Popular Guardian Cartoonist To Leave For Bangor, Maine

Members of the Guardian Staff yesterday morning gathered in the newsroom to bid farewell to the newspaper's cartoonist, Vic Runtz who leaves at the end of this week to take up a position on the editorial staff of the Bangor Daily News, Maine, U. S. A. Mr. Runtz came to the Guardian in July 1948 and his daily cartoons with the ever present cat have been a great source of interest to the public and have endeared him to thousands throughout the Island. His sense of values were reflected in his cartoons which always dealt with every day topics pertaining to the local community. He never failed, when it was possible, to inject editorial staff of the Guardian. Mr. Lyn Burnett, Managing Editor of the Paper looks on. The cat, it will be observed, is all packed for the trip and will ride in the cartoonist's pocket. It would seem from the expression on Kitty's face that he is a bit sad at leaving Charlottetown.

Start Work On Air-To-Air Missile For The R.C.A.F.

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — Preliminary tooling up for production of an air-to-air missile in Canada for the RCAF has begun, it was disclosed Tuesday. Government officials said a licence has been obtained to manufacture the Sparrow II missile in Canada. The Sparrow was developed in the United States by Douglas Aircraft Company and Sperry Gyroscope Company. Industry sources revealed that work basic to production of the Sparrow in Canadian plants has started. Five firms will have a share in Sparrow production — Computing Devices of Canada, Canadian Westinghouse, Canadair Ltd., de Havilland Aircraft Company and Avro Aircraft Ltd. It probably will be three or four years before the missile, with a range of four to five miles, is in operational use with the RCAF. This will make 11 to 12 years in all since plans were laid down in 1950 for acquisition of an air-to-air missile for the air force. The Sparrow will comprise the main armament of the successor to the CF-100 jet interceptor now in squadron service. This may be the supersonic CF-105 now being developed by Avro. The CF-100's main armament is an unguided rocket carried in wingtip pods. Each pod carries some 24 rockets. The Sparrow originally was scheduled to form the armament of a Mark VI version of the CF-100 but the Progressive Conservative government cancelled a contract with Avro for production of this model, partly as a $100,000,000 economy measure. The Canadian aviation industry has long complained that Canada still has no missiles of any type or any means to manufacture them. The trade magazine Aircraft said in its November issue that the Sparrow II will not be produced in the U.S. that any further development work will have to be carried out in Canada. This, said the magazine, will re-create the situation encountered with the Canadian-developed Velvet Glove missile, abandoned in 1955 because the Sparrow was considered superior. In early 1950, the defence department embarked on a project to equip the RCAF with air-to-air missiles. Eight months later, the first Velvet Glove was test-fired and it was expected the weapon would be in production by 1957. By after an expenditure of $24,000,000, Velvet Glove was dropped and plans were made to obtain licences from the American firms involved to manufacture the Sparrow in Canada.

AGRICULTURAL NEWS

P.E.I. Department of Agriculture
HON. EUGENE CULLEN
The Honourable Eugene Cullen, Minister of Agriculture wishes on behalf of the staff of the Department of Agriculture to extend to all the Farmers of the Province best wishes for prosperity, progress and happiness in the New Year. The Green Light
The recently issued report to the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects entitled "Progress and Prospects of Canadian Agriculture" lends assurance to the view that there is an encouraging future for the livestock and meat industry. The report is backed by a great deal of study and research on the part of the commission's technical staff, as well as the sifting of briefs presented by four organizations and other industry groups. The last few years have shown marked increases in the livestock population here on the Island, especially in cattle. If we consider the potential markets close at hand and organize our industry for the production of volume and quality of product, the advancement of Agriculture will be marked. This of course requires the co-operation of all concerned for the development of the various phases of the industry. To substantiate the thoughts here are "The Highlights" of the Commission Report as reported by the Meat Packers Council of Canada. THE HIGHLIGHTS

By 1965 Canada will have 25 per cent more people with 18 per cent more income per person; by 1980 there will be 70 per cent more people with about 70 per cent more income per person. By 1965 Canadian consumers will want about one-quarter more meat, eggs and poultry per capita than they consumed in 1955; by 1980 consumption of these products will rise by about 150 per cent. Total meat consumption in 1980 is estimated at 4½ billion lb. compared to a 1951-55 average of 2 billion lb. By 1965 output of cattle will have to increase 8 per cent and hogs 20 per cent to meet estimated requirements, with a very substantial further increase in hogs and cattle output needed between 1965 and 1980. By 1980 over-all livestock output per improved acre may rise by 90 per cent over the 1951-55 level. Basic populations of active hogs and poultry may rise by 35 per cent, 50 per cent and 38 per cent respectively.

