Local and Other Items.

WHEAT is already heading out in Manitoba.

LOTS OF HAY.—It is said that the hay crop is so large in some parts of Ontario that farmers are unable to use it and are giving it away.

THE ROPED ARENA.—Peter Maher and Joe Goddard met on Friday night at the Lenox Athletic Club. Maher was given the decision in the eighth round.

GRADUATED.—Mr. Archibald Currie, of this city, after a thorough course of study at the P. E. I. Commercial College, has secured his diploma. We heartily congratulate him on his success. He has been a most diligent and faithful student and has thoroughly earned the distinction now conferred upon him. He has our best wishes for success wherever he may be. He is well known for his high moral qualities.

HAVING HIS DAY.—The dog seems to be having his day in Ohio. In that State it used to be lawful to shoot any unlicensed canine running at large. Now he is properly and protected by the law as live stock. We may be impounded as a cow may, if at large upon the streets, but if killed or maliciously injured the owner may recover damages. It is hoped that in this way the valuable dogs may be protected and the worthless curs made a costly luxury to their owners.

GRACE CHURCH PICNIC.—The management of Grace Church Sunday School picnic are determined that it will eclipse anything of its kind held this season. It will be held on Wednesday the 20th inst., in the immediate vicinity of the beautiful village of Cardigan, which is noted for its picturesque scenery, and also for its fine fishing resorts. We would advise lovers of sport and all others who would like to spend a pleasant day in the country, to make no other engagement for the 20th.

USE OF LIGHTNING RODS.—Thomas A Edison writes as follows to one of the editors of Popular Science News who had asked him whether lightning-rods really furnish any security to buildings: "There is no doubt whatever that the lightning-rods are a source of great protection when buildings are properly equipped with them. In doing this it is necessary to have metal of good conductivity, and a perfect connection with the earth at the bottom of the rod. If buildings are properly supplied with a sufficient number of lightning-rods, dependent upon their size and the extent of ground covered by them, I believe they are absolutely safe from all danger."

DOBSON AND HIS DOG.—The Railway News says: Pekin Dobson, of Cape Tormentine, N. B., bought, last Saturday, a bull dog for $3 to keep cattle off his farm. Sunday he took the dog out to try him, but instead of going for the cattle he flew at Dobson, who took shelter up a tree, where he remained three hours. The dog next tackled a fisherman from Prince Edward Island named James O'Hearne, and took of a part off one of his boots. He then went for the seat of O'Hearne's pants, which he demolished. He then hung on to the calf of his leg, when O'Hearne managed to cut its throat with his jack knife before the dog loosened its hold. O'Hearne then procured an axe and literally cut the dog's body to pieces, and intends bringing an action for damages against Dobson for letting the dog loose.

CARE OF THE PIANO.

A Few Hints on How to Keep the Instrument in Good Order.

It is well to sometimes rub the wires gently with chamois or a flannel cloth, and to pass a soft muslin over the sounding-board by means of a slender point which will slip between the wires and engage the cloth, which may then be carefully moved over the surface, taking off the dust. A steel crochet-hook or a stout knitting-needle will answer the purpose.

It is advisable to keep a little camphor gum inside the case; or if the moth miller has been attracted by the felt used in various parts, it will serve as a means of protection against the moth. The temperature of the room should be moderate, and as even as may be. Extreme heat that is drying should always be avoided, as when a piano stands as is often the case, too near a stove, a register or a grate fire. An instrument should be opened for a short time each day; if it is not much used this is especially desirable.

Often there appears a sort of gloom upon the case, or the wood looks dingy, and seems to be in need of cleaning. It is, however, very uncertain work to attempt to improve the fine finish of a piano with polish, so much of which is advertised as making a piano look like new. Instead of the method recommended and used by a professional tuner is one that may be safely tested, with the certainty that it will not be the means of gathering additional dust, as oils and polishes are apt to do.

Take the finest toilet soap and lukewarm water, and wash a little of the piano at a time, as you would wash a baby's dirty face, using a soft cloth, such as Canton flannel, working upon a space not larger than your hand. Wipe it off with clear water and rub well with clean Canton flannel, until it is perfectly dry and well polished. The fine soap does not affect the original finish in the least, but simply removes that which obscures it, and if rubbed absolutely dry, with a brisk motion, the result is that the piano is cleaned and brightened.

It has been held that consumption is hereditary, and the fact that one person of a family had died with consumption was considered a sure sign that others of that family could not escape it. This is partly true and partly untrue. A man with weak lungs is likely to transmit that weakness to his children. But there is no reason in the world why the weakness should be allowed to develop. Keep the lungs full of rich, red, wholesome blood, and the weakness will disappear. Decaying tissues will be thrown off, and new material will be added until the lungs are well and perfectly strong again. This is the thing that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does. This is what makes it cure 98 per cent of all cases of consumption where it is taken according to directions. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be in the body and forces them out of the system. It supplies the blood with rich, life-giving properties. It makes the appetite good, digestion perfect. Send 31 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page "Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated.

SLEEPWALKING.

Strange Things Men Do While in a State of Somnambulism.

Readers of that charming work of my late friend Wilkie Collins, "The Moonstone," will remember the sleepwalking feats of Mr. Franklin Blake when under the influence of an opiate. What the novelist describes as a piece of fiction may be paralleled from the sober records of science.

McNish, in his classic volume on "Sleep," tells us of a shepherd lad who, wrapt in slumber, walked miles to the place where his flock was pastured, waded through a river and returned home without waking. In another case a lad in his sleep scaled a precipitous cliff and brought home from it an eagle's nest, which was found under his bed in the morning.

Abercrombie's case of the Scottish lawyer who, when worried over a perplexing case, was seen by his wife to rise from his bed in the night is another illustration of the occasionally purposive character of somnambulism, when, directed by its private secretaries, the sleeping ego is apparently roused from its couch and made to act the part of a pure automaton. This individual went to a writing desk which stood in his bedroom, sat down before the desk and wrote for some time. Then, replacing the paper within the desk, he returned to bed.

In the morning he told his wife of a dream he had experienced, in which he imagined he had given a satisfactory opinion on the case which was troubling his mind. He expressed regret that he could not recall the train of thought represented in his dream. On his wife directing him to his writing desk, he found therein the opinion in question clearly written out and in every respect satisfactory.—Andrew Wilson, M. D., in Harper's Magazine.
