT AGAINST INFLATION

CAN OUR DOLLAR KEEP PACE WITH OUR PROSPERITY?

It is for all of us to decide

"Sound money, by which I mean a currency that has the ring of dependable and abiding value, and sound prosperity go hand in hand. By exercising adaptability and moderation at times like the present, we work to win both.

"Much in the news and in the thoughts of Canadians during the past year has been the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects whose forthcoming report will paint a picture of what our economy may be like a quarter-century hence.

"I do not know what the report will contain, but I venture to suggest that its estimates of possible national production in 1980, expressed in physical terms or in dollars of constant purchasing power, may well stagger the imagination.

"We can have that kind of real prosperity, and we can have those dollars of constant purchasing power, if we so desire.

"Or, if we prefer to let prices rip whenever we happen to be trying to do too much too quickly, we can have a different kind of prosperity, much larger in dollars, but in dollars of much smaller value.

"It is for us to decide which kind of prosperity and which kind of dollars we want in the next twelve months and in the next twenty-five years."

GORDON R. BALL,
President