New Joan Of Arc Admits Nervous Before Curtain

By CHRISTINE STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer
MONTREAL (CP)—Ginette Letondal, who has spent 23 of her 27 years on the stage, modestly attributes part of her success to "coward's courage."
The Montreal actress is to play the role of Joan of Arc in "The Lark," by Jean Anouilh. The play was chosen as the first production of the new Theatre de la Comedie Canadienne, due to open in a few weeks.
Miss Letondal shows an unconscious kinship with Anouilh's Joan, who tells the weak French king, "We're all a little cowardly, Charles. The whole scheme is to be afraid before the battle begins."
MASTERS FEAR
Says Miss Letondal: "I'm a great coward, too, before the curtain goes up, but somehow I master my fear and rise to the occasion."
The theatre plans to present the play in French and English on alternate nights. Ginette is bilingual.
Gratien Gelinas, well-known actor and director of the new theatre, says of her: "Miss Letondal has the capacity to make of St. Joan a good or even great creation. She has 'le metier'—an accumulation of experience and talent and judgment."
A knowledge of Joan as a historical figure will help her to play the part, Miss Letondal said in an interview. Learning it in two languages gave her deeper insight.
DIFFERENT VIEWS
"The English are inclined to regard Joan as a heretic who talked directly with God and defied the church," she said. "The French see her as a devout girl whose downfall was brought about by the bad priests."

Committed For Trial In Local Wounding Case

At the conclusion of the preliminary hearing in City Police Court Tuesday morning, Harry McGee, 19-year-old resident of Charlottetown, was committed for trial in the Supreme Court by the presiding magistrate, K.M. Martin.
The case arose following a scuffle that took place Christmas Eve on Sydney Street near the corner at Queen. The accused was arrested the following morning and charged with wounding with intent.
At Tuesday's session the evidence of the Crown's last witness, Cst. Hugh MacKinnon of the City Police Force, was heard. When asked by the magistrate, the accused stated that he did not wish to give evidence in his defence at this hearing. Counsel for the accused is J.O.C. Campbell, Q.C., and for the prosecution John P. Nicholson.
The case of a Charlottetown resident charged with drunken driving was further remanded until today after the defence had called three witnesses to the stand.
A drunk and incapable and a drunk and disorderly were both remanded in custody for one week.
"Then suddenly I wanted to forget all about acting and become a night club singer."
But the old urge to act came again. Slowly she began to work at becoming an adult actress.
"I had to begin all over again. Directors did not think I was very good. It was not easy."
Directors in radio, television, film and stage now are constantly seeking out this petite beauty. What she calls "coward's courage" they call a healthy respect for the effort needed to play a part well.

Space Travel Is Proved Possible If Report True

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—If Moscow reports are true, a daring Russian astronaut has kicked open some of the doors to human space travel.
Such a feat would prove human beings can survive the initial to the moon.
One of these is the tremendous and sudden pull of gravity at rocket takeoff. His body must have felt as heavy as stone or lead when the rocket accelerated so fast that his weight was, in effect, increased six times or more.
And—still assuming the truth of Moscow reports—he came back to earth.
He could have been riding in a sealed cabin or container near the nose of a huge rocket.
At the top of his flight, or sometime soon after, this container could be separated from the rocket by explosive charges, then parachuted home.
This space-seeking Ivan would have a thrilling story to tell.
For a time, he came weightless in part of his flight. Briefly he felt a strange floating sensation, with no sense of up or down, or any direction.
TOLERANCE IS PROBLEM
How well humans can tolerate this sensation is one of the problems in space travel. Humans aboard space ships coasting to the moon would be in this condition for days or weeks.
His total journey upward in the rocket and the beginning of his descent could last only a few minutes.
But it would take him into a fantastic electrical sea. From some 50 miles high to his top rung of 188 miles, he'd ride through the ionosphere, the sea of electrified atoms which reflects radio waves back to earth.
This writhing electrical ocean is created by cruel ultraviolet and x-rays from the sun which rip electrons out of atoms of oxygen and nitrogen.
WOULD ENCOUNTER RAYS
The radiation would melt the rocket, and x-rays, at least, likely shoot through the man.
Just how dangerous this radiation, plus cosmic rays, may be for humans in space ships is another of the problems of the coming space age. This reported human experiment could give some hints.

Discuss French Dictation Drill

The Teachers-Workshop met at Eldon School on Dec. 3 with a good attendance. After 1½ hours were read and approved, a discussion was held on geometry problems and the question of teachers dictating French to the pupils.
A discussion was also held on an item in the question box at the fall convention re pensions for teachers who have been out of the profession for an excess of ten years.
Mrs. Phillip Ross reported that a central workshop would be held at Montague before the Easter Convention.
Mrs. Ross also invited the members to her home for the next meeting, Jan. 7. She also suggested that the teachers of this workshop further their education by studying a few subjects at our meetings.
Lunches for a social hour were provided by the Eldon W.I.

Votive Candle Causes Death

RARITAN, N.J. (AP) — A devout spinster, offering a votive candle at the altar of St. Anne's Roman Catholic Church, died in flames Sunday night when her clothing caught fire.
Miss Luigia Notari, 76, whose life revolved around the activities of the church, was alone at the time. But a young parishioner who stopped by to pray found the church filled with smoke and summoned police.
Two officers found Miss Notari her garments still ablaze. They put out the flames but she already was dead.
Friends said Miss Notari always wanted to be a nun but lacked sufficient education.

Breadalbane Has Concert

The annual school concert of Breadalbane village school was held in the hall on Saturday, December 21st at 8.15 p.m. when a large number of interested persons gathered to watch the children perform.
Chairman for the evening was Mr. Harold Toombs, who capably performed his duties and after a few remarks announced the following program.
Opening Chorus, Deck The Hall, followed by "A Welcome" by David Kennedy.
Recitations were heard from, Nellie Toombs, Grace Craig, Wayne Ripley, Terry Hutchinson, James Craig and Carl Kennedy.
Two humorous monologues — "What are you going to be Charles?" by Alan Hickox and "Mother Smiths Sewing" by Arlene Hickox were enjoyed by all.
Much laughter was caused by dialogues, the first being "The concert rehearsal" in which Florence Kennedy played the part of Mrs. Ernest H. MacDonald, Mrs. Peter MacQueen, Lorna MacDonald.

C. B. C. To Carry Speech Thursday

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC said Tuesday it will carry President Eisenhower's state of the union speech Thursday on the trans-Canada radio network at 12:30 p.m. EST (1:30 p.m. ADT). There will also be a telecast at the same hour on the CBC's television network from Quebec to Winnipeg.
GOOD CITIZEN
VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Vernon's "Good Citizen" for 1957 is Rt. Rev. A. H. Sovereign, 76-year-old retired Anglican Bishop of the Yukon.
The program closed by choruses "Jolly Old St. Nick" and "Here Comes Santa Claus", after which the jolly old man arrived and distributed gifts to children and teacher. The W.I. presented all children with a generous treat of candy, nuts and apples.
Mrs. James Snowie was organizer for the evening. During intermission candy was sold by pupils. The goodly sum of thirty-three dollars was realized and will be used for school improvements. An enjoyable evening came to a close by singing the national anthem.

Nudity Seen Police Target

MONTREAL (CP)—Police Director Albert Langlois summoned owners of 40 night spots to his office Tuesday amid expectations that the boom is to be lowered on the revival of semi-attired showgirls.
The meeting coincided with a caustic New Year message from Paul Emile Cardinal Leger, Roman Catholic archbishop of Montreal, who deplored "cabaret of debauchery" and liquor-dispensing clubs where youth "loses both soul and body."
The girlie boom, a throwback to past practices, began rolling last summer when showgirls stepped out of their usual roles as decorously-attired dancers, singers or instrumentalists to provide exotic dance routines or blatant strip-tease performances.
